FRENCH NOW PRESS FOR A DEBT ACCORD ON BRITISH TERMS

FINDS BURDEN 'CRUSHING'

Other Papers of the Capital Take the Line That the Whole Problem Now Depends on Us.

WASHINGTON SPEEDS WORK

Hopes to Wind Up Debts at Next Session of Congress—Czechoslovakia Asked to Send Mission.

PARIS, Aug. 28.—Paris today is doing a good deal of thinking about the debt arrangement made in London this week by those two astute gentlemen, M. Caillaux and Mr. Churchill. Feeling is divided on whether a very smart move has been made or whether something has been done which will hamper the Washington negotiations, for which the Finance Minister sails on the 16th of next month. An interesting note is that in the French capital the authorship of the debt plan is freely attributed to the British Chancellor of the Exchequer.

What the London agreement amounts to is this: England says to France, "Pay us at the rate you pay America and we will call it square." The rest is trimming, and the figure cited is only relative and of very tentative importance, since the British know there is no chance of America's going below 2 per cent., which the British Government named as the proper figure for payments by France to England, and inferentially the just rate for payments by France to the United States.

However, when all is said, and even if Americans think England is unfair in placing on their shoulders what Europeans regard as the dirty work of settling the interallied debts, yet the British proposal certainly does serve to place before the world the fact that France has to look two ways in settling her foreign obligations.

French Position Clarified.

Then, too, it may be said that the Caillaux-Churchill agreement clarifies the position of France so far as the Washington negotiations go, because if M. Caillaux had gone to Washington without any arrangements with England, Americans might well have said that France could count on the annulling in large part of her debt to England. Now M. Caillaux can answer eloquently that he can count only on having to pay England the same percentage he pays America, and he may with all confidence be expected to argue that 3½ per cent. interest, plus amortization charges on France's debt to England and America, is more than his country can pay, and then wait for Americans to make the next move.

It may be suggested that at that stage the American negotiations may ask the French Finance Minister if there is any arrangement between him and Mr. Churchill for disposition of any surplus which may come to England over and above what England pays America annually. It is the understanding that England still rests on the position that she will collect from the allies and Germany only what she pays the United States. Were she to get $20,000,000 from France, $5,000,000 or $6,000,000 from the allied debtors and $15,000,000 from Germany she would obviously receive more than she pays America. Where would the surplus go?

An indication of what is to be the European criticism of America when she asks 3½ per cent. on the French debt is given in various newspaper articles today, which glibly proceed to calculate what France must pay after America has made her settlement on the 2 per cent. basis held up before the world by England as what is fair and just.

The Temps shows little enthusiasm for the proposal.

"The reasons for which Mr. Churchill made his proposal are none of our business," says the Temps. "It is purely an Anglo-American affair. But we can't help saying that pretensions to increase our payments to England in proportion to what we pay the United States scarcely conform to the principle affirmed by four successive British Governments, according to which England would ask her European debtors only for what she pays America.

Hopes for Same Terms Here.

"We hope the American Government will reduce its demands in accordance with the sacrifices made by England and that it will not assume the terrible responsibility of destroying the French-British agreement and impose unacceptable charges upon us and thus render impossible the financial restoration not only of France but all Europe. We think that the £28,500,000 which we shall have to pay, England and the United States if America meets the British proposal will constitute in itself a crushing burden."

The information says the agreement will have heavy consequences in the negotiations with the United States and adds that the entire country is behind Caillaux in the declaration that France

France in Role of Creditor Hears Rumania's Debt Plea

PARIS, Aug. 28.—With two powerful creditors tugging at her purse strings, France had the agreeable experience today of initiating debt discussion in which she can enjoy the pleasures of the creditor position herself. But, inasmuch as this debt discussion concerns only Rumania, whose Finance Minister, M. Bratiano, had a long talk with MM. Briand and Caillaux today, the French Government is not deluding itself with the belief that results will be of immediate importance to French finances.

In fact, while M. Bratiano told MM. Briand and Caillaux his Government was ready to proceed to regulate the indebtedness to France and would shortly send a commission to Paris to work out details, he in the same breath announced his Government, of course, could not be expected to pay its creditors more than it could collect from its own debtors.

SUES SPENCE SOCIETY FOR RETURN OF SON

DOESN'T KNOW WHERE HE IS

Institution's Counsel Says Plaintiff Had Relinquished All Claim to Lad.

Mrs. Margaret Henderson, a nurse, of 1,531 Westchester Avenue, the Bronx, obtained a summons from Magistrate H. Stanley Renaud in Harlem Court yesterday for the Spence Alumnae Society, whereby she hopes to force the return of her four-year-old son, David. She told the Magistrate that her son was being kept away from her through false representations made by the society.

According to her story, she arrived in this country two years ago, leaving her husband and four other children in Scotland until she could establish herself in New York and sending for them. After experiencing difficulty in finding work, she answered an advertisement of the Spence Alumnae Society last March which offered to adopt a child, acting as the agent for a wealthy family. On April 18 she took the boy to a Mrs. John Cornell, who was then in charge of the society.

Mrs. Cornell told her, she says, that a wealthy family in California wanted the boy, and she signed papers with the understanding that she could reclaim her child in six months if she wished to do so. She attempted to recover the child a week later, but declares that she was put off by the Spence Society and Mrs. Cornell, who said that the child had been vaccinated and could not be returned for several weeks. At another time, the mother says, she was told that the boy was at the seashore. She does not know the name of the family that had her child.

Accompanied by her attorney, Bernard H. Sandler, Mrs. Henderson visited Assistant District Attorney Charles White to complain of what she called the fraud perpetrated on her. The summons she obtained is returnable next Monday.

At the offices of the Spence Alumnae Society a caretaker said that the building was closed until Sept. 16 and that she did not know where Mrs. Cornell or any other officer of the society could be reached. The lawyer for the society, Orlando P. Metcalfe of 331 Madison Avenue, was out of town when an attempt was made to communicate with him yesterday afternoon. John Caldwell Myers of 66 Broadway is to appear as counsel for the society Monday morning. He said that both Mr. and Mrs. Henderson had signed unconditional surrender papers for the child. The boy was then turned over to the Spence Alumnae Society for adoption, he said.

Mr. Sandler said that he had asked Mr. Metcalfe for information about the case yesterday morning, and had been told that the business of the society was private and not open to public inspection. When he visited the offices of the

Sir Almeric FitzRoy Says Wilson Was to Be Told He Was Unacceptable.

PIQUANT TALES RELATED

MANY ON QUEEN VICTORIA

One Recounts How She Went Twice to Sleep While Conversing With Balfour.

LONDON, Aug. 28 (AP).—A statement that King George was much disturbed in 1912 by the fear that William Jennings Bryan would be sent as Ambassador to England by President Wilson is contained in the memoirs just published of Sir Almeric William FitzRoy, who retired in 1923 after serving for twenty-five years as clerk of the Privy Council.

Sir Almeric, writing under a 1912 date, in regard to a meeting of the Privy Council, says:

"Morley (the late Viscount Morley, then Lord President of the Council), found the King very much disturbed lest the new President of the United States should send Mr. Bryan as Ambassador to this Court, and it was agreed that Bryce (the late Viscount Bryce, then Ambassador to Washington) should unofficially be dropped the hint that such an appointment would be unacceptable."

LONDON, Aug. 28.—Sir Almeric FitzRoy, who as Secretary of the King's Privy Council for twenty-six years probably had greater opportunity to gain an intimate knowledge of the "great, wise and eminent" British Empire than any living man, caused a political and literary sensation today by the publication of his memoirs.

Sir Almeric, reviewers say, is making a bid for fame as a modern Pepys. He is severely handled by some critics for "forgetting his position" in his anxiety to make public the record of piquant stories of English Kings and leading figures in public life, including many now dead.

"Blazing indiscretions" some term the memoirs, while others find them fascinating and defend their telling by asking, Why write reminiscences unless one has something interesting to tell?

From his home at Blackwater, Hampshire, Sir Almeric, who is now retired, today vigorously defended his book. "The Privy Councilors were not my masters and I am as free to speak my mind about them as about anybody else," he said.

A story of how the late King Edward once listened to an address from Lord Pembroke while he was having his corns cut is widely discussed. "The story is told," writes Sir Almeric, "that Pembroke went to the palace to inquire if it would be convenient for the King to receive an address and found his Majesty having his corns cut. The King asked him whether he had the address with him. On being told he had, said the King: 'Why not present it now?' Pembroke replied that he had not the Lord Steward's wand, which is supposed to be de rigueur on such occasions. 'Oh, never mind,' said the King, 'take my umbrella,' and rather to Pembroke's consternation the ceremony was performed under such novel conditions."

Stories About Queen Victoria.

Winston Churchill, Lloyd George and Asquith all come in for sharp digs, and tales of Queen Victoria draw a vivid picture of the Victorian era. There is a story about the venerable Queen with Lord Balfour and another about the emphatic language Queen Victoria used when it was suggested to her that some yeoman should be sent to Cowes to grace the reception to the German Emperor upon the occasion of his first visit to his grandmother.

Mrs. Wilson Without a Home In Geneva, Despite Her Lease

GENEVA, Aug. 28 (AP).—Although she has leased the famous Château Bartholoni for the month of September Mrs. Woodrow Wilson is in danger of not possessing a place to live in when she reaches Geneva next week. The present occupants of the château insist on remaining until Nov. 15, maintaining they are entitled to do so under their lease. Efforts by the agents to induce them to leave the premises have thus far failed.

Knowing that it is the wish of Mrs. Wilson to follow the proceedings of the League Assembly next month, because of the part played by President Wilson in establishing the League, her friends here are working desperately to secure hotel accommodations for her. Up to the present they have not succeeded, as everything in Geneva was reserved weeks ago.

Would Gladly Have Left All to Him, Document Asserts—He and Sons Are Executors.

The will of Mrs. Jane Norton Morgan, wife of John Pierpont Morgan, who died at her Glen Cove home on August 14, was filed in the Surrogate's Court at Mineola yesterday. By its terms Mrs. Morgan leaves all her property, other than her estate in Hertford County, England, to her children, the estate in England being left to her husband.

Mrs. Morgan said in her will that she would gladly have left everything she possessed to her husband, but that he preferred that only the English property be left to him. She also bequeathed to her husband her personal property in her English home and her home here, and the remainder of her personal effacts were left to her children—Henry Sturgis Morgan, Junius Spencer Morgan, Mrs. Francis Tracy Pennoyer and Mrs. Jane Norton Nichols. Her husband and her sons, Junius Spencer Morgan and Henry Sturgis Morgan, are appointed executors without bond.

Text of Mrs. Morgan's Will.

Mrs. Morgan's will follows:

"I, Jane Norton, wife of John Pierpont Morgan, of Matinicock Point, in the County of Nassau and State of New York, make this my last will and testament, hereby revoking all wills at any time heretofore made to me:

"First, I direct my executors to pay all my just debts and charges of administration;

"I should have like to give everything I possess to my dear husband, but he prefers that I should only leave him my property in England, known as the Wall Hall estate, formerly Altenham Abbey, and other real property situate in the County of Hertford, and also the use during his life of my household effects in the United States;

"Accordingly, I do hereby give, devise and bequeath all of said property, known as the Wall Hall estate, formerly Altenham Abbey, situate in the County of Hertford, England, in the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, together with all other real property situate in the said County of Hertford, England, of which I shall die seized or possessed of whatsoever tenure same may be, together with all buildings upon any of said properties erected and appurtenances thereunto belonging, and also all personal property of every nature, belonging to me in and upon said premises and buildings, to my said husband, John Pierpont Morgan, his heirs, executors, administrators and assigns forever.

Tells Wish on Disposition.

"I hope that my said husband may wish to arrange to leave the said property jointly to our two sons, but by this expression I do not intend to restrict in any way his absolute ownership and right of disposal of said property.

"Should my said husband not survive me, I give, devise and bequeath all of the said properties, real and personal, buildings and appurtenances, situate in the County of Hertford, England, to my sons, Junius Spencer Morgan Jr. and Henry Sturgis Morgan, and to the survivors as joint tenants and not as tenants in common, their heirs, executors, administrators and assigns forever.

"If said property, real and personal, buildings and appurtenances, shall vest in my said husband or either or both of my said sons, the same shall be free from any and all power of sale or other disposition thereof by my executors.

"I also give and bequeath to my said husband for his own use during his life all furniture, furnishings, pictures, silver and plated ware, ornaments, bric-à-brac, books, linens, china, glass and other articles of household equipment belonging to me which may be in our dwelling in the United States or upon the premises therewith connected and direct that neither he nor his estate shall be held accountable to any one for any consumption, use, damage, loss or injury in respect to any of said articles.

HARD COAL INDUSTRY DIGS IN FOR A STRIKE; MAINTENANCE FIXED

Disputants Agree on Keeping Up Property—Predict Idleness for 6 Weeks to 4 Months.

COOLIDGE TO DELAY ACTION

Said to Hope Whole Arbitration Movement Will Gain Impetus From Present Situation.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Aug. 28.—Anthracite operators and mine workers cleared decks today for the coal strike. An agreement on the status of maintenance men which the mine workers held to be an advance over previous agreements was written by the Anthracite Conciliation Board and was sent out as a supplement to the strike order issued yesterday.

Before leaving for their homes to prepare for the strike on Sept. 1 the operators met and listened to a report of Chairman W. W. Inglis of the Negotiating Committee, who urged that a firm stand for arbitration be taken so that any settlement made should be permanent and provide for a readjustment of the wage scale from time to time.

The proposal for a sliding scale of wages made today was suggested for the first time. It caused some surprise among the mine workers, who held it to be a trial balloon. Although the suggestion was not conveyed officially to them, the mine workers were quick to reject the idea of a sliding scale, declaring that they were relieved of the "serfdom" of such an arrangement in 1912 and would never return to it. They pointed to conditions in the British coal fields which, they asserted, were the result of the sliding scale of wage payments, and under which the scale "slid only one way—down."

Strike Headquarters Established.

The district leaders of the miners arranged to be in their district offices in a day or two. John L. Lewis, President of the United Mine Workers of America; Vice President Philip Murray and Secretary-Treasurer Thomas Kennedy remained at the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel, which will be temporary strike headquarters. The operators will have their headquarters at the offices of the Anthracite Operators' Conference here.

An impetus was given to the anthracite operators' declarations that a strike would lead to the use of bituminous coal and other substitutes by a conference of soft coal operators at the Bellevue-Stratford this morning. It was said to represent 150,000,000 tons of annual production. The operators, representative of the largest bituminous interests in Pennsylvania, Maryland and Northern West Virginia, discussed plans to dump 5,000,000 tons of low volatile bituminous coal in New England and the Atlantic seaboard States. An extensive advertising campaign to educate the anthracite consuming territory in the use of bituminous coal was discussed.

This afternoon representatives of the New York Central, the Pennsylvania Railroad, the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad and the Western Maryland, carriers of coal from Pennsylvania and Maryland mines, met with the coal operators and adopted tentative plans to oppose the recent Interstate Commerce Commission ruling which lowered rates on soft coal from Southern West Virginia to New England.

On the ground that the Interstate Commerce Commission ruling discriminated in favor of the Southern West Virginia carriers and operators, by lowering rates and establishing through routes to New England, it was proposed that the operators and carriers petition the commission either for a modification of the ruling, a rehearing or a reargument. Final action will be taken at a meeting here next Wednesday.

The decision of the Interstate Commerce Commission was intended to make it easier for the population of New England and the Atlantic seaboard States

SMITH CARRIES FIGHT ON HYLAN TO QUEENS; MAYOR ANSWERS HIM IN A RADIO SPEECH; CRAIG SAYS HYLAN PUNISHED LABOR BANK

POINTS TO CITY PROGRESS

Charges Ingratitude to Hearst After Editor's Support in Campaign of 1918.

Mayor Hylan enumerated the achievements of his Administration last night when he used the municipal broadcasting station WNYC to reply to Governor Smith's speech of Thursday night. Replying to Governor Smith's charge that he had dealt with the Klan during the Democratic Convention at Madison Square Garden, the Mayor repeated his denial of any such negotiation.

Taking up Governor Smith's charge that he had been used by Hearst at Syracuse in 1922 to fight the nomination of Smith for Governor, Mayor Hylan accused the Governor of showing ill grace in trying to "besmirch" the publisher whose aid he had sought in the Gubernatorial campaign of 1918.

The Mayor endeavored to connect Governor Smith with the "traction interests" and Wall Street through the United States Trucking Corporation, of which the Governor until recently was Chairman, the Morris Plan and the National Surety Company, of which he said the Governor was a director.

The Mayor also criticized the Governor for denying him the right to a third term as Mayor while Mr. Smith was serving as Governor for a third time.

The Mayor's Speech.

Mayor Hylan's speech follows:

Governor Smith's address in Brooklyn last night, which was substantially a repetition of the 5,000-word speech he delivered before the Speakers' Bureau at Tammany Hall, may be interpreted as his declaration of principles. He cites the problems of the city, but offers no solution for those problems. Referring to the City Administration, he says, "Nothing has been accomplished." As the people of New York are interested in performances rather than phrases, let me recite briefly some of the things which the present Administration has accomplished:

Two hundred and four new public schools provided, 192 of which will be available for the school children this Fall. These schools provide 243,579 sittings, a number equivalent to the total population of the following cities in New York State—Poughkeepsie, Watertown, Oswego, Lockport, Dunkirk, Middletown, Ithaca, Watervliet, Ogdensburg, Cortland, Fulton, Rensselaer and Oneida. We have appropriated $40,000,000 more for school construction than was appropriated by all the previous Administrations for twenty years.

Better police protection: major crimes reduced 33 per cent.; organized vice and gambling broken up; traffic improvements; signal systems copied all over the world.

Better fire protection: complete motorization of equipment.

Garbage incinerators erected, others under construction.

Hundreds of miles of new sewers laid, treatment plants erected to dispose of sewage and prevent pollution of rivers.

Tammany City Ticket Wins First Place on Primary Ballot

The Tammany city ticket, Senator James J. Walker for Mayor, Major Gen. Charles W. Berry for Controller and Justice Joseph V. McKee for President of the Board of Aldermen, won first place on the Democratic primary ballot yesterday at the drawings for position at the office of the Board of Elections, and Mayor Hylan and his running mates took second place.

John J. Lyons, former Secretary of State, won first place among the Republican Mayoralty candidates, with William M. Bennett second and Frank D. Waterman third.

CRAIG SAYS HYLAN HIT AT LABOR BANK

SEES ATTEMPT AT COERCION

Money Transferred to Chase National at Low Interest—Unfairness to Labor Charged.

Controller Charles L. Craig entered the row between Mayor Hylan and organized labor yesterday. Breaking his silence in the primary campaign, the Controller charged the Mayor with taking $250,000 away from the Federation Bank, a union institution, and turning the money over to the Chase National Bank, which the Controller characterized as "the cradle of the B. M. T."

He accused the Mayor of having withdrawn the city funds from the union bank to force Peter J. Brady, President of the bank and a prominent labor leader, to align himself and other leaders on the side of the Mayor in the primary campaign.

Controller Craig's charges followed a statement by James P. Holland, President of the New York State Federation of Labor, that the Mayor had started "reprisals" against organized labor for its failure to align itself with him. Mr. Holland made his statement on Thursday night in Syracuse, where he was presiding over a session of the Federation.

A resolution seeking to attack the Mayor was sidetracked at the sessions, but the Mayor, anticipating that it might be adopted, had telegraphed an attack on Brady and Holland to Joseph A. Mullaney, Chairman of the Resolutions Committee at Syracuse. When Holland heard of the attack he called it "wanton abuse," and said he thought the Mayor was "hysterical."

No reply from the Mayor to the charges was forthcoming last night. Philip Berolzheimer, City Chamberlain, when asked about the charges said:

"It is too silly and ridiculous to answer. Some one is trying to place a wrong construction on routine business."

Controller Craig's Statement.

City of New York.
Department of Finance.
August 28, 1925.

Yesterday Mayor Hylan addressed a telegram to Joseph A. Mullaney, Chairman of the Resolutions Committee of the State Convention of the Federation of Labor at Syracuse, expressing his "deep regret" that Peter Brady, a well-known labor leader, and now President of the Federation Bank, was opposed to Hylan's nomination and re-election for a third term as Mayor.

Mayor Hylan, however, carefully withheld from the Federation of Labor that he had secretly instructed Philip Berolzheimer, Chamberlain of the City of New York, to withdraw $250,000 of New York City treasury moneys from the Federation Bank, of which Peter Brady is President, and which sum had remained on deposit there for some time past. This action is typical of Mayor Hylan's method of attempting to make himself Czar of New York. He calculated that Peter Brady would be so terrorized by the withdrawal of such a large sum that he would abandon all of his conscientious convictions and political affiliations.

It was a plain attempt by Mayor Hylan to use his official authority to influence the political action of Peter J. Brady and his coworkers in the Federation of Labor to throw their support to Hylan in his contest for perpetual succession of himself. Hylan's recent attempt to intimidate

SMITH ASSAILS DEMAGOGY

McKEE DENOUNCES HEARST

Thomas J. Dwyer Says a Friend of the Mayor Told Him He Would Bolt the Primary.

Carrying the fight against Mayor Hylan into Queens, Governor Smith in a speech last night at Public School 93, in Ridgewood, attacked the Mayor for lack of accomplishment and failure to provide for the city's future and practically assailed him as a demagogue.

Humorously referring to the Mayor's declaration that he was a "fighter," the Governor said that much of the trouble was that the Mayor had been nothing but a fighter and had fought with nearly everybody during the last seven and a half years, and added that if fighting ability was the main qualification for a Mayor, he would suggest that the people elect Jack Dempsey or Johnny Dundee.

Governor Smith took up his grade-crossing elimination program, which Mayor Hylan has attacked and which is a particularly vital problem in Queens, and declared that the Mayor had opposed it because he didn't know what it was about.

Discussing some of the Mayor's recent charges, the Governor said that it had been the custom of the Mayor to attack any one who was against him as a gambler, a grafter or a servant of the interests. He asked his audience to which class, according to the Mayor's definition, he belonged and to which class the thousands of Democrats opposing the Mayor's renomination, including those present at the meeting, belonged.

The Governor was late in arriving, but was received with the enthusiasm that usually greets his appearance in New York City. Other speakers at the meeting were Senator Walker, General Charles W. Berry, candidate for Controller, and Justice Joseph V. McKee, candidate for President of the Board of Aldermen.

Governor Smith said, in part:

"We are engaged in a little family row. The intent, purposes and spirit of the direct primary law are operating for the first time since its enactment twelve years ago. It was designed to take away from the political bosses the say on who the candidate would be and give that right to the people. That is why we are in controversy today. It seems unlikely that Mayor Hylan will be able to understand that. He talks about 'a man nominated by Tammany Hall.' You know as well as I do that nobody has been nominated by Tammany Hall as yet.

"The battle for the direct primary was not an idle move. It was a strong, vigorous contest for the establishment of a definite principle, namely, control of the party nominee by a majority of the people.

"What could go further to heal the rancor in the party caused by the convention? If the last Presidential candidate of the Democratic Party had been chosen by the direct primary, we would have been saved infinite damage done by that convention during the ten days it was in session.

Who Is Best Equipped?

"The question is, Who is best equipped to give the people during the next four years a sane, sensible and progressive administration of their affairs? That cannot be determined by Mayor Hylan or Senator Walker, but by the people. All this talk about pool room kings, the interests and the big gambler—why, part of it seems to me to be borrowed from the Follies, where they started the expression about the 'big butter and egg man.' Don't forget this, friends: The standard of ability is the measure of one's accomplishment. The Mayor says of himself, 'I have been fighting for the last seven years.'

"What does that mean? If we want a fighter, we ought to elect Johnny Dundee or Jack Dempsey. I maintain that that is just the trouble. He has been fighting with pretty nearly everybody who didn't agree with his ideas.

"We have to take the Mayor by his written or spoken word. He has just written a letter to Senator Copeland. Bear in mind that we have to take him on his word. There is no civil service examination for Mayor.

Criticizes Letter to Copeland.

"He speaks of graft and privilege in this letter to Senator Copeland. That means that any one not in accord with him is in one of two classes. He is either a gambler or he is lined up with the interests. That's an extraordinary statement, and any one who makes a statement like that is not fitted for public office.

"No explanation can be put forth in

British Bandits Copy American Methods; Motor Car Used to Rob London Jeweler

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 28.—Apparently jealous of the daring exploits of American gunmen, England's brand of desperate bandits staged a regular Chicago thrill at one o'clock this afternoon in the thickly populated Bayswater district. Two men in a motor car, after casually purchasing cigarettes at the end of the block, re-entered their car and drove slowly to the entrance of the John Brilliant Jewelry Company, at Queensford. While the driver kept the engine going his companion jumped out of the car, dashed across the pavement and smashed one window of the jewelry store with a huge wooden mallet. Thrusting an arm through the window, he grabbed $10,000 worth of diamonds, emeralds and ruby rings and then stepped back into the motor car, which soon disappeared, going sixty miles an hour, before the startled proprietor, his clerks and a number of customers in the store had time to make a move to stop the bandit.

The proprietor of the store got a glimpse of one of the men, but among the hundreds of people in the street none seemed to realize that anything unusual was going on, or rather, having in mind what American bandits have done to those who have tried to interfere, they decided that discretion was the better part of valor in a crisis which did not concern them.

At midnight last night two armed bandits held up a Belfast taxicab and after robbing the driver poured gasoline on the taxicab and destroyed it, then fled.

England has been recently congratulating herself upon comparative freedom from crime waves, such as America has experienced, and the police are wondering if English bandits, whose endeavors are none the less sensational than those of their American counterparts, are foolhardy enough to try to imitate the examples recently set by Chicago outlaws. Aside from the unusually daring activity now experienced here, however, "getting away with it," which to British observers seems part of every hold-up in America, cannot be so easily arranged on an island entirely surrounded by water.

Mrs. Ford Brings In $100,000 Gems Duty Free; Calls Paris Home Despite Divorce Testimony

One of the passengers who arrived yesterday from Cherbourg and Southampton on the Cunarder Mauretania was Mrs. Maria M. Ford, a wealthy American, who has lived in Paris for the past ten years, where she had the reputation of being one of the best-dressed women in that city of fashion. Mrs. Ford had declared herself to be a non-resident of the United States and therefore entitled to bring in all her jewels and gowns, worth more than $100,000, duty free.

It was pointed out to her on the pier by the customs officials that in testifying in a case in the Paris civil courts last July she had declared herself to be a resident of New York City. This was admitted by Mrs. Ford, who said that one was liable to say anything in Paris and that such statements should not be taken seriously.

The customs officials decided that Mrs. Ford should be admitted as a non-resident, as she had not lived in the United States since 1915. Her statement in the Paris case was regarded by them as one that did not affect her status in this country.

A diamond necklace and a well-matched pearl necklace were admired by the customs officials when they examined her jewel case. When asked about her winnings at Deauville this Summer, Mrs. Ford smiled and said that it was all right in the end, but the beginning of her adventures at the green tables was not so good.

"During the first two weeks," she continued, "I lost the equivalent of $70,000, and then I moved over to the banker's table, where chemin de fer was being played with a minimum bet of 25,000 francs. That is the equivalent, roughly, of $1,000. I sat next to Citroen, the maker of automobiles which are the flivvers of France. My luck changed and I won steadily until I had got back the $70,000 I had lost and won 2,000,000 francs in addition, which is about $80,000. Then I decided that I had had enough excitement at the Deauville gambling tables."

Mrs. Ford said she had not decided how long she would remain. She said she had business to attend to and many old friends to visit before returning to Paris.

defense of that statement. There are many forward-looking Democrats in this city tonight who do not believe that Mayor Hylan should get another term. I certainly believe that he should not be renominated. And what class do I go into. Am I a grafter or am I with the interests?

"After looking over the crowd at that great outpouring last night in Kings and this one here tonight in Queens, it seems to me that the ranks of the grafters contain some pretty decent-looking citizens.

"The Mayor says he has no quarrel with me. I have no quarrel with him. He certainly didn't support me for the nomination. That's what he thought about me then."

"The Mayor says that he helped elect me. I did everything I could to elect him. I spoke for him in this building four years ago when I should have been attending to the horses and trucks. I made a nominating speech for him on the steps of the City Hall, and I'm satisfied that I made better speeches for him than he could make for himself.

Denounces Insinuation.

"I think the meanest trait that you can find in any public man is the trait that suggests to him that he insinuate something. It's the trait of the demagogue, and I think we all concede without argument that the Mayor is the past grand master of the Order of Insinuation and Innuendo. If I have anything to say about a man's fitness and character, I never think it personal. I speak it out as a duty.

"Now the Mayor the other day referred to my connection with the New Haven rate case. Why, bless your soul, I don't know a thing about it. The Public Service Commission has made a thorough study of it and has given its decision. And the only question in my mind is: Is that decision right; not is it popular?

"One fatal weakness that runs all through the Mayor's public character is in this State and in this city we have a Government of law and not of men. The men in high executive positions do that which the laws say they can do. How many people last Fall when they voted for me did so with the notion that I was going to sit down and study rate cases?

"That is what we have got the Public Service Commission for. They receive more salary than the Governor. They are appointed by the Governor and, after he appoints them, can only be removed by a two-thirds vote of the Legislature. That's the law.

"Does Mayor Hylan mean by this senseless insinuation that there was a corrupt act done? If he has any evidence he ought to submit it to me so that I can submit it to the Legislature.

"It was intended as an appeal to popular prejudice, and the public man who stoops to that means comes to an end sooner or later, because there is nothing of substance behind it.

"All this talk about the people's fight smacks of a joke. No one can decide but the people. I'd like to make a decision. Yes, and I would be willing to take the full responsibility and I would be able to come to Queens three or four years from now and say, 'We made no mistake; we picked a man of foresight and understanding.'

"I feel particularly keen on this subject because by no stretch of the imagination can any one figure how a Republican can be elected Mayor of the City of New York. There is no more chance of the people putting a fountain pen maker at the head of their Government than there is that I should become a fountain pen maker. Thirty-five years ago that may have been all right. The Governor had nothing to do then but to march around with soldiers.

"All this talk about the business man is very good. Business men in business, pushing buttons—a fellow puts his head in the door, the boss says, 'Go do so and so,' the fellow goes out the door and the boss says, 'Well, I got the job all done.'

"But you can't do that in Governments."

The Governor repeated his assertion that progress in government must necessarily be achieved by compromise, and declared that Senator Walker through his long legislative experience was particularly well fitted to cooperate with other men to get things done.

"Can you imagine the Mayor as leader of the majority in the Senate with not a vote to spare?" the Governor continued. "Why, appropriations would not be made even for his own salary."

Explains Stand on Grade Crossings.

The Governor then explained the program to eliminate grade crossings.

"New York City is a victim of its own growth," he said. "We have grown so that we have to pay some penalty for it. Not so many years ago I rode through Queens County on a bicycle, and Queens County had all the aspects of a rural community. After you left Jamaica you passed a few scattered houses before you came to Roach's Beach, at Far Rockaway. Far Rockaway then was a Summer resort. It was closed in the Winter. I'm expecting the State census figures to show a population for Queens County of pretty close to a million people.

"This great growth has made grade crossings a menace to life and limb. This is not a new problem. The State has been dealing with it quite a while. Following the accident at the Forsyth crossing on the Central lines, I suggested to the Legislature a remedy for the evil growing out of grade crossings. I think the evil of this accident better than anything else describes the inability of the State to do anything about it."

The Governor then explained the proposal to raise $300,000,000 by bond issue, which will be voted on this Fall. He explained that it was proposed out of this money to pay the State's quarter share and to finance the railroads and communities for their share of the cost of a comprehensive grade crossing elimination program. In this way, he said, the State would lend its money to the railroads and the railroads would pay it back with interest. He added that after he had succeeded in having the resolution for submission adopted by the Legislature after considerable opposition Mayor Hylan had the following to say about it:

"I'm for the elimination of railroad grade crossings, but I am for such elimination at the expense of the railroads and not at the expense of the people, and I shall oppose in the future, as I have in the past, any gift of $300,000,000 to the railroads."

"What could be more pitiful than that?" the Governor continued, after reading from the Mayor's letter. "The Mayor hasn't the slightest conception of what this whole thing really means. He doesn't seem to be able to understand it."

The Governor then said that 483 grade crossings had been removed during the last twenty-seven years, which, he said, was only 10 per cent. of all the grade crossings in the State.

"Meanwhile, if the Mayor has his way, the situation will go on as ever," the Governor continued. "At this rate, it will require 270 years to eliminate all crossings. They will probably be eliminated on the day that we open the new subway.

"The total cost of elimination of all grade crossings in New York City aside from Eleventh Avenue in New York is estimated at over $50,000,000. Of this, in Brooklyn and Queens, there will be $38,710,000. Only $11,000,000 goes to Brooklyn. The balance is to be spent in Queens. Your Republican representative from Queens County knows what this is. The up-State Republican leaders couldn't take the Republican Senator from this county away from grade crossings.

Says Hylan Doesn't Understand.

"Is the opposition of the Mayor a new thing? Not at all. A year and a half ago he appeared before the Mayors' Conference and asked the Mayors to disapprove the plan. He knew nothing about it. He has found out nothing since except that he is against it. He tried to keep it out of the Democratic platform at Syracuse. He was unsuccessful because the Platform Committee understood, and they further understood that he didn't understand.

"There's a humorous side to it, and I like to look at the humorous side of it once in a while. And here's the humorous side. At exactly the time the Mayor made this statement in the letter five Republican Senators held a conference in the Hotel Ten Eyck at Albany. And when the result of the conference leaked up to me, I found out that their real objections to the grade crossing are that too much money comes to the City of New York and too little goes to the Republican counties that produce the Republican leaders."

"The Mayor made during the last three years a great outcry against the New York Central tracks along Death Avenue. He was protesting against running the trains along that street because of the danger that was in it. And yet after all these years there are more trains running along Death Avenue than there ever were. If I owned a railroad I'd want Mayor Hylan to stay in City Hall forever.

"You have got to make your plans for the future. Why, I was the first Governor who ever planned ten years ahead. Mayor McClellan looked ahead. He started the Queensboro Bridge and the Delancey Street bridge and the Canal Street bridge. He looked ahead for the traffic that was to be. There wasn't very much traffic going over to Queens when he put up the Queensboro Bridge. He went up in the Bronx and he purchased the land for the great Bronx Park. He bought it on the acreage basis—I think it was thirty-five acres. You couldn't buy that land nowadays for millions. Queens ought to have a park like Bronx Park, just as big. And the time to do it is now.

Says Hylan Lacks Vision.

"What have been the accomplishments of the Mayor for the future? What have been his big public improvements for the future? He has been too busy fighting the interests. He is unable, in my opinion, to keep up with the business of today without taking on the future.

"I have the strongest interest in this City of New York that any one could have. It arises out of my spirit of gratitude to this city. Last year, when the dark clouds of defeat hovered over the city, I got up the next day and found that thanks to the great vote of this city I was standing above the wreckage.

"After a short vacation of only six days I went to work in that job with all the strength, with all the purpose and with all the earnestness that is in me. That is why I come down here to this city in August, devoting virtually all my Summer to it, in order to see that the right man goes into the City Hall. I do it out of a spirit of gratitude to the people of this city.

"In Senator Walker, General Berry and Judge McKee the people will have the right men."

The desire of Tammany to emphasize the assertion that the Mayoralty contest is in part one between Governor Smith and William R. Hearst was indicated by the speech of Justice Joseph V. McKee, candidate for President of the Board of Aldermen.

"I tell you people," Justice McKee said, "that you must make your choice between the finest and most upstanding Governor this State has ever had—I mean Alfred E. Smith—and William Randolph Hearst," adding an attack on Mr. Hearst's public record.

Thomas J. Dwyer, former Deputy Commissioner of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity, caused another stir in the audience, already roused by Justice McKee's attack on Mr. Hearst, by declaring that a member of the Mayor's cabinet had informed him that afternoon that the Mayor intended to run at the general election anyway, if he were defeated in the primaries.

Senator Walker, who did not arrive until nearly 10 o'clock, was received with enthusiasm. The hall, a comparatively small one, was crowded, and it was estimated that there were about 1,500 men and women present.

Senator Walker brought cheers by declaring that he did not intend to make his campaign one of personalities.

Mr. Walker repeated his review of his record on five-cent fare legislation and declared that his attitude on the elimination of grade crossings would be the same as Mayor as it had been as minority leader of the Senate, when he voted to submit the $300,000,000 bond proposal sponsored by Governor Smith.

Walker Bars Personalities.

Senator Walker said:

"In this, my first appearance in Queens as a candidate for the nomination of the Democratic Party for Mayor, I desire to reiterate, not only in justice to my distinguished colleagues, General Berry and Judge McKee, but also in response to the affection and gratitude I have for the people of New York, my determination that this will be a campaign of issues, and not of personalities. Evidently my oppponent wishes this campaign to be strewn, as are his beaches, with garbage and filth. Under no provocation will I descend to the gutter with this man. I do not believe the enrolled Democrats of this city wish their candidate for Mayor to befoul his hands with slime.

"One need not discuss the necessity of improved subways for Queens County. The rapidity of its growth, the natural demands of its commerce, the comfort and the health of its people require the very best transportation that human ingenuity can devise, and that is the kind I am going after. For digging subways you need a pickaxe, not a thorax.

"That part of my declaration of principles which provides for the prompt adoption and execution of a comprehensive plan for increased traffic facilities applies particularly to Queens, since its needs are acute in this respect. I am especially in sympathy with the demand of this borough for such new bridges and tunnels as shall give quick and convenient access to Queens from the two great boroughs across the river, Manhattan and the Bronx.

"I shall always be mindful of the needs of this tremendously growing community in all its aspects, including your highways, your boulevards, your beaches and your park system.

"With a view to the future and benefit to posterity, now is the time to provide for parks and playgrounds, and what territory coming under the jurisdiction of the elected officials of New York City provides more natural facilities and greater beauty than does the County of Queens? Why not provide for it now, when the cost is within our means, and not wait until it is beyond the ability of the city to purchase? Let us try to emulate the statement of yesterday, who, with a view to our comfort, made provisions fifty years ago for the wonderful park system that the County of the Bronx can brag of today. As a matter of gratitude to those who have gone let us think of those who are to follow them.

"I believe I have the right to expect that any pledge from me will be accepted as sincere, because there is a background of sixteen years of not only loyal but successful public service to guarantee any pledge I make. That, together with the fact that the man who has done more for the State of New York than any other individual I have ever known or read of, a man who has as great an understanding and as great a love for the City of New York as any other, is here upon this platform to sustain my candidacy—I mean his Excellency your Governor, the Hon. Alfred E. Smith."

MUSICIANS ENDORSE WALKER.

Candidate Pledges He Will End Competition by City Bands.

Senator James J. Walker, Tammany designee for Mayor, received the endorsement of the Musical Mutual Protective Union yesterday at a meeting at Yorkville Casino, and told more than a thousand of its members that he liked music but disliked to hear a public official play the same tune for every dance for seven and a half years.

"I like good music," he said. "I like harmony, but I cannot stand for the discord of playing people for fools for a long time."

Senator Walker was introduced by Anthony Mulieri, President of the union, who declared that its thousands of members were unalterably opposed to the policy of the Hylan Administration in permitting bands of the Police, Fire, Street Cleaning and other city Departments to compete with professional organized musicians.

Senator Walker said he was in favor of keeping the uniformed public servants of the city at the work they were paid for and pledged himself to let the professional musicians "work out their own livelihood not only without the opposition but with the help of the city."

HYLAN AND FRIENDS REPLY TO SMITH

COHALAN TURNS TO LATIN

Declares the Mayor Won't Compromise—Hearst Editorial Leads Tammany to Expect a Bolt.

Mayor Hylan and his friends attempted yesterday to ridicule Governor Smith's speech in Brooklyn Thursday night, in which the Governor declared that the city needed a man of greater ability than Mr. Hylan for Mayor and asserted that the five-cent fare was a "smoke screen," used by the Mayor to hide the real issue, "subway transportation relief."

Mayor Hylan characterized the Governor's speech as "made up of applesauce and venom," and declared that the speech of Senator James J. Walker, his Tammany oppenent, was a "flivver."

Former Surrogate John P. Cohalan, the Mayor's Manhattan and Bronx campaign manager, used Latin to express his opinion of the Governor's speech.

"Mons laborat et nascitur ridiculus mus," Judge Cohalan said, a translation being "the mountain labored and brought forth a ridiculous mouse."

Judge Cohalan, taking that part of the speech in which the Governor declared compromise necessary in legislative and public affairs, declared that Mayor Hylan's motto was "No Compromise" in his long fight to maintain the people's rights.

Says Olvany Is Afraid to Answer.

"The enrolled Democrats of Manhattan and the Bronx have been patiently waiting for the past two weeks for Mr. Olvany to answer the questions I put to him as to why the Fourteenth Street minority bolted the regular Democratic ticket," Judge Cohalan said. "They have waited in vain. Mr. Olvany has not answered those questions because he is unable to answer them. Last night I listened attentively over the radio to learn if either the Governor or Mr. Walker would answer any of the fourteen questions, particularly No. 14, which reads:

"'What is the reason for the selection of Mr. Walker by Fourteenth Street?'

"This question was answered by Governor Smith when he said:

"'Now, government is, by its very nature, at times personal. The operation of the government is a science. It takes men who not only understand problems but who understand other men and can talk to other men. Nearly every great problem in government is solved after compromise. Every solution of a legislative or business or administrative proposal is finally reached after compromise.'

"We have at last discovered the reason and the only reason for Mr. Walker's designation by Fourteenth Street. It is evident that he must have promised the traction interests that he would compromise by raising the 5-cent fare. It is equally evident that any compromise on this question must be against the interests of the people of the City of New York.

Says Hylan Won't Compromise.

"Mayor Hylan will not compromise. He has not compromised. He is not a compromiser. He is the people's champion, and for eight years has fearlessly and at times single-handedly fought the people's fight and refused to be a party to any compromise of their rights.

"For this reason, and only for this reason, have the Fourteenth Street tools of the traction interests bolted the decision of the majority of the Democratic Party and placed Walker in the field as the candidate of the minority.

"Hylan's battle-cry in this campaign, as in every campaign in which he has ever engaged, is 'No Compromise.'

"With this motto on his shield and this battle-cry on his lips he is in this fight to defend the people of New York City against those who would steal their rights and he is in this fight to again lead the people of New York City to triumphant victory."

John H. McCooey, the Brooklyn Democratic leader, had no comment to make on the Governor's speech, but Commissioner of Accounts David Hirshfield sent a letter to Mayor Hylan, telling the latter that the Smith-Walker meeting in Brooklyn had not amounted to much.

"The Tiger did not have much success in moving his 'Big Bertha' into action at Brooklyn," Mr. Hirshfield wrote. "The endeavor to stop 'Little Jimmie' from being bowled over by the onrush of Brooklyn Democrats who believe in a clean, honest government and want the five-cent fare maintained, has not been a success. The big gun's much heralded power of annihilation has not been sustained."

Hearst Editorial Causes Comment.

Tammany Democrats were much interested in an editorial in The Evening Journal, the Hearst afternoon newspaper, which they thought might indicate that it expected Mayor Hylan to be beaten in the primaries and to run in the general election. The editorial asserted that Senator Walker and Frank D. Waterman, the Republican-Citizens' candidate for Mayor, merely promised to maintain the five-cent fare, while Mayor Hylan pledged himself to continue what he had already done. The editorial continued:

"Actual performance is considerably better than vague promise. Don't forget it.

"Go to the polls on primary day, Sept. 15, in the afternoon, or if you haven't any vote in the primaries, talk to your friends that have the votes.

"And, anyhow, don't forget that whatever happens in the primaries, which Mr. Olvany and the others think they have got very nicely fixed, the real election comes in November. And that will be another story."

Judge Cohalan, as has been his custom, declined to discuss the possibility of Mayor Hylan heading an independent ticket. A leading member of the Hearst organization said that there had been no movement yet among the members of the Hearst faction of the Mayor's supporters to get ready for an independent movement.

A letter from Rabbi B. Z. Pearl commending the Mayor and Commissioner of Markets Edwin J. O'Malley for enforcement of the law against selling non-kosher delicatessen products and meat as kosher products was made public at the City Hall.

Loving Cup for C. Harry Thoms.

C. Harry Thoms, Walker campaign committeeman and manager of the Strand Theatre in Far Rockaway, Queens, received a silver loving cup yesterday from 400 friends at a luncheon in the New Hotel Traymore, Far Rockaway. The token was a testimonial of appreciation for his efforts in behalf of the progress and development of the Rockaways.

Schreiber Declares Autoists With Walker Banners Are Ordered to Remove Them.

Benjamin F. Schreiber, campaign manager for Senator Walker, declared yesterday that Mayor Hylan was using the full power of his office to induce city employes to support him. He made public the following letter from Edward W. Buckley, Director of the City Budget, which, he said, had been sent to all heads of city departments. The letter read:

Dear Sir:

It is the Mayor's intention in making up the budget for 1926 to give increases to those employes who have assisted in the effective administration of the Government of the City of New York.

You are, therefore, requested to submit to me a list of employes in your department who have rendered efficient service to the city and who, in your judgment, are inadequately compensated. The list should not include employes who have been increased within the last year, and your recommendation should have in mind the financial capacity of the city to meet suggested increases.

Please give this matter your immediate attention so that these increases may be included in the tentative budget for 1926. Yours very truly,

EDWARD W. BUCKLEY,
Director of the Budget.

"This letter is additional evidence of the way our historic old City Hall, a shrine hallowed by the most sacred memories, has been converted into a political headquarters to serve the needs of the present occupant of the Mayor's chair," said Mr. Schreiber. "The plain purpose of the letter, of course, is to coax to the present Mayor's support those employes of the city who, in common with all good citizens, are determined to end his misrule."

Mr. Schreiber added that the envelope in which the letter in his possession was contained bore the inscription, "City Hall, Office of the Mayor."

Mr. Schreiber also charged that policemen were attempting to coerce automobile owners who displayed Walker banners on their cars, and declared that he had received many telephone calls and personal visits from motorists who informed him that they had received peremptory orders from policemen to remove the banners.

"The police have absolutely no right to interfere with motorists in this fashion," Mr. Schreiber said. "Objections should be made only when banners are attached to automobiles in such a way as to cover the license plate or obstruct the view of other motorists traveling along the same highway. In the instances complained of the Walker insignia were attached in such a way that neither the license plates nor the view was obstructed."

A letter from J. M. O'Hanlon, Secretary-Treasurer of the New York State Federation of Labor, to A. F. Day of the Non-Partisan Committee of the Building Trades Council was made public at Walker headquarters. The letter stated that the legislative record of Senator Walker and that of Justice Joseph F. McKee, Tammany candidate for President of the Board of Aldermen, showed friendship for organized labor.

CHARGE UNTRUE, SAYS OLVANY

Doesn't Know Chadbourne or Rothstein, His Reply to Hylan.

George W. Olvany, leader of Tammany, declared yesterday that it was impossible to prevent Mayor Hylan from telling falsehoods in this campaign, and reiterated that he knew no "pool room king, B. M. T. lawyer nor representative of a gambler," who, the Mayor charged, prevented Tammany from endorsing him for renomination and had dictated the nomination of Senator Walker.

In direct reply to the Mayor's mention of Arnold Rothstein and "Tom" Chadbourne in a speech the preceding night, Judge Olvany said:

"Now that Mayor Hylan has stated that my alleged pool room king and big gambler adviser is Arnold Rothstein and that my B. M. T. lawyer adviser is 'Tom' Chadbourne, I want to state that I do not know Arnold Rothstein or 'Tom' Chadbourne, that I have never met either of them, that I have never had breakfast, lunch, dinner or supper with either of them, and that I would not know either of them if I saw them on the street.

"According to one of yesterday morning's papers, it appears that Mayor Hylan knows 'Tom' Chadbourne very well indeed, because, it was said, he had a conference with Mr. McAdoo in Mr. Chadbourne's apartment at 4 East Sixty-sixth Street during the last Democratic National Convention."

LABOR PUSHES FIGHT ON VOTE MACHINES

State Federation Decides to Carry Its Protest Directly to Mrs. Knapp.

HACKENBURG ALSO OBJECTS

Special to The New York Times.

SYRACUSE, Aug. 28.—Protesting against the purchase of voting machines for New York and other cities on the ground that they are manufactured in violation of the Forty-eight Hour law, union labor will carry the fight directly to Mrs. Florence E. S. Knapp, Secretary of State, the Executive Committee of the State Federation of Labor decided at the close of the convention today.

"We will submit information at once that voting machines are being made at Jamestown in violation of the forty-eight hour and the prevailing rates of wage laws," said John M. O'Hanlon, secretary and head of the Legislative Committee.

"The committee will urge that no contracts be closed for products that are not made by union labor, and we certainly have proof that the voting machines are made by a concern that is not organized under the union rules."

It is planned to start a campaign to put teeth into the prevailing rate of wage provisions of the law so that State and municipal construction will pay labor the prevailing rate of wages in municipalities where work is under way. It is asserted that the law was "doctored" during the war to the disadvantage of the working people.

Hackenburg Joins Protest.

Assemblyman Frederick L. Hackenburg made public yesterday a communication to Mrs. Florence E. S. Knapp, Secretary of State, in which he joined in protest against the purchase of voting machines made in non-union shops, and pointed out that if the Home Rule Amendment were upheld by the Court of Appeals the city could nullify the law imposing the voting machines upon it. His letter follows:

Aug. 28, 1925.

Hon. Florence E. S. Knapp, Secretary of State, Albany, N. Y.

My Dear Mrs. Knapp: The State Federation of Labor just adopted a resolution requesting you not to order voting machines for the City of New York that are made by non-union labor. May I join into this request?

I am prompted to write you about this by a thorough and careful consideration of the entire subject, particularly from its legal aspects. The Court of Appeals is about to pass on the constitutionality of the Home Rule Amendment. A good many lawyers believe and all good citizens hope that the interpretation of Mr. Justice Wagner upholding the Home Rule Amendment to the Constitution will be upheld in the highest court of the State. If the law is finally settled that way it is my belief that the Municipal Assembly of the City of New York, under Section 12 of Chapter 363 of the Laws of 1924, will have a perfect right to repeal Chapter 391 of the Laws of 1921, which imposes upon the City of New York the adoption of voting machines.

After all, the machinery of voting is something which comes within the scope of home rule. This is a subject clearly relating to the property, affairs and government of the city.

If I am right in my interpretation of the law I do not doubt for a moment that if the Home Rule Amendment is declared constitutional by the Court of Appeals the Municipal Assembly will immediately take steps to nullify the action of the Legislature, which is contrary to the spirit of the home rule principle by imposing mandatory expense which the city cannot afford at the present.

I therefore respectfully ask that you go slow about your task before imposing on the city an expenditure of $3,000,000 with the possible result that when the Municipal Assembly gets through with the proposition all the city will have for its money will be a lot of non-union junk.

With kind personal wishes, I am faithfully yours,

F. L. HACKENBURG.

DID NOT ENDORSE WALKER.

War Veterans' Chief Takes Exception to Inference Made by Smith.

Warren S. Fisher, National Commander of the United American War Veterans, denied yesterday that the organization had endorsed Senator Walker, as he said it had been made to appear by Governor Smith in his speech in Brooklyn Thursday night. The Governor at that time read a note sent to him and signed by the "American War Veterans' League," which assured the Governor that the members were with him "until hell freezes over."

Mr. Fisher said the United American War Veterans had endorsed and supported Mayor Hylan at the last election. "Mayor Hylan was our friend then and he is our friend now," he added, "and all the political bluster of Governor Smith will not change the mind of a single veteran who is a member of the United American War Veterans, irrespective of the political party to which he may belong.

"Our by-laws do not allow us to endorse primary candidates or to take part in primary campaigns, but we can officially repudiate the use of our name for political exploitation, such as was done by Governor Smith on the platform at Prospect Hall."

LAGUARDIA FOR MACINNES.

Urges Parties to Unite on Present Chief Accountant for Controller.

Representative F. H. LaGuardia, former President of the Board of Aldermen, said yesterday that Duncan MacInnes, chief accountant of the Finance Department, was the man he had had in mind in suggesting that all parties unite in the nomination of an exceptionally well qualified candidate for Controller and take the position out of politics. Mr. LaGuardia asserted that the position was one of great importance, the incumbent having appropriating, spending and auditing functions, and should not be subject to politics in any way.

Questioned concerning the possibility of a third-party movement, Mr. La Guardia said that it would be a "make-believe" election unless there were a third ticket. He added that he did not know how Mayor Hylan felt about running independently, in case he should be beaten in the Democratic primaries, as he had not talked with the Mayor for some time.

Coney Island Boardwalk built; Rockaway Boardwalk under construction.

New parks and playgrounds opened; over 1,800 acres added to the city's park areas.

Parkways and driveways paved; Riverside Drive extended.

Play streets and street showers for the hundreds of thousands of children in the crowded sections of the city.

Appropriation of $5,000,000 to Board of Child Welfare, making it possible for 24,500 children to remain with their mothers and thus preventing little homes from being broken up.

Free distribution of 4,000,000 quarts of milk to mothers and children and nearly 5,000 tons of coal to needy families.

Twenty-two million dollars appropriated for city's hospitals; more done to improve hospital buildings and service than by any other Administration.

Five-cent fare maintained; saving over $400,000,000 to car riders in the last seven years.

Says Smith Is Mute on Hylan Record.

That is a part of the record of my Administration of the government of the City of New York in the last seven years, to practically all of which Mr. Smith found it expedient to make no reference. That record has been made despite the bitter opposition of those who are the enemies of humanity and progress in city government.

Mr. Smith said he would have in the Mayor's chair an Executive who can "get along with men, not the problems entirely, but with men and with women that he is bound to meet if the problems are ever going to be solved." He referred last evening to my inability to "compromise" or to sit down at round-table conferences and talk with big men.

The fact is, I have held such conferences. Mr. Lewis Nixon was one of the men whom I met during my time in the Mayor's office. He came to me as the Public Service Commission appointee of Governor Smith. Five minutes after he entered my office he began urging that an increased fare, as well as extra payments for transfers, be allowed the traction companies.

I listened courteously to everything Mr. Nixon had to say. Then I thought of the people who would be affected if Mr. Nixon's suggestions were carried out. It would have meant taking from a family of two enough in increased carfare to pay their gas bill for a year; in a family of four enough to pay the gas bill and the ice bill; and in a family of six enough to pay the gas bill, the ice bill and the coal bill. Mr. Nixon did not get his increased carfare because I found myself unable to "compromise."

Mr. Smith last evening made capital out of the self-appointed call of President Shonts of the Interborough at my office. He did not state that I refused to talk with Mr. Shonts without a witness, nor did he state that Mr. Shonts went away empty-handed because I would not "compromise" and grant an increased carfare.

Won't Talk to Dahl and Chadbourne.

I have refused and will continue to refuse to sit down and talk with such so-called "big" men as Jerry Dahl and Tom Chadbourne of the B. M. T., who cannot talk five minutes without suggesting schemes for mulcting the people.

Governor Smith said "the five cent fare is not an issue." From his viewpoint it probably is not. With that viewpoint I differ. Men in public office are judged by the official actions of their appointees.

Mayor Hylan in replying to Governor Smith's criticism of the garbage disposal situation in New York told how he had increased the personnel of the Street Cleaning Department and the quantity of apparatus, had built garbage incinerators, and within a year would have enough incinerators to obviate the dumping of garbage at sea. He also described the improvements in sewage screening which had been introduced in his Administration.

Mayor Hylan said that Governor Smith's "personally selected candidate" had not informed the Governor of the improvements in sewage screening instituted in the Hylan Administration probably because Mr. Walker knew very little of what the city had done or was doing.

Smith's Record on Sewage.

Mr. Smith has manifested a sudden interest in sewage disposal which has a decidedly political flavor. But what do Mr. Smith's actions show in this matter? There was a bill introduced in the Senate and Assembly at the last session of the Legislature which provided for the "surrendering to New York City part of premises demised by lease of Ward's Island made by the city to the State and giving the city the right to construct and operate thereon a sewage disposal plant and a sewer under the bed of the Harlem River."

Both bills died in committee. Did Mr. Smith send a special message urging their passage? I find no record to that effect. Hence the city's plan for the construction of a large sewage treatment plant on Ward's Island to relieve the continued pollution of the Harlem and East Rivers has been indefinitely delayed because of Governor Smith's apparent lack of interest in the solution of the sewage problem.

A very sizable paragraph or two Mr. Smith devoted in his Tammany Hall and Prospect Hall addresses to the strides of science and the marvelous progress made in the field of invention. He followed with the question: "Must Government stand still?" But let us descend from the heights of mere oratorical fancy to the plain, hard ground upon which we have to tread.

The Government of the City of New York has made a record of progress in the past seven and a half years that cannot be smothered by any blanket of misrepresentation. We are content to have others speak for us on that score.

Quotes Committee of Fourteen on Vice.

The Committee of Fourteen reports that "New York has less open vice than any of the world's largest cities." And this is an endorsement from a group which lauded the preceding Administration and has been incessantly hostile to the present Administration. Here is another interesting comment by the American Social Hygiene Association:

"Any one who remembers New York in the former days when it was impossible to walk from Grand Central Station to Broadway on Forty-second Street without being solicited six or eight times will readily agree that a wonderful change for the better has taken place."

That change has taken place because commercialized vice and gambling, which flourished openly and defiantly and palpably under the protection of the authorities for many years prior to my Administration, have been finally rooted out, stem and branch.

My Administration ended the days when wives and mothers, broken-hearted and despairing, waited in cheerless homes for husbands and sons who were being cheated out of their week's wages in gambling hells or being precipitated to moral and physical ruin in houses of ill-fame. Does any decent man or woman want to see harpies again cruising upon our streets, gambling hells sprouting up all over the city with their ringers-in trapping the unwary, and dope peddlers dispensing their packages of poison—all under the protection of the constituted authorities? That was the case before this Administration came into office.

Wants the Lid Kept Down.

I am no "reformer." I am no advocate of blue laws. I am a firm believer in the largest measure of personal liberty. There has been no interference with the legitimate pleasures of the people of this city during my Administration. But the lid has been clamped upon the stewpots of vice and gambling. Are these to be lifted? Is that the type of municipal Government which the six million people of New York City want? I am unwilling to believe that they do, because it would mean the turning back of the clock of progress in the world's largest city over a score of years.

"The Democratic Party cannot stand interference from the outside. When the Democratic Party needs advice, it gets that advice from Democrats and not from crack-pots." So says Alfred E. Smith. Mr. Smith forgets the time when he thankfully availed himself of outside assistance.

He forgets the time when Tammany's greatest leader, Charles F. Murphy, convinced that Alfred E. Smith as a candidate for Governor did not have a chance in the world of being elected Governor in 1918, appealed to me through another to see Mr. Hearst and urge him to have his newspapers support Mr. Smith's candidacy.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith went to the home of Mr. Hearst and enjoyed his hospitality. In addition, Mr. Hearst gave his promise of support and did support Mr. Smith in his newspapers, and Mr. Smith was elected Governor of the State of New York when he would not have been, as Mr. Murphy admitted, without the help of Mr. Hearst.

Smith and Hearst Contrasted.

Mr. Smith has conveniently forgotten this, preferring now to besmirch the man who helped him enter the Executive Mansion at Albany. But Mr. Smith has changed since the days of Oliver Street. He has new confrères and associates. His suite at the Biltmore Hotel costs more per year than his entire salary as Governor. But Mr. Heart has not changed. He is the same battler for the rights of the masses as of old, and has never asked any public official to do more than to give a good Government, an honest Government and a humane Government.

"The question of transit will always press the people of New York for solution, over and above practically every other great issue." Mr. Smith tells nothing new. He has said many thousands of words on this subject. In 1924 he said: "Aside from any other argument, there is no use for the Transit Commission; it should be abolished." There are very few people in the city of New York, other than traction stockholders and henchmen, who would not approve those words, even though they were uttered only a few months before the campaign for the Governorship of New York and the Presidency of the United States.

Conditions became so atrocious on our local transit lines that the Board of Estimate voted charges against the Transit Commission. Here was Mr. Smith's grand opportunity. But Mr. Smith's performances did not square with his words. He refused to hear the charges himself, as the Board of Estimate requested. Instead, he appointed a former traction company attorney to be vested with the sole and absolute power of examination.

The city was denied the right of cross-examination or an opportunity to present its proof. Its counsel was muzzled. The Transit Commission was permitted to put in vanloads of self-serving declarations.

Transit Commission "Whitewashed."

At the conclusion of the farcical hearing, the Transit Commission was whitewashed, the Mayor was personally blamed for everything, and Governor Smith, who had denounced the Transit Commission in two successive messages to the Legislature, straightway approved the McAvoy report, which, among other things, approved the continued operation of wooden cars. Before the ink was dry on that report, three wooden-car wrecks occurred almost simultaneously, causing two deaths and injuries to eighty-three passengers.

That is the difference between Mr. Smith's words and Mr. Smith's performances. He knows that if the removal of every wooden car from the elevated structures of New York were necessary, as it is necessary, to the prevention of a single injury or the saving of a single life, the Transit Commission should have so ordered it, and a failure so to do demanded the exercise by Governor Smith of the power, which is his under the law, of removing these Commissioners.

Mr. Smith's declarations that the Government of New York City can be made more responsive and can be made more economical come with poor grace from him. Can he truthfully point to an Administration of the City of New York which has been more responsive to the wishes of the great masses of this city than my Administration has been? The intense hatred of the underworld, traction and profiteering groups to the policies of my Administration is the best index to its responsiveness to the people.

The Question of Economy.

The brief summary of outstanding achievements which I have given to you provides a record challenging comparison with that of any Administration from the standpoint of cost when paralleled with the service rendered. More economy? With Mr. Smith's help, perhaps. The 1925 budget contains a State tax of over $16,000,000; the preceding budget carried a State tax of over $20,000,000.

Mandatory legislation—that is, bills enacted by the Legislature over the wishes of local public officials but approved by the Governor—carrying huge financial burdens, has annually descended upon the City of New York, with no option left to your local public officials but to foot the bills. Mandatory requirements in the 1925 budget were in excess of $90,000,000, and in excess of $91,000,000 in the 1924 budget.

Now as to economy in the items over which the Board of Estimate has control. Would Mr. Smith's personally selected Mayoralty candidate set up a cheeseparing budget at the expense of New York City's army of employes? It was this Administration which gave them the living wages that had long been denied them. Would Mr. Smith's candidate reduce the police force? Would he cut down the Fire Department? Would he stop the construction of new schools and new subways, boardwalks and boulevards?

The Governor's Third Term Cited.

Twelve years is too long for any man to serve as Mayor of the City of New York, Mr. Smith contends. Of course, it is all right for Mr. Smith to be a candidate four times for the Governorship and to be serving a third term in that office. There is no objection to that, not even from Mr. Smith himself. James Rolph Jr., the Mayor of San Francisco, is now serving his sixteenth year as Mayor of that city. And, by the way, New York and San Francisco are the only two large cities in the United States where the five-cent fare still prevails.

But Mr. Smith does not seriously object to four-year terms. He has been trying for years to make the Governorship of New York a four-year term. He says a public official needs more time to carry out constructive programs. He also says "every thoughtful student of our Government in this State, and every man who has been Governor, is in unanimous accord with the statement that the term of the Governor is too short." We all approve—depending on the type of Governor.

It does take a public official a considerable time to familiarize himself with governmental routine. It takes a much longer time to plan and carry out constructive programs. It takes twice as long when he has to fight the plunderers and boodlers who are eternally trying to get something to which they are not entitled.

The Struggle for Subways.

It took the people of the City of New York the first six years of my Administration to get from the Legislature the right to build subways without outside dictation. Those subways are now being built; over $41,000,000 in contracts have been let in the single year's time since we have had the power to build, one of these contracts in the sum of $4,298,833 having been approved by the Board of Estimate this very day.

This information as to the progress made on the city's independent subway system is for the benefit particularly of Mr. Smith's personally selected Mayoralty candidate, who was a former officer and director of the New York and Brooklyn Railroad Company until he found it expedient to expunge all references thereto from the legislative Red Book.

Last night Mr. Smith reiterated the foul charge made by Martin McCue that, while Smith's political fortunes were trembling in the balance at Madison Square Garden, I was in secret conference with the Klan (McAdoo). I exploded that story two weeks ago when I said:

"Mr. McAdoo requested an interview. I saw and talked with him. He asked me if I would consider the nomination for Vice President on a ticket with him. I told him that I was with Governor Smith for the nomination for the Presidency and would under no circumstances accept a nomination. One of Governor Smith's managers for the Presidential nomination, Judge Morgan J. O'Brien, came to me at the City Hall during the convention at Madison Square Garden and asked me to request Mr. Hearst to use his good offices with the late Colonel William Jennings Bryan to get his support for Governor Smith for the Presidency if possible. I made the appointment with Mr. Hearst immediately, in accordance with his request, and did all I could to help Governor Smith."

THE NEW YORK TIMES did not believe my explanation was a true one. It telegraphed to Morgan J. O'Brien. And what did Morgan J. O'Brien say? Just five words—"It is a correct statement." So much for the repetition of the allegation that I failed to help Governor Smith in the Democratic National Convention last year.

His Stand on Grade Crossings.

On the subject of the elimination of railroad grade crossings, Mr. Smith insists upon the centre of the stage and the full glare of the spotlight. No man living is more strongly in favor of eliminating grade crossings than I am. I want them eliminated as soon as possible. I want to see the work begin right here in this city—in Brooklyn and Queens, where it is needed most.

My only objection has been to the method of financing, which practically means a gift of millions of dollars to the railroads to cover their proportionate share of the cost of grade-crossing elimination. The proposed constitutional amendment will come before the people this Fall for their approval or disapproval. If the amendment be adopted I shall be prepared at all times to cast my vote in the Board of Estimate to appropriate the city's share without a moment's delay.

The office of the Mayor of the City of New York is not a sinecure. It is no man's personal possession any more than is the Governor's chair at Albany. It should not be reduced to the cheap basis of political advantage. The promotion of the city's varied interests should be the paramount consideration of the incumbent of the Mayor's office. Does Mr. Smith deny that such motives have actuated my official conduct?

And a man and an official may be judged by the company he keeps. We will not mention Senator Walker at this time. But Mr. Smith unconsciously betrayed his corporation fraternizing. In his address at Tammany Hall he concluded with this gem: "Let every man say, 'I will do on primary day what I would do if I was a majority stockholder in a great corporation.'" Corporations! Corporations! Mr. Smith loves the atmosphere.

Smith and the Coporations.

Not so long ago he was Chairman of the Board of Directors of the United States Trucking Corporation. Ask the little truckmen in the City of New York what they think of that monopoly. It was dominated by the United States Distributing Corporation, among the directors of which were Harvey D. Gibson, President of the New York Trust Company and a Director of the Interborough; Grayson M.-P. Murphy, another Interborough official and a trustee of the New York Trust Company, and E. V. R. Thayer, Director of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company.

Latterly Mr. Smith was elected to a directorship of the Morris Plan Company, where he has opportunities for hobnobbing with J. P. Morgan's brother-in-law, public utility millionaires, and Sam A. Lewisohn, treasurer of the $2,000,000 slush fund contributed by traction corporations in an attempt to defeat me in 1917, and who is now the treasurer of the Citizens Union, which had many conferences with Mr. Smith as to who should be the next Mayoralty candidate of New York.

As Director of the National Surety Company, Smith enjoys close association with leading men of the traction, electric light and gas companies of this city. And the influence these men have had upon Mr. Smith is seen in the character of his appointees to the Public Service Commission and the character of their official action. As Walker is Smith's candidate and will so as ordered by Smith, Smith's philosophy and willingness to "compromise" will be Walker's gospel, and every one knows that there is only one way to compromise with the traction crowd and that is to grant them an increased carfare.

Hylan Challenges the Governor.

Not until the question of my designation had become acute in the present campaign did I suspect that Mr. Smith's influence would be employed against me. Since he has made a direct assault upon me, I submit to my fellow-Democrats of the City of New York that it is an unprovoked assault. I defy him or any other man to point out any act of mine which has departed from the standards of personal honesty or party loyalty. I have hewn true to the line in all my acts, and I feel that the people believe in me. My platform pledges have never been a bait for votes but have been solemn promises sacredly kept.

I am the choice of the majority of the recognized leaders and unhesitatingly claim to be the regular candidate of the party for Mayor of New York. If the leaders of Manhattan and the Bronx had joined in my designation for the office of Mayor by the Democratic Party no political leader will dare deny that the primary and general elections would have been mere formalities by which the party and the people would ratify the choice.

I have guarded New York as every good man guards his home. I have won the confidence of the men and women of this city by plain honesty and conscientious devotion to their interests. This no one can take from me, not even the Governor of New York.

Mayor Speaks in Harlem.

Mayor Hylan opened his campaign in Harlem last night at a meeting in the heart of the negro district, at the Renaissance Casino at Seventh Avenue and 138th Street.

"The Governor is up at Albany—or was up at Albany," he said, "and runs Tammany Hall, the State Democracy and the Governorship and still he isn't satisfied. Since he can't be Mayor himself he did the next best thing and put up a dummy, Senator Walker, to run for him. The issue in this fight is Hylan versus dough. The traction interests want to exploit the people of $60,000,000 a year and they are willing to pay any price for the control of the city. They have corralled the newspapers and the politicians."

The Mayor also took a fling at Borough President Miller of Manhattan for the disturbance in the Board of Estimate yesterday.

"He tried to put a rider on Borough President Connolly's resolution providing for a survey for a new bridge to Queens which would have placed himself, the President of the Board of Aldermen, and the Controller on the committee to select the site of the bridge," the Mayor said. "You can guess why. When a bridge is built land and property values in the neighborhood go up."

At a meeting at the Democratic Association of the Twentieth Assembly District in Brooklyn Mayor Hylan repeated his previous charges and asserted that "Smith is biting the hand that fed him." William A. Cokeley, candidate for President of the Board of Aldermen, also spoke and accused Smith of seeking to be the autocrat of the city. Replying to charges that he was narrow-minded he said, "I have leaned on the bar and put my foot on the rail as often as any of you."

WATERMAN PLEDGES HELP FOR BROOKLYN

STRESSES BUSINESS RULE

LYONS HITS HIS LEADERSHIP

Assails Him as a "Wooden Man Set Up to Be Knocked Down"—Urges Strong Campaign.

Frank D. Waterman and John J. Lyons, candidates for the Republican nomination for Mayor, invaded Brooklyn last night and spoke at the Unity Club, 929 Bushwick Avenue, the Republican organization of the Twenty-first Assembly District, a short distance from the home of Mayor Hylan.

Mr. Waterman declared "digging subways" to be the great issue of the campaign, and repeated his promise to give the city a business administration by a business man, if elected Mayor.

Mr. Lyons assailed the leadership of the Republican party in the city as incompetent, declared that a "vigorous, fighting, regular" Republican could defeat the Tammany nominees for Mayor, and asserted that Mr. Waterman was "a wooden man, set up to be knocked down."

The two candidates did not meet at the Unity Club, Mr. Waterman speaking there to several hundred persons, most of whom remained until Mr. Lyons arrived. Mr. Lyons was to have made other speeches, but at the request of Jacob A. Livingston, Brooklyn Republican leader, who accompanied Mr. Waterman, postponed them until next week on Mr. Livingston's promise to arrange a meeting for his own Twenty-second Assembly district club next Friday night. Mr. Livingston's request apparently was to avoid further conflicts with Waterman meetings.

Waterman Denies Prejudice.

Mr. Waterman went from the Unity Club to speak at meetings of four other Republican Assembly District organizations, and spoke at the clubhouses in the Fifth, Sixth, Twentieth and Twenty-second Districts. In his speech at Mr. Livingston's club Mr. Waterman denied the charge made two years ago that he ever had shown any religious or racial prejudice in selecting employes. In discussing the charge that he was a "millionaire" candidate, Mr. Waterman said that he started life as a "poor boy" in Brooklyn and worked for $25 a week. He added that never at any time had he owned more than 20 per cent. of the stock of the L. E. Waterman Company. He said that he had made thirty-six trips abroad to build up his fountain pen business and that in all cases when he had failed to register his name would be found on a steamer list.

Mr. Waterman's speech follows:

"Here in Brooklyn you know what failure to build subways means. Brooklyn for many years was my home. Members of my family are Brooklynites. I know personally what broken pledges to build subways mean to this great borough.

"Every subway rider, who morning and night must fight for footing in a subway train, knows all about subway congestion, and knows who is responsible. Twice Tammany Hall nominated and elected John F. Hylan Mayor. Mr. Hylan only could operate as Mayor by will of Tammany. Mr. Hylan has only three votes in the Board of Estimate against Tammany's thirteen.

"But Tammany for seven and one-half years did not use its power to outvote Mr. Hylan, because during those seven and one-half years Mr. Hylan was a Mayor in all ways satisfactory to Tammany. The pair of them worked and voted together.

"They both pledged you subways. They pledged subways in 1917. They pledged subways in 1921. In 1925 we haven't got the subways. But we are getting a lot of new promises.

Calls Subways the Issue.

"Subway digging is the great issue in this campaign. It isn't a political issue. But now we see Democrats in a factional fight, putting that factional fight before the problem of new subways, before all the problems of our City Government.

"You heard words in that factional fight here in Brooklyn last night. You heard it plainly spoken that the Democrats have fallen out not over any difference of opinion of what is best for the city, but because of the acts of certain Democrats at the Democratic State Convention in Syracuse three years ago, and because of the acts of certain Democrats at the Democratic National Convention last Summer.

"What have these personal differences among Democrats to do with our municipal government? Are you in Brooklyn to get new subways out of a factional fight? Is regularity to the Democratic Party more important than what happens to the City of New York?

"If the people want me for Mayor, I will give the city subways. I am a Republican, but party will not enter into my management of the subway problem, or any city problem. A business administration is my platform.

"I made a fight as a business man for subways two years ago. You know something about that fight. Citizens of every shade of politics joined me in that fight to the number of 160,000. With the help of this army of citizens, I succeeded in getting pledges of new subways from Mr. Hylan and the Tammany Administration. They broke those pledges.

Wants Subways Out of Politics.

"I think it is time to take the subways out of politics. I think it is time to do away with politics and bring business into our city Government.

"In dealing with the people of New York, we cannot ignore the cosmopolitan character of the population.

"We have here people from all the nations of the old world. They come to share in the blessings of liberty. They come because they believe in Lincoln's Government of, and by, and for the people. They want to give their children the benefits of equality before the law. Their hopes were raised by the pledge of equality which we gave to the world. It is our duty to redeem that pledge.

"I have seen the Italian, the Frenchman, the Irishman, the German and the Jew in the lands beyond the sea. In traveling through Europe I have been impressed by the struggles of the common people to better their condition. I found, that, after all, the hopes and desires of the human race are about the same everywhere.

"The men and women of Europe are striving for comfort and happiness, as we strive for them here. They want to own their own homes; to have a place that they can call their own, where their children may find the love and protection which the home alone provides. Hope and love over there mean precisely what they mean here.

"When they come to America, they have a right to expect and to receive our friendly help and cooperation in every honest effort to share in the blessings of liberty and equality.

"We must prove by our conduct that in this country all men and all women stand equal before the law; that no person shall suffer because of his race, his creed, his color or his class.

"This has been my life-long policy in business. It shall be my policy in public life.

Pledges Streets for Brooklyn.

"There is one thing I want to do for Brooklyn—give it decent streets. I ride over your streets. I know what they are. You all know how they have been neglected.

"There is another thing I want to do for Brooklyn—give it a boulevard out to Long Island. You haven't a street worth the name to travel out to the fields and the country. You Brooklynites know the need for such a boulevard. I promise you that if I am Mayor you will have that boulevard.

"Brooklyn has a vast army of small tax-payers—the good citizens who own their own homes. Taxes have been piled up on them. Taxes have been increasing for the last eight years. Mr. Hylan and Tammany promised to bring taxes down. They broke this pledge. They broke other pledges—they promised a 'seat for every child.' But your children haven't found seats, and are on part time.

"In this campaign I will make no pledges to be broken after the election. I am just a business man. To Brooklyn, as to the whole city, I gave the pledge of a business administration."

Harvey Assails Smith.

Mr. Harvey said in part:

"Governor Smith, who nominated Hylan four years ago and then asked the people of the city to elect him, now admits that he made a terrible mistake and that the present Tammany Administration is the worst New York has ever had," Mr. Harvey said. "He says now he has another man for Mayor who will make good, and expects the people to take his word for it a second time.

"But Tammany has had two opportunities and eight years in which to make good. This is not a baseball game, which, if lost, matters little; it is the efficient governing of the largest city in the world. If the people really want subways, the schools cleaned of politics, life and property safe, the taxes and rents reduced they are going to vote the Waterman ticket.

"The people are sick and tired of promises, talks and abuse. They want a change. Even the best organization Democrats are saying 'Lets have a change.' Give Waterman a chance.'"

Lyons Assails Waterman.

Mr. Lyons's speech at the Unity Club follows, in part:

"The political situation in our city has reached a state that our success would be assured if there stood at the head of our ticket a vigorous, fighting and regular Republican. The alleged candidate designated by a handful of aristocratic millionaires is not the kind of man I have described.

"He has never been active in Republican politics; he has not even discharged his simple duties as a citizen; he has failed at numerous elections to vote, and when he did vote, he voted against Republican candidates. He was hand picked, not designated, for the designation remains to be made by you, the rank and file Republican workers and voters of this city.

"You have been entirely ignored by the group that picked him; not even the district leaders of our party were called into consultation. In my opinion, he was selected for his weakness and not for his strength, because he hasn't any strength. He is a wooden man set up to be knocked down.

Charges Party Mismanagement.

"I charge that under the present leadership of our party the affairs of our party have been so grossly and wretchedly managed that it has almost entirely lost its influence with the citizenry and even with the rank and file workers within its fold, and if such misrule and mismanagement is continued, the influence of our party in this city will be entirely destroyed. The peak of the stupidity of such mismanagement and misrule was reached by the attempt of the alleged Republican leaders to foist upon the Republicans of this city this hand-picked designee for Mayor.

"As an organization Republican of lifelong experience I am qualified and authorized to assert that I have a right, not only under the law but from the point of view of organization, to contest in the primaries with any one for the nomination for any office. The charge made by my opponent that I am defying organization in making this primary contest is preposterous, and conflicts with all common sense, fairness and good sportsmanship. The charge is made in an effort to deceive the rank and file of our party and to alienate their sympathy and support, which they know I now enjoy.

"It is needless for me to affirm that I have no quarrel with the district leaders of our party. They must understand that I have and shall always have consideration for them, and that I have at all times worked in harmony with them, and I shall always continue to work in harmony with them. I know the difficulties, trials and tribulations of a district leader. I was one for many years. Our fight is on the few self-constituted leaders who have usurped the power they wield over the rank and file of our party, and whose autocratic misrule is carrying the Republican organization in this city to destruction."

BENNETT CHARGES EXCLUSION.

Wanted to Speak in 62 Republican Clubhouses—Three Invited Him.

William M. Bennett, candidate for the Republican nomination for Mayor, said yesterday that he had written the Republican leaders of each of the sixty-two Assembly Districts in the city for permission to speak in their clubhouses and had received invitations from only three of them, former Senator Lockwood and Judge Bayes of the Second and Fifth Brooklyn Districts and Herman W. Beyer of the Fifth District in Manhattan. He asked why he had been excluded.

"No one has ever questioned my Republicanism," Mr. Bennett said. "In 1892 and for a great many years thereafter I was an election district captain and worked at the polls from the time they opened in the morning until the last ballot was counted. I served as Republican member of the Assembly in 1908, 1909 and 1910, and was Republican member of the State Senate in 1915 and 1916. I was Republican Assembly District leader on the west side of Manhattan in 1909 and 1910. I was Republican candidate for Congress in 1910 and Republican candidate for Mayor in 1917.

"I notice that in this primary fight I am referred to as an insurgent. There is no such thing as an insurgent at a primary, and, furthermore, my opponents were the insurgents in 1917. I was regular. As I have pointed out before, I offered to get out of the 1917 fight for the sake of harmony if my opponent would do so, but he refused. I and my associates spent only $3,500 on the primary in 1917, while my opponent's backers spent $400,000. After I had won that primary and become the Republican nominee for Mayor in 1917 those persons who are now backing Mr. Waterman became the insurgents and refused to abide by the result of the primary.

"In the direct primary all candidates are equal, and I do not understand the attitude of the leaders in closing their clubhouses to anybody but Mr. Waterman, unless it is on the theory that the clubhouses are the personal property of the leaders or else on the more probable theory that Mr. Waterman, because of his record of having voted the Democratic ticket in New Jersey, where he lived during the seventeen years prior to 1923, and because of his lack of knowledge of New York City and the public questions involved in this election, is such a weak candidate that he cannot stand opposition. If it is true that he is such a weak candidate that he cannot stand opposition, the time to find that out is before the primary, not after the primary."

HOME-RULE FIGHT NEARS.

Court to Sit in Special Session at Albany Next Tuesday.

Final preparations for a stiff legal fight ovr the Home Rule amendment before the Court of Appeals in Albany next Tuesday were being made yesterday by counsel for the City of New York and other cities and by counsel for organizations endeavoring to upset the Home Rule law.

Bainbridge Colby, former Secretary of State, who has been retained as special counsel to represent the city, was busy yesterday preparing arguments in support of the constitutionality of the law and of the city's right under that law to buy and operate buses. He expects to have the support of corporation counsel of many other cities of this State, including Poughkeepsie, Rochester and Syracuse, in the city's appeal from the unanimous decision of the Appellate Division which upset the Home Rule amendment.

Opposing Mr. Colby, former Supreme Court Justice Frank Laughlin, associated with him, and the numerous corporation counsel, will be Leonard M. Wallstein, counsel for Dr. William Jay Schieffelin, President of the Citizens Union, who brought suit to test the city's right under the Home Rule Amendment to buy and operate buses, and Louis Marshall, counsel for Stewart Browne, President of the United Real Estate Owners' Association, who brought suit to test the constitutionality of the amendment.

TRAGEDY BREAKS INTO GAME

Cricketer, While Playing, Hears of Drowning of His Two Sisters.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 28.—While playing in a cricket match today at Hove, G. Duckworth, a noted cricketer, was informed that his two sisters had been drowned while in bathing. The captain of the team immediately relieved Mr. Duckworth from playing.

The drowning occurred at the Meliden shore on the Welsh coast, where Duckworth's two sisters, Bessie and Dorothy, aged 14 and 12, were bathing with another little girl. They got beyond their depth and called vainly for help.

"Then we said our prayers," said the third little girl after she was rescued.

The three held hands as long as possible, but finally the two Duckworths were swept away. Their companion managed to get ashore exhausted.

Captain and Engineer of Mackinac Accused; Ordered to Trial Sept. 2 for Negligence

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28 (AP).—Charges of negligence were placed against George W. McVay, master of the Mackinac, and John A. Grant, chief engineer, by the Steamboat Inspection Service today in a report on its investigation of the explosion of the vessel's boiler off Newport, Aug. 18 with fifty-two fatalities.

The two men were instructed by the Steamboat Inspection Service to appear for trial Sept. 2 before the Board of Local Inspectors of Steam Vessels for the District of Providence, accompanied by their witnesses and bringing their licenses as navigators. Conviction at such a trial carries the penalty of revocation of licenses, any criminal proceedings growing out of such disasters being left to the State authorities.

The charges against the men were based on evidence gathered at hearings held at Pawtucket and Providence by Richard F. Bailey and Robert B. Clark, Steamboat Service Inspectors.

The charge against Captain McVay alleges that he caused the Mackinac to be moved from its safe mooring at Pawtucket knowing that the steamer's boilers were in a dangerous condition, and that his negligence contributed to the explosion.

Grant is accused of having allowed the Mackinac's boilers to become unsafe, "thereby causing loss of life to passengers and crew" aboard the vessel.

The Mackinac, bound for Newport, left Pawtucket early in the morning of Aug. 18 with a capacity excursion crowd aboard. After spending the day at Newport it had progressed a few miles on its return trip when the boiler burst, enveloping the vessel in a haze of steam. Near-by vessels immediately went to the rescue, and the injured were taken to near-by hospitals, including that at the Naval Training Station, which took a large part in the work of rescue.

Immediately upon learning of the disaster, Secretary Hoover, whose department is charged with administration of the navigation laws, ordered George Uhler, Chief of the Steamboat Inspection Service, to go to Pawtucket to aid in the investigations which had been undertaken by the Federal and State authorities. He directed full cooperation with the Rhode Island authorities to determine the cause of the disaster, and place responsibility.

Commerce Department officials today said the Mackinac investigation had been one of the most rapid and complete ever made by the Steamboat Inspection Service, the report of the inspection being in the hands of Secretary Hoover less than ten days after the explosion.

FORGED FOR A GIRL, CLEMENCY IS DENIED

'WON'T WEEP OVER CROOKS'

Clerk, Sentenced, Admits He Was a Fool—Old Offender Says Crime Doesn't Pay.

Frank F. Spencer, 41 years old, who lived with his aged mother at 1,013 Prospect Place, Brooklyn, was sentenced to from two to ten years in Sing Sing yesterday by Judge Mulqueen in General Sessions on a forgery charge, despite the pleas for clemency by two complainants against him. Spencer pleaded guilty last week and was denounced at the time by Judge Mulqueen for passing forged checks in order to lavish luxuries on a girl to whom he had been married a week before his arrest.

He had been indicted on the charge of Theodore J. Kenny of 102 West 183d Street, who has an account with Russell, Miller & Carey, brokers at 52 Broadway, and by whom Spencer was employed. Mr. Kenny's name had been affixed to a check for $1,000 by Spencer. A few days later, it was alleged, Spencer drew $1,000 on the account of Mrs. Elizabeth M. Cuyton, a nurse, of 146 West 104th Street, with the firm, and also appropriated to his own use $1,700 of $3,000 which had been entrusted to him by Miss Carrie Mills, as well as the share of Spencer's sister in a bank account jointly held by them.

"You are not such a prize package as a young lover," Judge Mulqueen said to Spencer yesterday. "You wanted that young woman as your wife, and you stole to get her. You didn't woo her honestly. These people who spoke for you haven't lost a dollar through you because you were bonded. The law is made to protect people, and we are not to weep over crooks."

Miss Mabel Sprague, a probation officer, who had investigated Spencer's past, uncovered that he had been divorced by his first wife in Connecticut in 1922. Miss Sprague was standing near Spencer when sentence was imposed. As Spencer was being taken from court he turned to her and said: "I was a fool. The money and I soon parted."

James Reilly, who said he was 50 years old and admitted that he had been convicted of fourteen various offenses since he began a life of crime twenty-three years ago, when sentenced yesterday to two and a half years in Sing Sing told Judge Mulqueen that a career of crime is not a profitable one. Reilly a week before had pleaded guilty to an indictment charging attempted burglary. On July 28 he broke into the apartment of Florence Reed, at 620 West 189th Street, and was caught in the street by a policeman, with $85 in loot. He had raised himself in the lift of the dumbwaiter and forced open the door leading to the apartment in the absence of the tenant.

"You're just a fair sample of what happens to all criminals sooner or later," Judge Mulqueen told Reilly as he was about to impose sentence.

"You're right, Judge," Reilly replied. "There's nothing in it. I don't expect to be let off, but I want to tell you that I tried to go straight for three years."

"You must like it in prison now, with all the attractions they have there nowadays," pursued the Court.

"No, I don't, your Honor," replied Reilly hopefully.

"Well, Reilly," continued Judge Mulqueen, "you are old, and I have been informed that you are in ill health I don't want to be inhuman, but I can do nothing in your case but sentence you to prison. You will receive the best of medical attention there."

MACAO OPIUM FRAUDS ALLEGED BY BRITISHER

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, Aug. 29.—An item in the report of the Portuguese Government to the League of Nations on the traffic in opium was bitterly criticized at the meeting here yesterday afternoon of the Opium Advisory Commission of the League.

Portugal's opium traffic centres about the Island of Macao near Hongkong and is said to be the only Portuguese colony where opium is consumed and sold.

Under the present contract between the Portuguese Government and its concessionaries the quantity of opium permitted on the entire island in 1924 was 360 cases. The statistics submitted said that the imports from various vessels were as follows—100 cases, eight cases, thirteen cases, twenty cases and 120 cases.

Sir Malcolm Delevigne, President of the Commission, and head of the British Government's Opium and Dangerous Drugs Division, attacked the statistics, declaring that the last item of 120 cases, which was from Persia, in reality was 996 cases which were made up into 120 packages. He said this information was furnished to him by the British Secret Service. He declared that he would verify the shipments of eight, thirteen and twenty cases.

The statistics say that the opium was re-exported from Macao ten days afterward. This is alleged to indicate that the opium certainly was not delivered to Paraguay and probably was smuggled into China.

The Minister from Portugal to Switzerland, who is sitting on the Commission, declared in response to these charges that Portugal is being made the goat and that she is only a very small fish alongside of whales.

BITUMINOUS STRIKE AWAITED IN CAPITAL

Labor Department Hears Soft Coal Miners Are Likely to Quit Sympathetically.

FORESEES NEW FUEL ACT

Rationing of Coal and Priority in Shipments Envisaged if Crisis Becomes Acute.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—Unofficial information has reached Washington that the union men in the bituminous coal regions may walk out in sympathy with the strike of the anthracite miners that will become effective on Sept. 1. The statement was made tonight in a responsible quarter that prominent soft-coal operators fear a revolt on the part of their workers in support of the strike in the anthracite field.

As a result of the receipt of this information observers in the Division of Conciliation have been instructed to follow developments and report the results.

Should the prospective strike in the anthracite fields extend to the bituminous coal industry it might be necessary for the Federal Government, officials here say, to undertake a distribution of coal this Winter in order to prevent widespread distress among the people and as a means of obviating a cessation of industrial activities.

Revival of Fuel Act Suggested.

Suggestions have been made in favor of a revival of the Federal Fuel act of Sept. 22, 1922, in the event that an acute shortage in the fuel supply should follow the strike movement. Under present conditions there is no authority empowering the Government to act in such a crisis as now seems possible, except that contained in the emergency priority sections of the Transportation act of 1920, providing for allocation of cars in accordance with orders of the Interstate Commerce Commission. This authority would provide partial relief for regions destitute of coal, especially if cooperation could be obtained from the operators.

In the case of former strikes the Interstate Commerce Commission had the power to direct the movement of traffic, giving priority to that carrying fuel supplies. However, at the offices of the commission today it was stated that there is not at present a shortage of cars and that no difficulty on this score need be apprehended.

Officials of the Department of Labor today pointed out that a strike of bituminous miners would not lead to a complete suspension in the production of soft coal. There are many non-union miners engaged in that branch of the industry. Nevertheless, they say that a strike would seriously affect production and might cause distress. The news of a threatened strike in the bituminous region comes at a time when there was a general expectation that there would be a record-breaking output of soft coal. Hope is expressed that the troubles in the soft coal region will be smoothed over, as a strike there would widely extend the area of business disturbance.

Officials here see no present prospect that the hard coal strike will be arbitrated. They expect the fight to be indefinitely prolonged. They do not think that anything would be gained by an offer of arbitration originating with President Coolidge. They believe that if the President made such a move he would get no cooperation from the anthracite workers.

Editor Flouts Arbitration.

A good deal of significance is attached to a statement made by Ellis Searles, editor of The Mine Workers' Journal, appearing in the weekly edition of the official publication of the American Federation of Labor. Mr. Searles declared the miners would refuse arbitration. He said in part:

"Talk put out by operators in the hard coal fields, to the effect that they are anxious and willing to arbitrate the wage scale, but the miners refuse, is a fact.

"The United Mine Workers will not arbitrate a wage scale any more than a clothing dealer or a coal retailer would consent that outside parties arbitrate the price of a suit of clothes or a ton of coal. The coal miner sells his labor power and he does not propose to allow outsiders to dictate the kind of a living he shall get, or how he shall educate his children or the sort of food he shall eat—for that is what a wage arbitration amounts to.

"After a wage scale is signed and in force the miner is willing to arbitrate disputed points in the agreement, but not the original pact. He does not propose to have outside influences bind him as to how much he shall obtain for his labor.

"The United Mine Workers' organization has long since discovered the futility of basic arbitration. It is an economic impossibility. It would be just as equitable to arbitrate the price of shoes as it would be to arbitrate the price of what a miner or a shoemaker should sell his labor for. The operators' talk of the 'fairness' they display, in offering to arbitrate the hard coal wage contract, is the sheerest nonsense. They do not believe it themselves. It is a smoke screen to hide the real issue."

GOOD WEATHER FAVORS THE MACMILLAN SHIPS

Melville Bay Is Found Free of Ice Obstacles and Good Progress Is Made.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28 (AP).—The MacMillan Arctic expedition, southward bound after a severe struggle with the elements in the Far North, has run into unexpectedly good weather.

Melville Bay, where it had been feared that ice and fog again would delay the progress of the two exploring ships, has been found free of serious obstacles, and the Peary, which is leading, expected by tonight to reach Umanak, on Disco Island.

The favorable turn of the weather has encouraged the National Geographic Society and the navy, sponsors of the expedition, to hope that exceptionally valuable work may be done in explorations in Greenland and Labrador.

The belief here has been that the Peary, which carries the navy planes, might keep on her southward course ahead of the Bowdoin, her companion ship, but officials have had no definite word of such a plan. They now are inclined to believe that with favorable weather, the Peary will stay at least long enough to permit some airplane flights, although even if she does so she may come south ahead of the Bowdoin.

Commander MacMillan now is aboard the Peary; but he is expected to transfer to the Bowdoin during the period she is rounding out the work of the expedition, and to come home on her.

Due to the wear and tear of the expedition's experiences in the Arctic Circle, only one of the three navy planes taken north now is in flying condition. It is the belief here, however, that repairs can be made so that two will be available for air explorations before the Peary heads for the United States.

POLICEMAN IS SHOT; WIFE WOUNDED, TOO

QUARREL CAUSED AFFRAY

Patrolman's Delay on Special Work in Chinatown Angered Wife, He Declares.

Charged with shooting her husband, a policeman, Mrs. Laura Braendly, 30 years old, was taken to Harlem Hospital last night in a critical condition from a bullet wound in the lung, said to have been self-inflicted. Her husband was taken to the hospital in the same ambulance with a wound in the neck. He is expected to recover, but his wife has only an even chance, physicians say.

The shooting occurred in the home of the couple at 511 West 171st Street and was said to have been caused by a quarrel. The wounded policeman, George Braendly, was attached to the Clinton Street Station. He has been a member of the department for thirteen years.

The first version the police obtained was that both husband and wife had been wounded in a struggle for possession of the policeman's service pistol. At the hospital Braendly told the following story to Detectives Greco and Waldron of the Wadsworth Avenue Station:

He had done the early morning tour of duty in the Clinton Street precinct, completing it at 8 o'clock. Instead of going home, he said, he had spent the day on a special investigation in Chinatown.

When he reached home about 6 o'clock, according to his story, his wife met him at the door and started to criticize him for his delay in reaching home. The patrolman said that his explanations only added to the woman's anger, and that as he took off his belt which held the holster and pistol his wife seized it.

Braendly said he tried to remonstrate with her, but that she fired three shots at the floor. Frightened, she put the pistol down for a moment, he said, and he walked toward the front room. As he started through the door, according to his story, she leveled the pistol at him and fired again, striking him in the neck. A moment later, he said, she turned the pistol on herself and fired the shot that lodged in her right lung.

A passer-by heard the shots and summoned Patrolman Vail. When the latter arrived at the apartment he found Braendly shouting for aid and the woman lying on the floor, hysterical and bleeding. He found that five of the six shells in Braendly's pistol had been exploded.

The woman told the detectives that she could not remember what had happened. "All I know," she said, "was that I had the pistol and then I fell."

She was held on a charge of felonious assault and her husband was held as a material witness. The couple were married four years ago, and Braendly, according to the police, was the woman's third husband. He was married once previously and was divorced. They have no children.

Decatur Leads Navy in Efficiency.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28 (AP).—The Decatur, commanded by Lieut. Commander J. B. # CRAIG SAYS HYLAN HIT AT LABOR BANK commissioners and others holding appointment from him was a mild infraction of the law compared with this secret attempt to use $250,000 of public moneys to further his own political ends regardless of everything else.

Calls Bank "Cradle of the B. M. T."

There may have been another reason, however, for withdrawing this deposit of $250,000 from the Federation Bank. After its withdrawal this sum was placed on deposit by Chamberlain Berolzheimer in the Chase National Bank. The Chase National Bank is the cradle of the B. M. T., and Gerhard M. Dahl, so well known to Mayor Hylan, and who apparently is a willing subject of all Mayor Hylan's frothings, was a director of the Chase National Bank at the time the B. R. T. was reorganized into the B. M. T. The reorganization meeting was held at the Chase National Bank.

The Chase bank people are among those chiefly interested in the B. M. T. from the beginning. Huge sums of city money were kept on deposit in the Chase bank by Mayor Hylan's arrangement all duirng the time when the B. M. T. was being financed by the Chase bank and affiliated concerns.

Mayor Hylan's secret and unproclaimed attack on the Federation Bank, therefore, serves the double purpose of punishing organized labor for its opposition to him and rewarding the Chase National Bank, the birthplace of the B. M. T.

Moreover, the statements made by Mayor Hylan in his telegram to Chairman Mullaney as to his action in regard to the payment of the prevailing rate of wages by New York City to laborers, mechanics and others employed by it are false in every particular. It is the duty assumed by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment to provide appropriations and insert in the annual budget the rate of payment for all these classes of employes. Under Hylan's domination for the last three years the budget has continually provided rates lower than those known to be the prevailing rates in numerous trades and industries.

Says Hylan Was Unfair to Labor.

Nearly every attempt on the part of the laborers and mechanics affected by this illegal action to obtain relief and get a square deal from Hylan has been frustrated by him. Hylan's Corporation Counsel wrote an opinion that the prevailing rate of wages did not become effective until it was established by a vote of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment. As Controller, I persistently refused to give any effect to this opinion which was so manifestly a device to cheat the laborers and mechanics of the city.

As a result of the persistent refusal of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment under Hylan to include the prevailing rates of wages in the annual budget, large numbers of employes of the city have been compelled to file claims with the Controller to obtain redress. In every case where it was possible for the Controller to allow such a claim, they have been paid. But in many thousands of cases, due to the action of Hylan and his Corporation Counsel, it has been impossible to advance claims where Hylan was insisting upon the payment of rates materially lower than those to which the employes were entitled.

Hylan even went further than this, he gave instructions to the heads of departments to refuse to furnish to the Controller supplemental payrolls upon which the prevailing rate of wages could be paid even after the claims had been allowed by the Controller. This was particularly so in the case of the Fire Department, where this condition exists at the present moment.

In an effort to induce the Board of Estimate and Apportionment under Hylan to pay the prevailing rate of wages I had an appropriation of $500,000 inserted in the 1924 budget to permit the payment of the proper rates for that year over and above those specified in the budget. The budget was scarcely in effect before Hylan procured a sufficient number of votes in the Board of Estimate and Apportionment to transfer these moneys to other purposes.

The Mayor's Policy as to Wages.

Notwithstanding this discouraging experience with the 1924 budget, I contined my effort to obtain redress for these wrongs. The records show that for the 1925 budget I presented a formal request in the manner provided by the charter for an appropriation of $1,000,000 "for the purpose of meeting increases in wages under the provisions of the Prevailing Rate of Wages act as may be hereafter determined."

The Hylan group and Director of the Budget in the Board of Estimate and Apportionment attached a rider to this request so as to make the money available "for other adjustments." Any one can find this in the printed copy of the 1925 budget at page 326 under the code No. 3079.

The underhanded manipulation of Hylan involved not only an attempt on his part to cheat the laborers and mechanics employed by the city but it also involved what he has since carried into effect—namely, the use of this money to provide increases in salaries, many of which went to the Boroughs of Brooklyn, Queens and Richmond to influence the political action of highly paid officers in those boroughs.

At the Federation Bank, where $250,000 of City Treasury funds have been carried on deposit, the rate of interest being paid the city was 3 per cent. The public will be concerned to know that as a result of Hylan having this money transferred to the Chase National Bank the city will receive 2 per cent. on deposits, and also that the Chase National Bank, the birthplace of the B. M. T. and the bank of Gerhard M. Dahl, had on deposit approximately $10,000,000 yesterday maintained there by Chamberlain Berolzheimer under Hylan's arrangements.

HARD COAL INDUSTRY DIGS IN FOR A STRIKE

to obtain bituminous coal from Southern West Virginia, which is non-union territory. It was a blow to the mine workers, who had asked the anthracite operators to join with them in a petition to the commission for a decrease of anthracite freight rates.

Anthracite Operators Hurt.

The anthracite operators were hard hit by the decision, because it helped to bring bituminous coal into competition with their own product. The miners said today they were confident that the campaign to dump soft coal into anthracite territory was foredoomed to failure, and as evidence of the reluctance of hard coal users to take a substitute asserted that many dealers still had soft coal left from the last strike.

Predictions as to the length of the strike run from six weeks to four months. The leaders say frankly they do not know how long it will last. Nomination of the first mediator since the suspension order was sent out was made today by Mayor Dan Hart of Wilkes-Barre, who offered the name of F. M. Kirby, a Vice President of the F. W. Woolworth Company, and also a Vice President of the Lehigh Valley Railroad. Mayor Hart said he thought Mr. Kirby, who is well known in the coal region for his philanthropies, would be acceptable to both sides, but the Mayor has not yet brought his nomination to the attention of the disputants officially. In advance of an official proposal neither side would discuss the suggestion.

In the event of a suspension of mining in the anthracite region after Aug. 31, 1925, maintenance men necessary for the proper protection and preservation of property shall remain at work, subject to the following provisions:

First—All maintenance men shall receive any adjustment of wages that may result from any subsequent agreement between the respective parties; such adjusment, if any, shall be retroactive to Sept. 1, 1925.

Second—That maintenance men necessary for the proper protection and preservation of property shall be continued at their regular necessary continuous occupations, and if available not be replaced by others during the continuance of this agreement.

Third—That normal conditions that obtained during idle periods in the past shall be the basis for this agreement.

Fourth—Any differences arising in the mines under this agreement between committee and company officials as to the employment or non-employment of any maintenance men shall be referred for adjustment to the members of the Board of Conciliation for the district.

Miners Issue Notice.

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 28, 1925.

To the Officers and Members of Districts Nos. 1, 7 and 9, United Mine Workers of America.

Dear Sirs and Brothers:

Supplementing suspension order forwarded to local unions under date of Aug. 27, we advise our membership that an agreement was consummated today providing for maintenance men to continue at work during the suspension, and establishing the basis for such work.

The agreement in substance permits the continuance of necessary maintenance occupations. Maintenance men in such occupations are not to be replaced by others. Otherwise normal conditions that prevailed during idle periods in the past are to be the basis for this agreement. Any general settlement made will be retroactive to Sept. 1 affecting maintenance men. Copy of the agreement is herewith enclosed.

We consider this agreement an advanced step over similar agreements and fully protects our every interest.

Concerning the manner of handling maintenance work, we would state that all work necessary to preserve the normal conditions of the colliery, regarding ventilation, drainage and protection of property, is permitted. This involves such work as necessary engineers, boiler house employes, pump men, fuel men, electricians and those necessary to keep operating units in order.

If the operators desire that maintenance work be done not in keeping with these instructions, the mine committees are advised to take such matters up with the district officials in their respective districts before taking final action.

We trust these instructions will be carried out in the spirit intended and that the utmost cooperation be exercised between the local unions, mine committees and officers of the organization.

Your Scale Committee will continue to exercise every influence possible to further and protect the interests of our membership.

Respectfully submitted,
JOHN L. LEWIS,
International President.
PHILIP MURRAY,
International Vice President.
THOMAS KENNEDY,
International Secretary-Treasurer.
RINALDO CAPPELLINI,
President, District No. 1.
ANDREW MATTEY,

Hopes to Develop Public Opinion to Prevent Future Strikes.

Special to The New York Times.

SWAMPSCOTT, Mass., Aug. 28.—President Coolidge, it was pointed out today, when he moves to bring about a settlement of the hard coal strike hopes to reach a more important problem than the mere resumption of mining. He is studying the broader aspects of the strike, the relations between capital and labor, with the purpose of attempting to crystalize sentiment in favor of voluntary arbitration of disputes between labor and capital in industries concerned with public necessities.

It was declared by associates of the President that he recognizes that he is entering upon one of the most serious problems of his Administration; the question of unionism, refusing to submit its differences to impartial arbitration when the interest of the public is involved is regarded by the Administration as an issue that requires careful consideration and solution.

The Administration does not intend to take a position in the differences between the miners and operators which can be interpreted as favoring either side. When the President offers to come into the dispute, following the strike, it is declared that he will do so merely as a champion of the public—the coal consumer. He does not expect to act, it was said today, until he thinks he can do more than bring about a resumption of mining. What he wants to do is to see sentiment so strong and the pressure so compelling on both capital and labor that the settlement will carry with it the establishment of a moral obligation hereafter to submit all disputes to arbitration without a resort to a strike.

Sees Need to End All Strikes.

The imminent strike, Administration advisers say, has brought to the fore again the need of finding some amicable means to settle labor disputes without the continual strikes which demoralize business and bring about losses to labor and capital. It is argued that in addition to the discomfort following a coal strike the public suffers always in increased coal prices, made necessary to absorb the losses incurred by the operators.

Therefore, President Coolidge believes that it is his duty to suggest a plan to avoid such recurrences in industries affecting the public as intimately as does coal. So far as the public is concerned, the experts in the Government report that the surplus of hard coal and substitutes ought to satisfy the demands of hard-coal users for ten weeks at least. The President finds that the demands of the public for coal will not be so pressing as to influence hasty action.

During the Winter, it is said, the power of the Administration will be exerted in behalf of creating a public opinion that will bring about an agreement between the operators and labor, in industries affecting public necessities, for the settlement of wage and other disputes by arbitration.

While President Coolidge does not wish to act in the strike because of the lack of legal authority to do so effectively, it is now generally believed that his program will embrace some plan to bring an end to strikes in the hard coal industry. Before he does anything at all his course will be carefully thought out, and then it probably can be nothing more than a suggestion coming from the Chief Executive, who today enjoys nation-wide confidence and great prestige.

Withholds Comment.

President Coolidge offered no comment today upon the strike. He spent the day visiting Plymouth and other sections rich in early history. He seemed plainly worried by the two recent events that have come upon him at the end of his vacation—the London negotiations on the debt and the strike. The latter presents a problem filled with political dynamite.

As President of the United States Mr. Coolidge must preserve a judicial and impartial attitude toward both capital and labor. Therefore, any move he makes in the interest of the public might easily be misinterpreted by one side or the other and injure his party politically and lessen his influence with the people.

But despite the delicacies involved in the situation, it was said by the President's advisers tonight, he will act in due time in the interest of the people, but with the hope of influencing labor and capital to reach a common basis of agreement, such as voluntary arbitration of disputes in semi-public utilities.

READY FOR THE STRIKE.

Special to The New York Times.

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Aug. 28.—The Wyoming Valley, the largest of the three hard coal producing centres of the world, settled down today to await the shutdown of its dominant industry next Monday at midnight. A survey shows:

1. That there are sufficient coal stocks on hand to last at least three months.
2. That the Government will not intervene for several weeks or until a "pinch" is actually felt.
3. That there is no immediate hope of arbitration.

Meanwhile the Citizens' "No Strike" Committee, which failed to arrange the arbitration of the wage dispute resulting in the strike call, is preparing for another effort, but the hope of accomplishing anything definite appears rather remote.

A group of local union officials who had just returned from the district headquarters at Scranton predicted today that the tie-up would be short, not more than three or four weeks. But such a reliable source of information as the local Federal Bureau of Mines is reported from Washington as informing Secretary of Labor James J. Davis that there is a supply of anthracite coal scattered over five counties sufficient to supply the demands of the country for two or three months.

It is from such a local source as this that Washington gets its report that the suspension will last that long and perhaps longer.

It is no secret in the anthracite coal trade that business is not brisk now and that a period of idleness of moderate duration would be of vast financial benefit to the operators. Again there is the factor registered in other suspensions that the majority of miners look not with disfavor at "vacation," provided it is not too long. The real sufferers, however, will be the coal consumers of this region, as much as New England and seaboard States generally.

PLAN TO RATION COAL.

New Jersey Dealers to Discuss Methods Next Monday.

Asa E. Broadbent, Secretary of the New Jersey Coal Dealers' Association of Newark, issued a call yesterday for a meeting of the organization Monday to discuss plans for rationing coal during the strike of the anthracite miners, which is scheduled to be started Sept. 1.

Mr. Broadbent said there was plenty of coal on hand in Northern New Jersey and that most persons had already laid down a considerable part of their Winter's supply, but that dealers desired to protect the public against those who might buy in excess of need and cause hardship among others if the strike were prolonged. He said suggestions had been made not to sell coal to those who have enough to last them for several weeks and to give preference to hospitals, schools, bakeries and restaurants.

NEW YORK, August 29—For autumn, let it be said anew that London approves brown; Paris applauds brown; New York adopts brown. It is the color you will see on the best-turned-out men, those who can dip into a bottomless wallet to gratify their foibles and fancies. Be certain that you wear just the right shade of brown. The tint that is even a little off is 'way off—there is no half-way about it. Exclusive, but not expensive.

FRANCE TO EXTEND TIME FOR HER LOAN

Due to Bank Strike, a Decree Is Expected Leaving 4 Per Cent. Issue Open Till Oct. 3.

TREASURY HAS WIDE MARGIN

Bank Report Is Encouraging and Trade Surplus for Seven Months Is Reported.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 28.—Publication is expected soon of a decree announcing the extension to Oct. 3 of the time limit for subscribing to the 4 per cent. loan.

As already reported, the bank strike has caused a real prejudice to the subscription of the total, and the present results might be considered disappointing if the true cause were unknown. The loan would certainly go better if the strike were ended, especially as the extended time will allow the farmers, who are the biggest savers here, to devote a larger proportion of their profits from the harvest, which is almost finished, to the new loan.

No information has been published concerning the actual figure attained, but the market remains under the unfavorable impression mentioned above, and the firmness of exchange and securities at a time when the market is generally depressed is characteristic. But the situation may evolve rapidly for the better.

The Treasury's next large redemption falls on Sept. 25 for nominally 8,237,000,000 francs, but only 3,500,000,000 in bonds have been deposited for redemption. If the entire latter sum is not applied to purchasing the new loan, the bearers may be expected, as in July, to demand conversion into defense bonds.

Moreover, the Treasury has a considerable margin at the Bank of France, since the maximum advances to the State are fixed at 32,000,000,000 francs and the present figure is well under 28,000,000,000.

Similarly the circulation maximum is now 51,000,000,000 francs and the actual circulation is only 41,700,000,000. The Bank of France return is again satisfactory, the State having repaid 50,000,000 francs and the circulation having fallen 80,000,000.

Public opinion welcomes what is called the first reasonable basis of settlement which the British Government seems prepared to accept for the French debt. It was felt that £20,000,000 was inadmissible for the annuities because incompatible with the Balfour note and the proportion of the French debt to the total of the British claims. It is held that the figure of £10,000,000 or £12,500,000 would be reasonable, provided Germany met her engagements.

Including the probable annuities to the United States, doubtless around £20,000,000, the French payments on war debts will represent over £30,000,000. If the service of the foreign commercial debt is included, representing over £25,000,000 for 1925, France will have to transfer in a few years from £55,000,000 to £60,000,000 annually. It is declared that neither the French budget nor France could support such a burden if Germany defaulted.

In July, imports reached 3,033,000,000 francs and exports 3,481,000,000. The figures for the first seven months of the year show France's favorable surplus to be 3,239,000,000 francs. But 1,000,000,000 francs must be deducted from this for the French colonial surplus, which does not provide for foreign exchange resources.

The greater part of the surplus was due to increased exports, but also to a decrease in the imports of agricultural produce and coal following upon the gradual recovery of French agriculture and coal mines, which were badly hit by the war and the invasion. Finally, it is certain that the export of manufactured products has also increased artificially, owing to the continued depreciation of the franc. But this situation will be rapidly altered with sounder finances and currency.

The expenditure of foreign tourists, that is, "invisible exports," gives rise to fanciful estimates. With an average tourist spending $1,200, including $500 for traveling, the total would be 5,000,000,000 francs from the Americans alone, but such figures are doubtful for other nationalities. The estimates vary between 6,000,000,000 and 10,000,000,000 francs, but as the purchasing power of the franc is much higher at home than it is abroad, it is doubtful whether the influx of foreigners leaves much profit for the country in the end.

WASHINGTON DOUBTS BRITISH 'GENEROSITY'

Experts Figure Britain Is Charging France 6 Per Cent. Interest on Arrears.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—Officials here familiar with the transactions of the World War Foreign Debt Commission who have analyzed the debt agreement made between M. Caillaux of France and Winston Churchill of England, at London, stated today that they did not consider the British offer could be considered so "generous" as it has been in some quarters. They said that even if France secured no better terms at Washington than she did at London, what "generosity" there might be would come from the United States Government.

It was pointed out that while the original sum of the French debt to Great Britain was £445,200,000, or $2,163,700,000 at existing exchange, the amount talked of by Mr. Churchill was £623,000,000, or $3,027,800,000, the difference of $864,000,000 apparently being accrued interest. Taking the original debt of the French to the United States at $3,340,500,000, the experts said if America charged the same rate of interest that the British apparently are doing on arrears, the American interest charge would reach $1,336,200,000, instead of $870,050,000 the Treasury has calculated is due.

The experts asserted that the British must be charging the French 6 per cent. annually compounded interest for arrears, in contrast with the 4½ per cent. the United States charged Great Britain and the 3 per cent. she charged Belgium from the date of the British funding.

Resentment was shown by Treasury officials today over a statement alleged to have been made by M. Caillaux, to the effect that he expected the United States to accept a 2 per cent interest rate on the French debt to this country and that if the offer were refused he would return to France.

Whether M. Caillaux actually made the alleged statements officials are not in a position to know, but if he did so his action was bad policy so far as the feeling of the American Government is concerned. Dilatoriness already shown by France in the matter of the debt settlement has certainly won her no friends in Washington and should her representatives try to adopt a dictatorial attitude toward this country the distrust of French sincerity now underlying the surface would be much accentuated.

ZIONIST DEADLOCK SUSPENDS MEETINGS

Groups Which Abstained From Voting Refuse Assurance of Support to Executive.

ALL DEPENDS ON WEIZMANN

Principal Contributors to Cause in America and England Are Standing by the Executive.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, Aug. 28.—The deadlock in the Zionist Congress continues, following the virtual resignation of Dr. Weizmann and the Zionist executive yesterday. The congress is not sitting today, as the whole day has been taken up with committee meetings and caucuses, working feverishly in attempts to straighten out the tangled situation. One of the leaders, pro-Weizmann, blocked a plan for harmony when Dr. Weizmann and the executive were willing to reconsider their withdrawal, only if full assurances were given by the obstructionist groups that they will support the executive without reservations.

It is now understood that both Right and Left groups, which, by abstaining from the vote of confidence in the executive, produced the deadlock, are embarrassed and looking for a way out, as they are unprepared to offer any alternative policy or to organize an executive personnel. They also realize that the financial support of wealthy American and English Jews, without which the Zionist movement will be unable to go on, depends entirely upon Dr. Weizmann's continuation in office. The Opposition groups, which lacked the courage to come out in the open and vote against the executive, now realize that the Zionist movement cannot do without Weizmann, even if his policy is not wholly satisfactory.

The Mizrachi group opposes him because they say he has introduced an irreligious spirit in the foundations of the new Jewish State. The Socialists are against him because, by recognizing the need of support for middle-class immigration, they say he neglects the backbone of the Palestine settlement, which is peasants and working class. Another objection to Dr. Weizmann is that he gives in to the British Government too much. Nevertheless, it seems certain that he will win out, as the important group which controls practically all contributions to the Zionist cause upholds him.

Owing to the deadlock, the Congress, which should have disbanded today, will continue its sessions until Sunday night. The Political Committee is now drafting a plan of extension of the Jewish agency which also will have to be passed upon.

Report on Educational System.

VIENNA, Aug. 28 (Jewish Telegraphic Agency).—Last night's session of the Zionist Congress took place under the chairmanship of Dr. Leo Motzkin, while the political crisis still continued.

For the purpose of diverting attention from the crisis the session was devoted to a discussion of the Hebrew educational system in Palestine. Nahum Sokolow delivered a report.

"The Hebrew educational system in Palestine," he said, "is a national question, for without the Hebrew language we are not a people. We are achieving in Palestine, through the Hebrew language, a status which Ireland has not succeeded in doing in the course of many generations. Not only pedagogues and specialists, but entire Jewry, must take an interest in the Hebrew educational system in Palestine, because the kingdom of the Jews is the kingdom of the spirit.

"In the Hebrew educational system of Palestine there should be room for all kinds of schools, not excluding the Mizrachi schools. The function of ordaining Rabbis must be concentrated in Palestine, naturally with the introduction of a pedagogical system," Mr. Sokolow concluded, praising highly the teachers of the Hebrew schools in Palestine.

Dr. David Yellin of Jerusalem made a report on the same subjet.

Hash Is Popular Winner in Cooking Contest; Copeland Helps to Pick Five Best Recipes

Senator Royal S. Copeland and two other judges sat down to a $250 dinner yesterday afternoon in Toddle Inn, 2,549 Broadway, and at the end picked the five winning dishes made from the best recipes among 5,000 submitted in a contest conducted by the United Restaurant Owners' Association. Each of the five women adjudged winners received a check for $50.

"It seems like Christmas," said Senator Copeland as he turned from filet of sole to chicken fricassee. The $50 dish of hash, plainly devoid of all suspicion, aroused the most enthusiasm among the groups of spectators. The Senator and his two feminine colleagues, the other judges, fervently shook hands with Mrs. Hadwick Marchfeld, its maker, of 2,153 Washington Avenue, the Bronx, who proudly declared she had always done all her own cooking.

There were fifteen entries in the finals yesterday, three authors of the best recipes for each of five standard dishes having been chosen to make practical application of their recipes in the kitchen of the restaurant. One winner was picked from each class. Judgment was based on appearance, taste and healthfulness. The five standard dishes exhibited had previously been voted the most popular in a city-wide ballot of restaurant patrons.

The winners selected were Mrs. Kathleen Todd, 93 Joralemon Street, Brooklyn, corn beef and cabbage; Mrs. Alice Dopler, 332 East Eighty-fourth Street, vegetable dinner; Mrs. Zahrah Preble, 625 West 169th Street, filet of sole; Mrs. Mary E. Trautmann, who represented the Women's Protective Association, 424 Central Park West, chicken fricassee, and Mrs. Hadwick Marchfeld, 2,153 Washington Avenue, the Bronx, hash.

Besides the Senator, the judges were Miss Katherine A. Fisher of the Good Housekeeping Institute and Lettie Gay of the Tribune Institute.

FRENCH NOW PRESS FOR A DEBT ACCORD

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

cannot pay England and America more than she gets from Germany.

In all seriousness the Petit Journal says it must not be forgotten that part of the London agreement provides that if the United States gives better terms than England suggested, England will revise her proposal.

The Quotidien observes that the whole settlement of interallied debts now depends on America. "To get out of the dangerous complication of the post-war period," it says, "Europe now requires that the Government and people of America show not so much generosity as foresight."

L'Homme Libre says that the way the matter works out there is one debtor, Germany, and one creditor, the United States, and that, whether America liked it or not, her only chance of getting paid is if the Dawes plan works successfully. It bases its argument on the French position that France will pay no more than she gets from Germany. "This truth," it adds, "is not new, but today it stands out in full light. All the diplomatic comedies in the world cannot hide it."

Premier Painlevé said today composition of the Debt Commission which is to go to America will be fixed by the Cabinet on Thursday.

Small Debtor Nations Are Hurried.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28 (AP).—Completion of all funding negotiations with America's wartime debtors and action upon the agreements by the forthcoming session of Congress is the new program of the American Debt Commission.

Official Washington appeared satisfied today that the program could be accomplished as a result of the stern measures adopted with respect to the smaller debtors and the assurances of action already given by France and Italy, the two remaining major powers whose debts are unfunded.

Dissatisfied with the slow progress of conversation with most of the smaller nations, the commission has taken a positive stand, the first evidence of which is the information that Czechoslovakia soon will send a delegation to take up a funding proposal and that the Greek Government has authorized its Minister here to initiate negotiations. Informal exchanges have been under way for some weeks between the commission and Minister Piip of Esthonia, and the Latvian Minister here is near an agreement with this Government.

The Treasury has not been informed definitely when the Czechoslovak representatives may be expected. It was declared in official circles, however, that the Government of Czechoslovakia had been told directly that the United States desired it to send a commission here without undue delay.

BELGIUM TO ACT PROMPTLY.

Ministry Denies There Will Be Any Delay on Debt Agreement.

BRUSSELS, Aug. 28 (AP).—Reports reaching here from the United States that dissatisfaction has been aroused in Washington over the possibility that the debt settlement agreement recently arrived at between Belgian representatives and the American Debt Funding Commission may not be ratified before Christmas have caused surprise in official circles. It is declared by the Ministry of Finance that the accord will be executed under the conditions fixed by the men who conducted the negotiations and it is pointed out that the debt agreement heads the list of subects to be taken up by the Cabinet meeting called for Monday.

The correspondent of Le Soir who interviewed the Belgian debt-funding delegates when they arrived at Cherbourg from the United States says he gathered the impression that there was a secret clause in the accord, as, according to the correspondent, one of the delegates declared that a few weeks would show Belgium had obtained something to balance the inconvenience always resulting from a creditor's exactions.

All the delegates are represented by the correspondent as expressing satisfaction with the results achieved, declaring it was impossible to obtain better.

CHERBOURG, France, Aug. 28 (AP).—The Belgian Debt Commission, returning from Washington, on their arrival today on the liner Majestic refused to discuss the negotiations at Washington which resulted in an agreement for the funding of Belgium's debt to the United States.

The Belgian delegates said they had promised Secretary of the Treasury Mellon to observe the strictest secrecy in regard to the recent negotiations.

WANTS US TO ACT ALONE.

Borah Opposed to Three-Cornered Conference on France's Debt.

BOISE, Idaho, Aug. 28 (AP).—France's debt to the United States should be adjusted without the assistance of England, Senator Borah, Chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee of the Senate, said yesterday in discussing negotiations now occurring between France and England.

"As I view it," said Senator Borah, "France's debt to the United States is a matter to be adjusted between France and the United States. It is neither expedient nor wise for the United States to become involved in any three-cornered conference. The terms suggested to the United States through the courtesy of England may be satisfactory to England, but I do not think that they will be satisfactory to the taxpayers of the United States.

"I trust England will feel perfectly free to make any settlements she wants to, and I expect the United States to adjust this debt in accordance with the understanding had between the French Government and the United States in the beginning, and in accordance with the facts and conditions as they exist now. The manoeuvre which is being made in this matter in London is perfectly transparent and need not mislead any one."

CURTIS IS OPTIMISTIC.

Believes French Debt Will Not Involve Serious Difficulties.

TOPEKA, Kan., Aug. 28 (AP).—An optimistic view of the war debt situation was expressed by Senator Curtis, Republican leader, when he reached his home today from a vacation on the East Coast.

"Once the United States and France agree," the Senator declared, "we will be on our way to a speedy adjustment of the war obligations. I am optimistic about the French matter and do not believe it will involve the serious difficulties which many observers have indicated."

Senator Curtis believes there will not be "the slightest disapproval of the Belgian loan settlement when it is thoroughly understood."

"It will be approved, in my opinion, both in this country and abroad," he said. "Our obligation was very clear. President Wilson had frankly expressed his desire and extended a promise which was in fact a moral obligation on our part. We could only carry out that promise."

PRINCE NOT COMING HERE.

His Suite Denies He Asked King's Permission for New York Visit.

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 28 (AP).—Reports from London to the effect that the Prince of Wales had requested King George's permission for a week's visit to New York, stopping there after concluding his calls in the British West Indies, were published here today.

RAIDS TWENTY INNS AS A PARTING SHOT

Merrick, Leaving His Post Here, Directs a Farewell Drive in Westchester.

SEIZES $40,000 LIQUOR

Leaves Summonses in Every Place—Finds One Masked as a Gasoline Station.

The final official act of R. Q. Merrick as Divisional Chief of General Prohibition Agents for District 2, with headquarters in this city, was to order raids by his "Flying Squad" yesterday on twenty inns, roadhouses and speak-easies in five towns in Westchester County. The raids resulted in the seizure and destruction of $40,000 in whiskies, wines, champagnes, beers and cordials and the issuance of a summons to at least one person in each of the places raided. Mr. Merrick will be transferred to Buffalo, N. Y., today.

Although he expressed himself as well satisfied with the outcome, Mr. Merrick is known to have expected even bigger results from his final move against dry law violators in this territory, and that he ordered the raids as a parting shot at violators in the district under his jurisdiction until today and as a warning of what may be expected from him by those in the district to which he goes.

The "Flying Squad," which took the 125-mile automobile trip yesterday, was made up of Samuel Kurzman, Karl Rosen, Thomas Shannon, Daniel Connealy and William Stafford, who is known as "The Lone Wolf" because of the many raids he has made single-handed. The squad returned to this city last night with only $10,000 worth of the liquor they said they had found, having destroyed at lease $30,000 worth of liquors they declared were unfit for human consumption.

Go With Search Warrants.

Kurzman and Stafford, leaders of the squad, started out with three search warrants and, although they said they had entered twenty places in all, they did not go into details of any of the raids except those made on places where search warrants were procured by the agents.

The first of these places, they said, was a roadhouse at Hawthorne owned by Frank Kahnert. On Aug. 26 Kurzman and Stafford went to that roadhouse and, posing as salesmen with a thirst, said they obtained evidence that the prohibition law was being violated. Yesterday they found the place camouflaged as a gasoline station, they reported, and in front a large sign read: "Buy your gas here." They seized quantities of liquors there, they said, and left summonses for Kahnert and William Jarosed, one of his waiters.

Their next stop was Fair Town Inn, at Mount Pleasant, owned by Adolph Schaeffer, whom the agents described as a typical German innkeeper of the old day. In the place, the raider said, were several grave diggers who had just come from Mount Kisco Cemetery, which is just in the rear of the inn.

Schaeffer, the officers declared, did not understand what a search warrant was and they had to tell him they were going to examine his place because he had "no eagle on the flag out front." Schaeffer's wife finally informed her husband that they were being raided and Schaeffer became hysterical. Numbers of bottles of liquor were taken out of the inn, according to members of the "flying squad," and were broken against the near-by railroad tracks.

He Calls for the Police.

Seeing this Schaeffer, still in some doubt as to the authority and intentions of his callers, telephoned the Mount Pleasant police, but was informed that he was in the hands of Federal authorities and the local police could not interfere. After his stock of liquors was confiscated and destroyed he was served with a summons.

The third search-warrant raid was made upon a small roadhouse owned by Mrs. Rose Bambace at 11 Orawaupum Street, White Plains. It is in the rear of a railroad station. Several hundred bottles of whisky were found on the premises, the raiders said, and several of these were discovered in a large stove in the kitchen.

At all the other places where raids were made and summonses left there was no resistance, the agents reported, but they netted less liquor than the three places named by them. All the alleged dry law violators who were given summonses were ordered to appear Monday morning before United States Commissioner Garrett Cotter in New York City.

Other towns in Westchester visited by the "Flying Squad" are Valhalla, Mount Kisco and Tarrytown.

'FLYING BOOTLEGGER' SLAIN IN CHICAGO

BOTH SHOT FROM BEHIND

Officers Believe "Dope" Seekers Slew Them—Flier's Parents Accuse the Police.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—Irving Schlig, suspected as "the flying bootlegger," and Harry Berman, declared to have been a West Side gunman, were found slain near the Ashburn Field, the air harbor in Southwest Chicago of the Illinois Aero Club, early today. Each had been shot through the back of the neck. Schlig's automobile, riddled with bullets and stained with blood, was found a few hours later in the Douglas Park lagoon, miles away.

From the circumstances the police said they reconstructed the crime as The killers went riding early this morning with their victims in Schlig's car. At South Cicero Avenue and 82d Street, where the bodies were found, or perhaps earlier on their route, they shot Schlig and Berman from behind. Then they placed the bodies in the road, drove the car back to town, rolled it into the park lagoon and disappeared.

A small black suitcase, packed with an aviator's outfit, may have been the cause of the murder. It was found 500 feet away from the bodies. Bloody hands had gone through it as if hunting for something. The killers may have thought it contained dope smuggled in by Schlig in his plane, the police said.

Still farther along the road was a pillow case, blood-marked. The murderers had wiped their hands and the car with it, detectives surmised. The fact that Schlig is said to have been flying from Chicago to Canada and back, smuggling liquor and perhaps dope as well, gave plausibility to the dope-murder theory.

Other possibilties, however, were considered. Some gang feud might have prompted the killing, it was admitted. Schlig had long been considered by the police as a burglar and "stick-up" man. He was suspected of having helped George Connell in the $200,000 jewel robbery of the Parkway Hotel a year ago.

Police who knew Schlig said gunmen had been after him, presumably to make him disclose the hiding places of loot taken in the Connell gang's robbery. John Schlig, 3,625 Janssen Avenue, the bootlegger flier's father, gave the story a different twist.

"I think policemen did it," he said. "My son had been digging up bail for some members of the Connell gang. Policemen mixed up with the gang have been after him for bail for others of the crowd. He refused. He told me he was going to quit the gang and go straight. Last week six policemen threatened to kill him. I'm going to get them if it takes my last cent."

Schlig and his wife, who are working people, were heartbroken.

"He was a good boy at heart, but wild," the mother said.

Charles Ullom, head of the Acme Repair Service, was taken into custody when Captain Stege found in the hangars of the Illinois Aero Club an airplane that he thinks Schlig had been using. Painted on the bottom of the ship was a broad red stripe. That is the insignia of the bootlegger's flying corps, according to Captain Stege.

Ullom denied having loaned his ship to Schlig, but the police declared his story "unsatisfactory." He will be held for questioning, they said.

SOVIET PROMISES REPUBLIC FOR JEWS

First Year of Colonization Results in Settling 80,000 in Forty-five Ukrainian Areas.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MOSCOW, Aug. 28.—Tomorrow is the anniversary of the foundation of a committee for the settling of the Jewish population on the land in the region of Kherson, in the Ukraine. The State's Committee on Economic Life has obtained from the Soviet Government in the past year upward of 25,000,000 acres, now occupied by 80,000 Jewish landworkers in forty-five colonies or groups.

The President of the Ukraine Council of Commissars, M. Chubar, promised to establish this region under independent Jewish administration, and "it is extremely probable he will succeed in setting up an autonomous Jewish republic on the level of the rest of the Soviet republics," it is said here.

The Committee on Economic Life is at work on a foreign organization—notably with an American agricultural joint committee, which has subscribed $700,000 already—for settling the Jewish people on land and the movement is meeting a favorable reception among the Ukraine authorities.

It is hoped soon to conclude a special agreement with the Paris "Israelite Colonization Association."

Press Comment on the French Debt Agreement

NEW YORK.

"Can Have No Effect on This Country."

From The Herald Tribune.

For nothing would be clearer, despite the dust stirred up by propagandists of one party or anotner, than that the action of England can have no effect whatever upon this country's decision with respect to France. It is suggested that the settlement removes one obstacle to easy terms to France by making it clear that England has no objection to such leniency. This is based upon a complete misapprehension. It is true that the British negotiators, at the time of the settlement with this country, sought to make the terms conditional upon the other settlements, insisting that if other countries obtained a lower rate of interest the British rate should be lowered thereto. But this country rejected any such condition. The British agreement was a settlement without any shadow of condition attached to it, legal or moral. This country has always been entirely free to reach any settlement with France that equity and the economic status of France justified. There, indeed, is the whole problem, and it is only confused by political moves and premature forecasts that seek to foreclose the decision.

Says Caillaux Should Change Tactics.

From The World.

It is a mischievous and wrong-headed proceeding. It will not deceive the United States at all. It may and probably will deceive M. Caillaux's constituents in France. They will be led to think that unless Mr. Coolidge accepts the terms M. Caillaux talked about with so many reservations to Mr. Churchill the blame for failure to settle will rest on Mr. Coolidge. M. Caillaux, in short, is misleading his own people and apparently preparing an alibi for a failure to agree at Washington. M. Caillaux should change his tactics or France should change her representative if any good is to come of the impending Washington debt conference. The American people suspect and dislike clever and intricate diplomatic deals. If France wants to pay us $70,000,000 a year instead of the $118,000,000 which would be due on the principle of the British settlement, let her say so frankly, unsentimentally and simply. But let her not mix up a plea for easy terms with a demonstration of what a wizard M. Caillaux is.

BOSTON.

"More Adroit Than Tactful."

From The Boston Herald.

M. Caillaux is more adroit than tactful. His strategy should be based on frankness rather than cleverness. He sadly misinterprets the spirit of America when he says he intends to send a delegation to the United States with instructions "to take the next boat home" if we refuse to fund the French debt on the terms "tentatively" adopted for funding the debt of France to Britain. He does not help his cause when he declares the repeated announcements of our policy are merely to be regarded as "bluffing." It is a fair surmise that neither the French nor the British negotiator was open and sincere in the consummation of this "tentative" adjustment.

SPRINGFIELD, MASS.

Says "Trick Will Not Set Well."

From The Republican.

If this business is a diplomatic game—and it ought not to be—the American people may not enjoy seeing the diplomatic artists of France and Britain cutting circles around their own representatives. A Paris-London Cabinet trick calculated to "force" the United States to accept an interest rate of about 2 per cent. on the French debt for a period of sixty-two years will never "set" well in Senator Jim Reed's Missouri, or Senator Borah's Idaho, or Senator Hiram Johnson's California, or Mayor Dever's Chicago, or Mayor Curley's Boston. * * * The Coolidge Administration's prestige at home is now staked on its ability to sidestep the Caillaux-Churchill trap and appear at least to make its own impress unmistakably on the final settlement.

CHICAGO.

Not Bound to Accept British Terms.

From The Chicago Tribune.

By taking all the conditions into account, we do not concede that we ought to feel bound to adopt the British terms. We think our Government has been right in insisting that each settlement we make must stand upon its own bottom. Unquestionably the Anglo-French settlement involves special considerations which would have no place in a settlement between France and us.

PHILADELPHIA.

Sees Attempt to Cancel Debts.

From The Public Ledger.

Frenchman and Briton are again trying to bring about that very debt cancellation which Europe has tried to force upon the United States for seven years. If successful, they will deserve all that can be given them. They will at last have achieved the European purpose of persuading America to pay for Europe's war. This country knows what France can pay. Congress and the country will realize that these terms France will ask under the London-made agreement amount to cancellation. If the American commission offers any such settlement there will be an explosion in both houses of Congress.

CINCINNATI.

Calls It "Offspring of Expediency."

From The Commercial Tribune.

There is strong intimation that Churchill and Caillaux have perpetrated something less than statesmanship. By intent it has sinister portent for our future debt negotiation. There is every reason to believe that this arrangement will make any reasonable terms of debt payment asked from France appear unreasonable by contrast. Plainly it is the offspring of expediency, the conscienceless sharp practice in calculating expression of international politics. It is the sort of politics that has made the Governments of the world degenerate and set the standards of international statesmanship at the low level of cut-throat conspiracy, the one against the other, and the two against the one, any time self-interest thereby is served.

PROVIDENCE.

Calls British 'Constructive Opportunists.'

From The Journal.

The British are constructive opportunists. They are accustomed to ignore precedent if it seems to them desirable to do so. They are more concerned with conditions than they are with theories when it comes to hard business facts, and their intimate acquaintance with world affairs through their long training in imperial administration has borne in upon them the importance of doing their utmost to rehabilitate the war-stricken countries of the earth. * * * M. Caillaux, that canniest of French financiers, has reached a tentative agreement with his country's creditors, and they, while conceding much, have shown a broad-minded and constructive type of statesmanship which must be permitted to operate if the world is to be rescued from the economic perplexities in which the greatest of human conflicts has left it.

KANSAS CITY, MO.

"Framing" This Government.

From The Star.

The United States had thought it had dealt generously with both England and France. It lent them money freely. It cut the British interest rate below what it was paying for the money. It allowed France to go for years without collecting even the interest on the debt. So it had assumed that it could expect fair treatment in return, but now it finds the French Finance Minister and the British Chancellor of the Exchequer engaged in "framing" this Government. They are fixing up a situation in which they can call the world to witness what a skinflint America is unless it forgives the French the tidy sum of four billion dollars. Three years ago the British Cabinet, through Lord Balfour, carried out a precisely similar manoeuvre.

LOS ANGELES.

Calls for a Business Basis.

From The Los Angeles Times.

These attempts to draw our Government into a debt controversy display a low calibre of statesmanship. Both Churchill and Caillaux should know that our Government transacts its business purely on a business basis. France owes this country a little more than $4,000,000,000, and the Government and people of the United States expect France to pay.

SAN FRANCISCO.

Asks What Price France Pays.

From The Chronicle.

This means that England will let France off easy only if the United States does the same. In other words, England has put into the hands of France a lever with which to work on America. These considerations give rise to pardonable curiosity as to what price France is to pay for this leniency at British hands. Whether it be in concessions or other diplomatic currency, France can afford to pay well if the British terms can be used to extract equally favorable terms from America.

Special to The New York Times.

HAMMONTON, N. J., Aug. 28.—While an Atlantic City bound express train was running under the bridge at Ancora, seven miles west of here, this afternoon, it was stoned by men or boys standing on that structure. Several missiles entered one of the ten cars comprising the train, which was running at sixty miles an hour.

Two passengers were injured. They were Mrs. Robert Nelson of 3,639 North Fifth Street and Miss Mary Grille of 3,671 Evelyn Place, both of Philadelphia. Both victims received first aid on the train, which continued on to Atlantic City. State police were sent at once or an investigation. Another train was stoned near the same town several weeks ago.

Yesterday water was thrown on the same train from the same bridge, police were told, while nearly a month ago a passenger on the express was injured by rocks thrown from the Ancora bridge.

Bids on Thousands of Acres in South Jersey Asked by Government.

Special to The New York Times.

HAMMONTON, N. J., Aug. 28.—The War Department has ordered the sale of the Amatol Arsenal Reservation, said to be the largest of its kind in the world. Sealed bids for the purchase of the tract, which is located on the White Horse Pike, three miles south of Hammonton, must be received at the Munitions Building, Washington, D. C., by Sept. 29. The sale will include the extensive administration building, admired by millions of motorists bound to and from shore points.

The reservation is to be sold as five plots, four with frontage on the Pennsylvania Railroad (the White Horse Pike passing through them) and averaging about 220 acres each, the other fronting on the Moss Mill Road, embracing about 5,000 acres. About 4,000 New York men and women and as many from other points were employed daily at this arsenal during the war. It was used as a shell-loading plant.

More than 150 years ago Emanuel Swedenborg opened the internal sense of Genesis and Exodus, unlocked the book of Revelation, revealed the wonders of Heaven and Hell, the ways of Divine Providence, and the Marriage law that is in all creation.

He declared this a revelation—not from any angles of heaven, but directly from the Lord Jesus Christ—as the foundation of a New Age for the world.

The most modern translation is in the Rotch Edition, published by Houghton Mifflin & Co., in 32 volumes, of which 20 comprise the spiritual meaning of Genesis and Exodus.

BERLIN TO RAISE NEW ISSUE

Will Demand That Arbitration Terms Apply to Versailles Treaty—Note Made Public.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 28.—With the receipt here of Germany's reply to the French note on security, agreeing to participate in the meeting of the German and allied legal experts in London on Monday, it was reported tonight that following the completion of the experts' work on technical aspects of the problem, in about ten days, Foreign Minister Stresemann will meet the Allied Foreign Ministers at Lausanne about Sept. 15 and that it is expected they will arrange for the security conference to be held probably in Brussels in the month of October.

It was said in Paris tonight that if this works out, a special skeleton meeting of the Assembly League of the Nations may be called about the first of the year to vote Germany into the League. It was admitted today that it was scarce-ly likely that Germany would join the League during the regular Assembly meetings, which opens at Geneva on Sept. 7.

Paris seems well pleased with the speed now being shown by Germany in working toward the security negotiations, and, while there is no official announcement, there must be an official reason for believing that Dr. Stresemann will come to Lausanne after he had refused to meet the Allied Ministers in Geneva.

The experts are expected to prepare tentative drafts of the proposed Rhineland Treaty and arbitration agreements which can serve as the basis of discussion in the parley of the Foreign Ministers. At Lausanne the projects would be further whipped into shape so that the more formal calling of the security conference in October would of itself give a strong indication of the probability of its success.

After seven years of tergiverations it is interesting to note that both the thorny question of security and the troublesome problem of interallied debts appear to be moving toward a settlement at the same time.

Text of the German Reply.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 28.—The German reply to the French note on security was dispatched yesterday. It recognizes that there may be technical and legal aspects to the problem of the compact which need elucidation, and welcomes the idea of the meeting of the legal experts of the Governments concerned, which will save a great deal of correspondence. This meeting will begin on Monday at the Foreign Office here, and is expected to last several days.

> They entirely share the opinion expressed at the end of the above note that the continuation of correspondence is scarcely calculated to lead to further elucidation of the questions connected with the conclusion of the security pact, and in their note of July 20 they had given expression to the desire that the discussions might be expedited as much as possible.
> The German Government, therefore, welcome the suggestion made verbally by his Excellency, the French Ambassador, that the legal experts of Germany, Belgium, France and Britain might meet as soon as possible in order to afford the German experts an opportunity to become acquainted with the views of the allied experts regarding the legal and technical aspects of the problems under discussion.
> In these circumstances the German Government, having in their note of July 20 defined their attitude concerning a number of most important matters, now considers it advisable to refrain from further written elucidation of these matters and from stating their views in regard to the observations made in the French note.

The legal experts who will meet on Monday are Sir Cecil Hurst of the British Foreign Office, M. Fromageot, the legal adviser for the French; Dr. Gaus for the Germans and M. Rolin for Belgium.

They will have before them the drafts of the compact which Sir Cecil and M. Fromageot each drew up to assist M. Briand and Mr. Chamberlain in their conversations, and Dr. Gaus will arrive from Berlin, if not with an actual draft, at any rate, a comprehensive knowledge of the German views pact. He wields great authority in the Berlin Foreign Office and his view of the situation as it develops will have a great effect on the attitude of his Government.

At the same time it is insisted here in both British and German circles that the nature of this meeting must be clearly recognized. It is not a conference, but merely an opportunity for the legal advisers of all sides to exchange information on their viewpoint and the implications they believed to be suggested in the terms of the compact.

The conferees will then report to their respective Governments and it will then be decided whether it would be worth while to have a conference to make the actual compact.

The preliminary nature of this interchange of views is emphasized, but it is noted that it is considered in the German quarters with far more pessimism than in the British. Dr. Gaus is expected to arrive here on Sunday.

NEW DEMAND BY GERMANY.

Would Apply Security Arbitration Terms to Versailles Treaty.

By LINCOLN EYRE.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Aug. 28.—Through Dr. Friedrich Gaus, her envoy to the London jurists' session, Germany will formulate demands tht disputes arising out of the Versailles Treaty be subject to the same sort of arbitration it is proposed to apply in case of the conflicts between signatories to the contemplated security compact. The disclosure of this new move may be regarded as absolutely authoritative, although the source from which it comes may not be revealed.

The Reich's position is that if the arbitration of quarrels threatening a nation's territorial integrity is to be imposed under the new treaties, the same provision must be made for disagreements precipitated through the enforcement of the Treaty of Versailles.

For instance, the Germans allege that certain of the demands laid down in the Allies' last disarmament note run counter to the Versailles military clauses. Under the present circumstances, however, they have no way of making their view prevail if rejected by the allied Governments. Consequently, Germany is exposed to such sanctions as the continuance of the Cologne occupation or even the occupation of territory hitherto unoccupied without any right of appeal, while at the same time she is invited voluntarily to abrogate her own sovereign privilege of taking military action in other directions until the arbitral process created by the security compact has functioned.

In other words, France, sheltered behind the Versailes Treaty, can send for troops into Frankfort or any other German city on the ground of alleged German non-fulfillment of that instrument, whereas Germany under the new security dispensation would bind herself never to make a like move against France without first getting the arbiter's approval.

At London, Dr. Gaus will represent this state of affairs as juridically paradoxical and anomalous. He will insist that on a basis of international equity the Allies must submit any coercive measure they wish to apply against the Reich to arbitration beforehand and must abide by the arbitral verdict.

Nothing of this was hinted at in the brief German reply to the last French note made public textually tonight. This message, indeed, simply concurs in the Allies' suggestion for verbal negotiations, accepts the invitation to the jurists' conference and reserves all further questions for future consideration.

Dr. Hergt, former Royal Prussian Minister of State and floor leader of the Nationalist Party in the Reichstag, issued a veiled ultimatum tonight in a signed article in the Tag to the effect that if his party's "collaboration in a decisive settlement" of the security problems is to be obtained, the fundamental Nationalist reservations must be taken into account. Quoting from Count Westarps's declaration in the Reichstag on July 22, Dr. Hergt lists the evacuation of Cologne, the removal of the unjust régime in the Sarre Valley and the unjust allied demands for disarmament and air control and "a clarification of the sanctions questions" as essential preliminaries to German participation in security negotiations.

Dr. Hergt's article constitutes the first open indication of the Nationalist intention of obstructing progress toward the proposed compact.

Muscle Shoals Plant to Relieve South, As Drought Cuts Supply of Electricity

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—In an effort to remedy the present shortage of electric power in the Southern Atlantic States, caused by prevailing low water conditions throughout the South, upon which many commercial electric companies are dependent, one of the main Westinghouse 25,000 kilowatts generating units at the big Wilson Dam plant at Muscle Shoals, Ala., will be started tomorrow. For ten days only sufficient load will be placed on the generator to dry out the moisture which may have accumulated in it during the long period of storage since it was constructed. If no unexpected difficulties are encountered, the full load that can be developed, with the existing head of water, can be placed on the generator after about ten days of drying-out process.

Due to low water in the river, the pool above the dam is about eleven feet below its proposed level, and because of this reduced head only about 18,000 kilowatts can be developed at present. Connections have been made between the dam and the steam plant, which was constructed for the purpose of delivering power to nitrate plant No. 2 and which is being operated by the Alabama Power Company under lease with the United States, to assist in making up the deficiency in their generating plants due to the prevailing low water conditions throughout the South.

The capacity of the steam plant is normally 60,000 kilowatts, but under the stress of present conditions it has been operated at times as high as 65,000 kilowatts. The capacity of the Alabama Power Company's lines leading into this steam plant, the only ones which reach it, is 85,000 kilowatts. With the main generating unit at the dam operating at 18,000 kilowatts, the combined United States steam and hydro plant will be furnishing all of the power which can be taken away by the lines now reaching into those plants, army officers assert, and they will therefore be doing all that can be done by them to relieve the existing shortage of power in the South.

AMERICANS TAKE PART IN AERIAL WARFARE

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

FEZ, Aug. 28.—The American aviators here got their first taste of active fighting today when they flew as observers with French pilots over the whole extent of the front. While the chief purpose was to acquaint them with the lay of the land, the Americans used the occasion to drop bombs on groups of rebels discovered during the flight. Also, they saw a small battle going on north of Taza, a part of the operations against the Branes tribes, the remainder of the front being quiet.

"The country where the front is located does not seem so bad for flying as I had been led to imagine," Lieut. Col. Parker declared, "but there is no doubt about the flying conditions—they are the worst any of us ever experienced.

"Heat plays strange tricks with the air in these hills, making it extraordinarily bumpy and full of surprises. Moreover, the flying hours of individual pilots here are much greater than during the World War. I find the air work in this war, however, the most interesting I ever tried, partly because of the difficulties, partly because of the peculiar liaison here between the aviation and infantry. Hitherto the aviation has been rather an arm apart, but in Morocco it is an integral part of the army, operating with other arms like a cog in a machine."

The Americans flew more than 200 miles on this first trip, inspecting the front and getting bearings, keeping fairly high most of the time, but occasionally swooping as low as 100 yards, though never fired on by Riffians. They could plainly see the French troops advancing in skirmish lines, but sighted comparatively few of the enemy. They flew over enemy territory, but following the front closely did not penetrate the Riff itself.

The pilots who made the flight with Colonel Parker, were Captain Holden, Jules Ferrand and Schuyler Cousins. They are attached to different French squadrons, temporarily, for final training.

"Winged dogs," "feathered bears" and "blood-thirsty mercenaries" are among the epithets applied to the American aviators in anoymous letters the squadron here is receiving daily from France and Morocco as part apparently of an organized Communist campaign against them. The letters are being turned over to the police for investigation.

Most of the letters are addressed to the whole squadron, but some members have received the honor of individual attention. One without postmark but dated Ajdir, opens with the greeting "Vile infidel dog" and continues "you have been signaled to us as the fattest pilot of the lot and the easiest target for our infallible sharpshooters. Know, flying pig, if they do not get you we have other means." Despite the date line the letter bears every indication of having originated in French Morocco instead of Abd-el-Krim's capital.

Another writer who signs "Mother," denounces the aviators as "Foreign assassins" and still another upbraids them as coming "the Bible in one hand and a machine-gun in the other, trying to convert the natives."

FRENCH ORGANIZING NEW FRONT AT TAZA

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

FEZ, Aug. 28.—With the convergence of two French columns between Dahar and Jebel Amessef announced today, the operations against the Branes tribe have successfully reached the end. The troops will not try a further advance just now, but will organize the present positions, which allow them to cut off retreat of the rebels north of Taza and begin political action among the tribesmen south of the front, hoping thus to win them over from Abd-el-Krim.

It is said Abd-el-Krim is sending Riff regulars in groups of 50 and 100 all along the front, and also intensifying his propaganda. The character of the reports reaching here make it difficult to understand exactly what has occurred in this region. For instance, it now is stated the former post of Dahar has not been retaken, as announced yesterday, but left in the hands of the Riffians, the French swinging to the left of it. This would indicate the French left flank did not have as easy a time yesterday as was supposed, especially since it is reported to have sustained the hardest shock today, and obviously advanced very slowly.

A few facts, however, stand out between the lines of the communiqués. The operation was much less limited in extent and rather less happy in results than the recent one against the Tsouls. It was not a general attack against the Branes as many reported. The Branes are somewhat bigger and a much more warlike tribe than the Tsouls. They count more than 5,000 warriors, most of whom had been trained and well armed by the French when they fought as their partisans, and to their number must now be added a couple of thousand Tsouls who escaped when the French subdued their territory and joined the Branes.

The region inhabited by the Branes extends north and east of the frontiers to the Tsouls, somewhat in the shape of a recumbent letter L. The present manoeuvre consisted of cutting off the lower two-thirds of the shorter arm of the L, running east of the Tsouls between Os.la and Bab Moroudj. It was a matter of reducing an exposed salient much as the Americans did at St. Mihiel, with the great difference that the encirclement of a region is insufficient in this war, for it remains now methodically to clean out the rebels left behind the French advanced lines.

It is reported that two factions of the Branes have already submitted but both tribes of course are yet to be subdued and as the territory lies in a straight solid block north of the French, rendering encircling manoeuvres difficult, the reduction promises to be much harder. Moreover, the resistance encountered in the initial action against the salient has been greater than that around during the whole conquest of the Tsouls.

Though the movement northward of the tribesmen with their families and flocks continues, it seems evident the morale of the Branes has not been crushed as hoped by the display of force the French used to impress their southern neighbors.

Spanish Cruisers Fired On.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MADRID, Aug. 28.—A Riffian battery yesterday fired on the Spanish cruiser Reina Victoria off Cape Quilates, east of Alhucemas Bay. The cruiser approached as near as possible to the shore and located and destroyed the battery with a few well directed shots.

The cruiser Estremadura on vigilance service off Peñon de Velez de la Gomera also was fired on by a battery near El Kala in the region of the Lau River, the shots falling short. The cruiser, which replied with intensive fire, destroyed El Kala Village and the battery. Shortly afterward twenty-five planes flew over the region, dropping many tons of high explosives and completing the work of destruction.

Information from the enemy camp indicates an enemy convoy was surprised and captured while attempting to pass Sidian Aicha, losing seven killed and a score wounded.

Expectations of a coming offensive are growing daily in Tetuan. All preparations have been made according to the plan approved by the French and Spanish Governments, the offensive being postponed, however, in order to await the arrival of French reinforcements, which will permit a definitive organization of the attacking troops and a liaison of the armies.

Regarding the form of the offensive nothing is known, but the decisive moment, it is believed, has arrived. An examination of the geography of the region indicates the likely points for an attack are Ajdir, Sheshuan and El Kebir. Adjir, which is 100 kilometers north of Taza, may be easily bombarded by large forces of aviation aided by the French and Spanish fleets.

Riff Mountains Defended.

TETUAN, Spanish Morocco, Aug 28 (AP).—Abd-el-Krim chieftain of the rebel Riffians, is making feverish preparations to resist the impending Franco-Spanish offensive and is building fortifications in the Beni Ouarioghel region and the mountainous central district of the Riff, it is reported in Spanish circles here.

These preparations are considered by the Spaniards as an indication that the rebels will offer little resistance to the French and Spanish forces until the fortified mountainous region is reached.

Riff Families Leaving Ajdir.

MELILLA Spanish Morocco, Aug. 28 (AP).—It is reported that the Riffian rebels have evacuated their families from Ajdir, headquarters of Abd-el-Krim, and have removed them to Altamarca.

LONDON, Aug. 28.—The British Government has decided to resume full diplomatic relations with Mexico. Norman King, the British Consul General in Mexico City, is to be appointed Chargé d'Affaires, and in due course a Minister will be sent there to undertake the regular diplomatic duties.

For some time there has been an exchange of views between the two Governments concerning the outstanding differences, of which not a whisper has been permitted to come out. Now the coolness which began ten years ago and steadily grew worse is over.

The last British Minister to Mexico was Sir Lionel Carden. He was forced to leave the City of Mexico by President Carranza in 1914, and Consul General Edward W. P. Thursten took charge of the legation. He was appointed regular Chargé d'Affaires in 1917, but in the following year he came home on leave.

So far there has been no actual break witn Mexico, but the fact that the British Government did not care to appoint a Minister for the post five years showed that, partly on account of the disturbances in Mexico and partly because of the attitude assumed in the World War by the ruling faction, there was growing dissatisfaction in this country with the Mexican Government. Consequently Mr. Thursten never went back from his vacation but was sent to another post.

H. A. Cummins, an Englishman resident in Mexico City, was made Chargé d'Archives and acted as a de facto British Minister. Various efforts were made from time to time to improve the relations between the two Governments and they were so successful that in April of last year the British withdrew from Hungary Sir Thomas Hohler, an experienced diplomat, to send him on a special mission to Mexico to examine the situation and to settle the matters in dispute.

But at that very juncture began the incident involving Mrs. Rosalie Evans, the British owner of a ranch whom the provincial authorities tried to deprive of her estate. Mr. Cummins took up her case with so much vigor that the Mexican Government became incensed and threatened to expel him.

This was avoided by the British Government calling him home to report. Before leaving he closed the legation in Mexico City and it has remained shut ever since.

Mrs. Evans was assassinated a couple of months later.

Since then Anglo-Mexican relations have been in the hands of Consul General King, and negotiations went on with the result that it was officially announced tonight that the British Government "after a satisfactory exchange of views in regard to the outstanding differences with the Mexican Government have decided on the procedure for a renewal of full official diplomatic relations, and diplomatic representatives will be nominated forthwith."

It has not yet been decided who will be sent as Minister to Mexico.

Morones, Cabinet Member, Asserts Calles Has Constructive Labor Policy.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—Luis N. Morones, the Mexican Minister of Industry, Commerce and Labor under President Calles, declared in an interview here today that while there may be a "few" individual Communists in Mexico, they have no standing and no party, and are not recognized by the Mexican Federation of Labor, the principal workers' organization.

"The Mexican labor movement," Mr. Morones said, "is an effort to realize a constructive policy for the betterment of the Mexican worker, in accordance with laws of the country and in cooperation with the present administration of Mexico. In this effort it has been not unsuccessful, having succeeded in bettering unsatisfactory conditions with a minimum of difficulty.

"Since its inception the Mexican labor movement has gained for the worker the eight-hour day for day work and the seven-hour day for night work, and has obtained substantial increases in the pay of workers, although these are still far from exorbitant."

The average pay for industrial workers, Mr. Morones said, is $1.25 a day, while farm workers on the ranges get from 50 to 75 cents, with an additional payment in kind for peasants.

Notwithstanding the fact that United States business enterprises in Mexico by far outnumber those of any other foreign nationality, the Minister stated that there have been relatively few differences with their Mexican employes, and that these are being "rapidly ironed out."

ACCUSE CHAPMAN LAWYER.

Witnesses in Hartford Case Say He Told Them to Testify Falsely.

Special to The New York Times.

HARTFORD, Conn., Aug. 28.—Harold Evans, a lawyer of this city, who was associated in the defense of Gerald Chapman, convicted of murder here last Spring, was named in a perjury case in the Hartford Police Court today and, while reported out of town, was cited by Police Court Judge George H. Day to appear in court tomorrow to face his accusers, Sebastian Hartoras and Michael Gricco. They claim Evans instructed them, July 25, in their false testimony for a friend, Joseph Larosa.

At that time Larosa, who was represented by Evans, was convicted of liquor violation, chiefly on the testimony of two policemen and two "stool pigeons," who tendered Larosa a marked bill which was subsequently found on Larosa.

The two men, held today for perjury, testified for Larosa that they were present and that nothing but ginger ale was served. Today they recanted and swore that Evans promised to fix up Larosa if they would swear they were in his store and saw no liquor sold the night of the raid.

In Chapman's trial Evans was used chiefly as an investigator and ran down several of the alibi leads that were offered by Chapman from various sources.

Hold Alleged Chapman Aid.

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Aug. 28 (AP).—Charles Murphy, alias Charles Farmer, alleged member of the Gerald Chapman-George Anderson bandit gang, was questioned by Fort Wayne police and Department of Justice operatives today regarding the whereabouts of Anderson, who is wanted for the murder of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Hance near Muncie two weeks ago.

Murphy was arrested today after a midnight dash by Fort Wayne police to Lake Webster, where Anderson was reported in hiding. He is believed by officers to be the go-between for gangsters and Anderson. He was arraigned in City Court on a technical charge of loitering and held until Sept. 8 under $5,000 bond.

PRESIDENT VISITS HISTORIC PLYMOUTH

GOES TO WEBSTER HOME

SWAMPSCOTT, Mass., Aug. 28.—Another Mayflower, bearing President and Mrs. Coolidge and their party, landed today at Plymouth where the early Pilgrims settled over 300 years ago to make the beginning of the New England civilization.

President Coolidge landed at the same spot where the Pilgrims disembarked, a few hundred feet from Plymouth Rock. Thousands filled the wharf, surrounded the rock, and covered Cole's Hill overlooking the shrine to welcome the descendants of the early settlers.

After viewing the rock, President and Mrs. Coolidge were driven to Burial Hill, which rises abruptly from the elm-shaded town square. There they visited the graves of Governor Bradford and others. The Governor Bradford obelisk occupies a point commanding the fullest view of the town below.

Among other graves there are those of John Howland, the last survivor in Plymouth of the Mayflower passengers, and Adoniram Judson, the Plymouth minister, father of Adoniram Judson, the early missionary to Burma.

Burial Hill is the site of the first forts which served also as meeting houses. The spot where the watch house was erected in 1643, also afforded the visitors a full view of the sea.

Goes to Monument Hill.

After passing Pilgrim Hall, where are housed Pilgrim antiquities and historical objects, today's pilgrims went to Monument Hill, where stands the national monument, a great granite pillar surmounted by a collosal figure of faith. On the four sides are groups of sitting figures representing the landing and other historical incidents in the life of the Pilgrims.

President and Mrs. Coolidge spent nearly forty-five minutes in visiting these scenes. Then they drove to Marshfield, which was the country home of Daniel Webster, and to the little graveyard half a mile away where Webster is buried with members of his family.

The graveyard was visited first. Thence the President went to the house, which contains many Webster souvenirs. The original Webster home was destroyed in 1879. But most of the Webster collection, including portraits and books, was saved. The place is now owned by Wilton Hall, who showed the President and Mrs. Coolidge the collection and obtained their signatures in the visitor's book.

Mrs. Coolidge was attracted chiefly by the beautiful collection of butterflies. These, it was explained, were a gift from Dom Pedro of Brazil, and were given to Mr. Webster a few years before he died.

The drive was continued, taking the visitors near Duxbury, where in the distance was seen the Standish Monument in the settlement which was an outpost of Plymouth and where were the homes of Miles Standish and John and Priscilla Alden.

Guests at Luncheon.

President and Mrs. Coolidge were luncheon guests of C. W. Barron, publisher, of New York, at Cohasset. Other guests included Harry H. Williams, a former State Councillor, and Mrs. Williams; Wendell Endicott, Mrs. Priscilla Maxwell of Roxville, Conn.; Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Bancroft and their four children; Mr. and Mrs. William A. Bancroft and Mrs. Guy Bancroft of Cambridge, and W. A. Dailey of Philadelphia; the Rev. C. C. Wilson, Rector of St. Stephens, and the Rev. Milo H. Gates of the Church of the Intercession, New York, and Kamel Lefevere of Belgium, were among those who greeted the President and Mrs. Coolidge on the Barron piazza.

After lunch the party was driven to the village commons, where they listened to the carillons played by Mr. Lefevere, carillonist in Cardinal Mercier's Cathedral in Brussels.

The common was filled with spectators. The utmost silence prevailed while the music was being played in St. Stephen's Church on the carillon presented by Mrs. Bancroft, Mrs. Barron's daughter. The program was as follows:

"Old Folks At Home"............Foster
"Annie Laurie"........Lady John Scott
Preludium "Coucou"....Van der Gheyn
"Samson et Dalila") ......Saint-Saëns
Rondo (from First Sonatina).....Fleyel
"Volga Boat Song"..............Russian

While at Cohasset President Coolidge inspected a model farm owned by Hugh Bancroft, son-in-law of Mr. Barron. He saw high-priced cows and a sanitary creamery, and then Mr. Bancroft insisted upon showing him a prize bull. When he mentioned that he paid $30,000 for the animal Mr. Coolidge gasped and exclaimed "Some bull!" and abruptly left the barn.

Mr. Coolidge said later that whole farms in Vermont did not cost that much.

Those accompanying the President and Mrs. Coolidge on the Mayflower were Mr. and Mrs. Everett Sanders, Colonel Cheney, his military aid, and Dr. J. F. Coupal, the White House physician.

The President reached White Court on his return soon after 6 o'clock. Tomorrow he will go with Mrs. Coolidge to Camp Devens to inspect the drill of the student soldiers. His son John has just completed a month's training there and will return with his parents for a stay of a week or more at the shore.

COHEN SAYS HE IS INNOCENT

Negro Customs Official and 33 Others Give Bail in Dry Case.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Aug. 28 (AP).—All of the thirty-four persons indicted by a Federal Grand Jury here yesterday on charges of conspiracy to violate the National Prohibition act furnished bond of $5,000 each today. Walter L. Cohen, negro Controller of the New Orleans customs district and well known in local Republican circles, was one of the first to give bail. His bond was signed by Gus Oertling, a Republican and former brewer.

Cohen issued a statement today saying he was "as much surprised as any person in New Orleans when I heard of the indictment," and adding, "I was at my Summer home at Bay St. Louis when I was notified of it, and I at once returned to the city."

The brief statement concluded with an expression of assurance of vindication.

E. C. Yellowley, Chief of Field Agents, who has been prominent in the recent extensive raids along the Gulf Coast, came back here today.

Cohen's appointment to his customs post here created a political storm and the Senate refused twice to confirm it. The appointment was finally approved two years ago, after Presidents Harding and Coolidge had insisted upon it. In 1922 President Harding gave Cohen the first of three recess appointments and he served without pay until his confirmation.

Putting Charity Before Jail, Judge Frees Fight Promoter

Charity comes before a jail sentence, Federal Judge William H. Atwell ruled yesterday. He had before him James Joy Johnston, known as Jimmy Johnston, a fight promoter, for sentence on a charge of failing to make a proper income tax return after a boxing bout in 1923, and Johnston pleaded that a jail sentence would interfere with a boxing contest he was arranging for a milk fund. His story was confirmed by Assistant United States Attorney Maxwell F. Mattuck.

"I do not want to interfere with a charitable enterprise," said Judge Atwell. "When will these bouts take place?"

"On Sept. 25," said Johnston.

"Very well," said the Judge. "Go ahead and hold the bout and collect all that you can for the kiddies. Then come back here on Oct. 1 and I'll send you to Essex County Jail for sixty days."

CUSTOMS MEN SEIZE IMPORTER ON LINER

Take 356 Dozen of Headgear From His Premises—"Terrible Mistake," He Says.

David H. Green, an importer of velour and felt hats, of 230 Fifth Avenue, was arrested on the liner Mauretania yesterday on his return from England and charged with defrauding the Government of $100,000 by undervaluing hats which he imported into this country. He was held in $15,000 bail by United States Commissioner Cotter, which was furnished by the National Surety Company.

Mr. Green indignantly denied that he had defrauded the Government and said the charges against him were due to a "terrible mistake" by somebody in the Government service. Government officials, on the other hand, said that Mr. Green had undervalued his imports for years.

On Thursday agents of the United States Attorney's office visited Mr. Green's place of business with a search warrant and searched his premises for evidence of illegal importations. They seized 356 dozen hats, which are being held as evidence. When Mr. Green landed from the ship yesterday the agents also seized all baggage brought by him and his wife. Assistant United States Attorney Thomas Cook said that the charges against Green extended back over a long period of time and that his undervaluations reached at least $100,000, as Mr. Green makes two buying trips to Europe every year and is always accompanied by his wife. He denied he had ever violated the law.

HUSBAND BOOTLEGS, SAYS WIFE IN SUIT

Put His Earnings at $700 a Week and Seeks $200 a Week as Alimony.

In petitioning the Supreme Court yesterday for $200 a week alimony and $2,000 counsel fees pending her suit for separation Mrs. Ida Kiesel of 1,340 Morris Avenue, the Bronx, said that her husband, Charles Kiesel, was a successful bootlegger with $40,000 capital to use in his operations and with an income of $700 a week. Mrs. Kiesel is 21 years old. She was married in December, 1923, and the couple have a nine-months-old son. She gave her husband's age as 29.

In her petition filed by her attorney, Herman Hoffman of 233 Broadway, she said that during his courting days Kiesel represented to her that he was engaged in the cigar and restaurant business and it was his intention to open a chain of stores in this city.

"It was not long after our marriage that I discovered that my husband was not actually and legitimately engaged in the restaurant and cigar business but had opened up such store in name only, being in fact engaged in the sale of liquor," she said.

When her husband began to stay out late at nights, or rather until 3 or 4 o'clock in the morning, he excused his absence by saying that it was necessary for him to make the rounds of his restaurants to see that things were running well and to see about placing orders for food for the following day. Sometimes, she said, he showed the effects of too much drinking and his abuse of her made it impossible to ignore the conditions complained of. She said she urged him to give up his alleged illegal traffic, but he told her to mind her own business.

She alleges that her husband now operates seven places, six on the upper east side of Manhattan and one in the Bronx. She relates that on August 16, 1924, just before her baby was born, Kiesel announced that he needed a vacation. She said he sailed away on the Leviathan leaving her helpless and alone. He was gone about seven weeks and she said his trip cost between $7,000 and $8,000, spent having a good time. Mrs. Kiesel alleged her husband attacked her early last June and she decided she could no longer submit to his cruelty and they separated.

Kiesel, she told the court, allowed her $30 a week for the table, $13 a week for the maid, $75 a month for rent, and necessities for herself and the baby were charged to his account. Application for counsel fees and alimony will be argued in the equity part of the Supreme Court next Monday.

SUES SPENCE SOCIETY FOR RETURN OF SON

society, he said, the caretaker in charge refused him all information and declined to tell him her name, saying that she was sorry she had let him in.

He said he would get a writ of habeas corpus demanding that the child be produced in court on Monday.

The society, which maintains an establishment at 232 East Sixty-second Street, is made up of graduates of the Spence School for Girls, 30 West Fifty-fifth Street, one of the most fashionable private schools in the city.

The founder of the school, the late Miss Clara B. Spence, was the organizer of the society, and during her lifetime was greatly interested in homeless children. Many socially prominent and wealthy people throughout the country have adopted children from the society, and it has been the practice not to divulge the parentage of the adopted child.

General Plans Tour of Country to Size Up Men and Then Begin "Weeding Out."

FORCED TO ACT IN HASTE

He Says 'Big Business' Executives Asked to Serve Did Not Oppose Prohibition.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—General Lincoln C. Andrews, head of prohibition enforcement, has fixed Oct. 1 as the date upon which he expects to complete his work of revising the list of administrators and "acting" administrators named on Aug. 21 as a temporary organization pending the weeding out process in his field forces, which is expected to lead to the injection of new blood satisfactory to General Andrews and his Board of Strategy.

The first break in the ranks came today when Halsey Dunwoody, a former army officer, declined to serve as administrator in Florida, and Harvey Duncan, a general agent, was appointed acting administrator of the district.

Between now and Oct. 1 General Andrews will spend most of his time in the readjustment of the personnel with a view to enlisting a number of "big business" executives he has had in mind for the work ever since he tackled the job of reorganizing the prohibition unit several months ago.

In revising the list of administrators and "acting" administrators General Andrews is giving special attention to the "key" positions in the two New York districts, and to the districts having headquarters in Boston and Chicago.

General Andrews is anxious to get in personal touch with the Customs Service at several strategic centres throughout the country and, late in September, if conditions permit, he intends to make a tour of inspection that will take him into nearly all of the twenty-two prohibition districts in Continental United States.

Business Men Not Found Hostile.

Suggestions that have been made that General Andrews found by inquiry among business executives that many of them were opposed to the dry laws, and for that reason could not be persuaded to affiliate with the prohibition unit, lack confirmtaion in official quarters.

General Andrews himself said today that not a single business man who had been approached with a proffer of a place as administrator had declined because of hostility to enforcement of the dry laws.

"I have not found business men antagonistic to the enforcement of prohibition," he said.

"The personnel as announced on Aug. 21 is not the last word on this subject by any means. We were forced by circumstances to officer the twenty-four districts on Sept. 1 and we started off with the best organization that we could obtain at the time. We contemplate making changes and this work will be finished as soon as possible."

As to the notion that General Andrews "had yielded to pressure" by officering eighteen of the twenty-four districts with holdovers from the Hayes régime, it was asserted today in a responsible quarter that only eight State directors, all of whom were originally political appointees, had been retained, and that some of these would be dropped from the rolls or demoted by Oct. 1.

Expect One New Chief in New York.

Some of the administrators may be retained, but there will be many new names on the list by Oct. 1. General Andrews regards it as of great importance that the strongest men who can be induced to take the jobs shall be appointed as administrators in the key positions at New York, Philadelphia, Boston, Chicago and St. Louis, and in other cities of less importance from the standpoint of prohibition enforcement, such as Buffalo, St. Paul and New Orleans.

He is hopeful of getting the services of capable executives for at least one of the New York districts and for the Boston, St. Louis and St. Paul districts, all of which will be placed in charge of "acting" administrators on Sept. 1.

A new movement in favor of respect for the dry laws, Federal and State, will soon be launched by William H. Anderson, former State Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League in New York.

The new organization will be known as the American Prohibition Protestant Patriotic Protective Alliance. It will operate along the lines of the Anti-Saloon League, but will have no relationship with that body.

According to James S. Vance, general manager of The Fellowship Forum, a Ku Klux Klan publication having headquarters in this city, the Anderson alliance will work in accordance with Klan principles and will cooperate with Klan officials.

LAND COMPANY RAIDED.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—Federal officials in Chicago obtained today warrants in what they declare is a drive to burst $10,000,000 worth of fraudulent Florida land bubbles. The first alleged wildcat company to be hit is the Florida Land Company, whose offices are in the Burnham Building.

Those named in warrants issued by United States Commissioner C. Beitler are Jacob Factor, President, who is said to be a former barber; H. Heinsius, alleged right hand man to Mr. Factor; Maurice E. Drucker, H. J. Hummelstein and Newton Feldman.

Postal Inspector Bush and Chief Deputy United States Marshal Doyle led a raid on the headquarters of the concern, but found the offices deserted.

The specific charge against the members of the Florida Land Company is violation of Article 215 of the Criminal Code, which has to do with using the mails in furtherance of a scheme to defraud.

According to Federal estimates, Factor and his assistants have netted about $1,600,000 through exploitation of several thousand acres of land in Orange County, Fla. Many of the victims are said to have been among the foreign born in fifty cities in Illinois, Iowa, Indiana and Wisconsin.

3 DIE IN BRITISH PLANES.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 28.—Three officers of the Royal Air Force met a tragic death this afternoon when two machines in which they were apparently trying out some new form of air fighting crashed into each other 1,000 feet aboveground at Hixton, Cambridgeshire, and then dived to the earth.

Flight Officer Harry Butlin and Pilot Officers Dermot Derobeck and Hugh Pesk were manoeuvring close together in two-seater Siskins. Butlin and Derobeck were in one of the planes, while Peck was flying alone. All three were dead when help arrived.

An official inquiry was started to ascertain if the airplanes were equipped with special American parachutes, which are now widely used by the British air force and which are said to open and function at 150 feet from the ground.

Col. Mitchell Hits Air Service Again in Book; Insists on Unified Control for Able Defense

Colonel William Mitchell, who lost his position as Assistant Chief of the Army Air Service following his attack on the policy of the Administration in opposing efforts to establish a unified Air Service, has struck out again at the air policies of the Government in a book called "Winged Defense." The book was announced yesterday by G. P. Putnam's Sons for publication on Sept. 1.

The closing paragraphs of the volume contain a summary of the air soldier's conclusions. They follow:

"As a result of many years of service and an intimate knowledge of the aeronautical organization of each of the great powers I am convinced that our inefficient national military aeronautics, our undeveloped civil and commercial aeronautics and our curtailed and interrupted experimentation in aeronautics are a direct result of a lack of:

"1. A Department of Aeronautics to handle the whole air question, coequal with the army and navy.

"2. A definite aeronautical policy.

"3. An organization, both military and civil, to fit the aeronautical policy.

"4. A method of providing suitable personnel for all air undertakings.

"5. A single system of procurement and supply for all air undertakings.

"6. A system of instruction and inspection for all air elements.

"Until these fundamental principles for the creation of air power are put into effect the air power of the United States will continue to flounder in the slough of aeronautical despond."

In the preceding chapters Colonel Mitchell reviews aeronautical activity during the World War and in the period immediately afterward, when the European powers commenced the development of strong unified air forces in an effort to prove his case. He tells of the bombing tests made in Chesapeake Bay in 1921, and declares that they showed conclusively that "surface navies, particularly battleships and other surface craft, are rapidly losing their importance."

Portions of the volume were published in The Saturday Evening Post and the remaining, according to George Palmer Putnam of the publishing firm, was drawn from evidence brought out at the recent Congressional hearings. It had been rumored that Colonel Mitchell had not followed the usual custom in advising the War Department that the volume was to be published, and that in consequence he might come in for more rebukes. Mr. Putnam said, however, that Colonel Mitchell had received permission to write the articles for the magazine, and that inasmuch as the remaining material was on the public record everything appeared to have been done in ethical fashion.

CHARGES ALIMONY RUINED BROKERAGE

SEEKS TO REGAIN $300,000

Says President Drew It From Bankrupt Firm for Mrs. Pope—Enough to Pay All Concern's Debts.

Unusual features are embodied in a suit begun yesterday in the Supreme Court by Lloyd Garrison, trustee of the bankrupt cotton brokerage house of C. H. Pope & Co., against Charles H. Pope, former head of the concern, and Sybilla R. Pope, his former wife. The charge alleges misappropriation of $300,000 of the company's funds. The suit is an attempt to recover assets of the company for the benefit of creditors, and if successful would enable the trustee to wind up its affairs on a 100-cents-to-a-dollar basis. The papers allege that part of these funds were diverted from the corporation and used by Pope in paying his wife alimony.

The complaint in the action was served on Mr. Pope by former Representative Martin C. Ansorge of 233 Broadway, attorney for Mr. Garrison. Mr. Ansorge said that his attempts to serve the former Mrs. Pope had been unsuccessful. She is reported to be in Arizona. In May of this year, Mrs. Pope sued Pope in the Supreme Court on an alleged ante-nuptial agreement to pay her $18,000 a year, and it was to meet payments under this agreement, it is asserted, that Pope used the funds of his company.

Based upon "information and belief," the papers state that the defendant, Charles Pope, did "at numerous and divers times" take unlawfully the funds of Pope and Company for the use of himself and the use of Sybilla Pope. The alleged misappropriations cover a period of from April, 1916, until about Oct. 16, 1923. Mr. Ansorge said that on Dec. 31, 1921, the corporation charged off $241,295 as uncollectable."

Pope and his former wife were officers and directors of the corporation, and as such are charged with having violated their duties. These withdrawals were in addition to an annual salary of $25,000 drawn by Pope. More money was diverted after the account was charged off, the papers say.

Harry Hershhorn of Mr. Ansorge's office, who conducted the examination of Pope before Peter B. Olney in the bankruptcy proceedings, said that Pope had admitted the withdrawal of most of the amount sued for, in excess of his annual salary withdrawals.

C. H. Pope & Co. had offices at 87 Worth Street. The firm was organized in 1880 and was incorporated in 1916. The concern failed in October, 1923, with liabilities of $237,000 and scheduled assets of $32,500. In December, 1923, Pope filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy. His liabilities were placed at $1,079,512 and assets of $233.

Sybilla Pope was Mr. Pope's second wife. The couple were married in London in October, 1909. She divorced him in Westchester County in 1922. Mrs. Pope alleged in her suit against her former husband that on the day before they were married Pope signed a contract by which he bound himself to pay her $1,500 a month. She withdrew her demand for alimony on the promise of Pope to continue the monthly payments. She received payment until October, 1923 when her husbands' firm failed. The principal claim listed by Mr. Pope when he filed his voluntary petition was $1,007,500, which was said to be a debt to Mrs. Pope on a contract made in 1922 to buy stock of the C. H. Pope & Co.

MOTORMAN FAINTS ON CAR.

Collision With Truck Follows Operator's Collapse.

John Hughes, 23 years old, of 92 West 103d Street fainted yesterday while operating a south-bound surface car in Sixth Avenue near Twenty-fifth Street. The car continued on its way to Twenty-third Street, where it rammed a motor truck, operated by John Leggo, who is employed by P. N. Sarkas of 507 Broome Street.

Hughes and two passengers in the car were injured by the impact. Hughes received cuts from glass; Barnett Weinberg, 60 years old, of 260 Riverside Drive, a possible fracture of the left arm, and Isidore Brotheim, 20 years old, of 345 Christopher Street, Brooklyn, contusions about the body. All were attended by Dr. Homerick from the New York Hospital and went home.

'BOY WIZARD' AGAIN IN A FRAUD INQUIRY

HAS BEEN INDICTED TWICE

Officials Get Complaints That Losers in Stock Are Lured by Company Into Realty Deals.

The State Attorney General's office raided the offices of the Griffin Development and Construction Company, 305 Broadway, yesterday and started an investigation as to the company's business methods. All of the company's officers, its salesmen and other employes were subpoenaed for examination, and its books and records were seized for an examination at the offices of the Bureau for the Prevention of Frauds.

The offices of the company were found to be in charge of Charles A. Greenhaus, who obtained considerable notoriety a year ago as the "boy wizard of Wall Street," in connection with a scheme to exchange notes of the Middle States Oil Corporation for common stock of that company. Greenhaus has had two indictments returned against him in Suffolk County, one for first degree larceny and one for larceny in the second degree. Others found in the office and subpoenaed were Paul Neumann and Wilfred W. Weese.

According to the complaint received by the Attorney General regarding the company unfortunate investors in worthless stock have been led to believe they could regain their lost money by visiting the company's offices. Upon arriving there these persons were informed that instead of receiving in cash the amount lost in worthless stocks they were to be allowed this amount as credit on the purchase of real estate in Florida provided they purchased additional real estate which called for a much larger payment in cash.

Keyes Winter, Deputy Attorney General in charge of the Bureau for Prevention of Frauds, is handling the investigation for Attorney General Ottinger. The Attorney General's staff was assisted in the investigation by William P. Collis and Frank L. Reidy of the Better Business Bureau, 280 Broadway.

Further examination of the officers and employes of the company will be held Monday at 3 o'clock.

Berlin Syndicate Places Value of Assets at 20,000,000 Marks Over Unpaid Indebtedness.

BERLIN, Aug. 23 (AP).—Reorganization of the banking syndicate which is liquidating the financial affairs of the family of the late Hugo Stinnes was effected today through the formation of a group comprising four "D" banks of Berlin—the Deutsche Bank, the Disconto Society, the Darmstaeder Bank and the Dresdener Bank.

As a consequence of the new line-up, it was announced, liquidation of the various Stinnes obligations now is definitely assured, it being explained that the new group will assume the notes, paper and other credits which heretofore have been held by twenty-two banks. Much of this is overdue, but the four major banks of Berlin announce they will be able to assume all the obligations by virtue of their resolution to dispose of all the remaining Stinnes holdings, among which are the family's coal mines and coal merchandising organizations scattered over Europe.

In addition, these so-called available assets include a group of six hotels, valued at 40,000,000 marks, and large tracks of farming and timber lands.

Optimistic estimates place the value of the outstanding assets under forced conversion at 140,000,000 marks, whereas the Stinnes family's unpaid indebtedness is fixed at 120,000,000 marks.

A communiqué by the new liquidating syndicate concluded with the statement that previous sales of the various Stinnes holdings were effected with the full knowledge and concurrence of the Stinnes family and the legal advisers.

SUBWAY TIED UP BY DERAILED CAR

WEST SIDE TRAINS JAMMED

Morning Crowds Choke Up Stations Between Atlantic Avenue and Borough Hall.

Thousands of Brooklynites who use the Interborough Rapid Transit system were delayed in reaching their places of business yesterday morning when the rear car of a ten-car train of the Lexington Avenue subway line jumped the tracks at a point just past the Atlantic Avenue station. The train was on its way to Manhattan and was on the inner set of tracks, which are used by the east side subway from Atlantic Avenue to Borough Hall.

The accident happened at 7:42 just as the peak of the morning rush hour was setting in. Wrecking crews were sent at once from the I. R. T. repair shops, but it was not until 9:20 that the car was returned to the tracks. Passengers on the stalled train walked through the cars to the Atlantic Avenue station, where they were advised to take the Seventh Avenue line as far as Borough Hall, where the Lexington Avenue cars were being shunted back to Manhattan.

The crowds that usually take the east side subway soon swamped the west side trains, and when passengers who ordinarily use that means of conveyance tried to board the trains at Nevins Street and Hoyt Street they found them already filled with passengers who had boarded the trains at Atlantic Avenue. These stations soon choked with passengers, and policemen were sent from various precincts to preserve order.

The sale of tickets was stopped at these stations, and passengers were advised either to walk to Borough Hall station or to take the elevated or surface cars across the bridge or to use the B. M. T. subway to Manhattan. Policemen were sent to the Borough Hall station to see that nobody was hurt in the short walk from the west side to the east side stations. The walk was so crowded that it was feared that somebody might be pushed from the platform to the tracks.

When officials of the Interborough Rapid Transit were notified of the accident they ordered the Lexington Avenue trains turned back at Borough Hall and extra trains sent to South Ferry to take care of the uptown Manhattan traffic on the Lexington Avenue system. The stations along this line on the Manhattan side were crowded with passengers on account of the shortage of trains for a short time after the accident.

SAYS RICH PEASANTS HOLD SOVIET'S GRAIN

Moscow Council Chief Declares That One-third of People Cannot Buy Their Needs.

By WALTER DURANTY.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MOSCOW, Aug. 28.—The principal difficulty of the Soviet authority in connection with the harvest and peasant problem was disclosed today by M. Kamenef as President of the Council of Labor and Defense in an article introducing the Gosplan project for dealing with the harvest, which, to be effective, the council must approve.

M. Kamenef declared that of the expected billion poods (a pood weight is 36.07 pounds) of grain surplus over the needs of peasant population—estimating the total crop at 4,100,000,000 poods—upward of 2,500,000,000 are required to feed the peasants and cattle, and 600,000,000 to 700,000,000 for seeding—fully 600,000,000 poods, or 60 per cent., are now in the hands of the richer peasants, comprising only 14 per cent. of the total peasant population, while rather more than one-third of the total peasant population is so poor as not to have enough grain for their own needs and are compelled to buy it.

To the best recollection of THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent this is the most frank and detailed admission by any Soviet leader of the predominant part played by these rich peasants—Kulaks, as the Russians call them—in grain production.

Ever since the revolution the Soviet Government has been in a dilemma—if it encourages the poorer peasants at the expense of the Kulaks there is a loss for grain production; if it allows the Kulaks a free hand in the production, grain increases, but the poorer peasants suffer to the advantage of the very class that is least sympathetic with Soviet Government ideals.

The Soviet authorities now have seemingly learned that no form of capitalist exploitation is so grinding and extortionate as that of the Kulaks over their poorer brethren. The latter are supplied by the Kulaks with food and seed on condition they work unpaid the Kulaks' farms and repay a quantity of the rent with 30 even 50 per cent. interest. So the rich grow richer and the poor poorer.

The Gosplan project may advocate closer inspection of such grievances. In the majority of the cases the victims are not complaining, because afterward when inspectors have gone they fear to be left foodless, seedless and at the Kulaks' mercy. Village correspondents for the Soviet press have learned to their cost what it means to expose Kulak doings. Hardly a day passes without the report of one severely injured by the "accidental kick of a horse, a falling beam," &c., or as the case in today's Fraydan, "Found Shot Dead in Ditch, Murderer and Motive Unknown."

CHILD CONGRESS ENDS.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, Aug. 28.—The first Child Welfare Congress ended today after the adoption of sixteen resolution prepared by the various sections.

The most important resolution provides for the establishment of an international fund to assist in the immigration of foreign children in exceptional cases.

In the name of the "International de Secours aux Enfants," its President, Baron de Geer of Sweden, said his organization will undertake the founding of the fund and make an initial present of 10,000 Swiss francs.

The executive bureau of the congress was made permanent and permitted to add twelve members from different countries, two of whom must be chosen outside of the European and American continents. The following American resolution was adopted unanimously:

"That it is the sense of the first Child Welfare Congress that every effort should be made to preserve the home of the child i npreference to sending them to institutions."

The date of the second conference was not fixed.

A dispatch to the Navy Department today said he apparently was not seriously injured. One man was killed in the accident.

Boy, 7 Years Old, Sues Playmate, 8, for $25,000

A 7-year-old plaintiff and an 8-year-old defendant are the principals in a suit revealed yesterday in the Supreme Court in Brooklyn. Justice Carswell appointed Charles Rosen of 245 Livonia Avenue, Brooklyn, guardian ad litem for his son Carl in an action he will bring against a former playmate, Harry Macknin, of 707 Rockaway Avenue, Brooklyn, to recover $25,000.

Carl, it is alleged, lost the sight of his left eye as the result of an injury received on July 10, when, it is alleged, Harry threw a stick at the younger boy, following a quarrel between the two in Rosen's back yard. Carl was a patient for four weeks in the Eye and Ear Hospital, but doctors were unable to save the eye.

TRANSFER STRIKERS SAY TAXICABS FAIL

BAGGAGE ROOMS ARE CLEAR

Companies to Continue Waiting Policy—Court Refuses Summons on Cab Driver.

The expressmen's strike went on its placid way yesterday, and the only outward sign that anything unusual was occurring at the railroad terminals was the presence of a few extra policemen and unwonted activity on the part of porters and taxicabs. The New York Transfer Company and the Westcott Express Company, which are affected by the strike, said that they would continue their policy of waiting for the public to tire of an inconvenient means of handling their luggage.

W. H. Woolverton, Vice President of the New York Transfer Company, said that no trouble had been experienced with their former employes, and that whatever hostility they felt seemed to be directed toward taxicabs rather than against the companies. The employes feel, said Mr. Woolverton, that the success of taxicabs in handling luggage is more apparent than real, and will fail after a time.

The baggage rooms of both the Grand Central and Pennsylvania Terminals were clear yesterday, and the most serious inconvenience to which travelers were subjected was the refusal of taxicabs to take more than one trunk with a passenger, so that some persons had to make two trips in order to get their baggage delivered. C. J. Sinnott, assistant to the President of the Yellow Taxi Company, said that his company had not had greatly increased business since the strike started, and that although many persons were carrying their baggage with them in cabs, drivers had been told that they were driving cabs and not express wagons.

Martin Lacey of the Teamsters, Chauffeurs and Helpers' Union, representative of the strikers, tried to get a summons for a Yellow Taxi driver in the West Side Court yesterday on a charge of violating the ordinance prohibiting cabs from carrying luggage without passengers. The summons was refused by Magistrate Joseph E. Corrigan.

SAYS TWO HOLD-UP MEN SHOT HER HUSBAND

Wife Tells Story to Police After Man Is Picked Up With Bullet Wound in Lung.

Mrs. Rose Kropf, who married William Kropf, a baker of 1,204 Boston Road, the Bronx, six months ago, reported to the police of the Coney Island Station last night that her husband had been shot by two hold-up men who stopped them at West Twenty-eighth Street and Neptune Avenue, Coney Island.

Kropf, who was found lying in the street with a bullet wound in the left lung, was taken to Coney Island Hospital by a motorist. He was said to be in a serious condition.

According to the story told by Mrs. Kropf to the police, she and her husband frequently visited Coney Island and took walks. Last night, she said, when they were at West Twenty-eighth Street and Neptune Avenue, a residential section, the two men stopped them and commanded them to hold up their hands.

She said she complied immediately, but that her husband broke into a run. One of the bandits, she said, fired at him and as her husband fell the two men ran away.

The address given by Mrs. Kropf was found to be a delicatessen store, and it was said there the Kropfs were unknown.

Of Lloyd George Sir Almeric says: "A fact is not to him what it is to us, but a fluid thing that can be made anything you like."

A remarkable story is told of the Prince of Wales's "genius for pity." When he visited Belgium in 1923, twenty-seven of twenty-eight British soldiers being treated in a British hospital for facial disfiguration were presented to him. Noticing that the twenty-eighth was nowhere in evidence, the Prince inquired about him and was told the case was of such a repulsive character that it was decided not to present him. He requested to see the man.

"The Prince immediately was taken to the patient's room, went straight up to the man and kissed him. Surely it was an act of compassion entitled to live in history with Philip Sidney's cup of water on the field of Zutphen," concludes Sir Almeric.

STATE SUES TO END PHYSICIANS' AGENCY

Ottinger Says Doctors' Service, Inc., Is Practicing Law as a Bill Collector.

LAWYERS' BODY COMPLAINS

Head of Service, Chartered Under State, Says He Will Help Test Legality of Its Activities.

Attorney General Albert Ottinger began action yesterday to vacate the charter and end the corporate existence of the Doctors' Service Corps, Inc., with headquarters at 1,457 Broadway, on the ground that it has been acting as a collection agency for doctors, dentists and pharmacists and, in connection with this branch of its activities, has been practicing law. The complaint was made by the New York County Lawyers' Association.

Dr. W. E. Mathewson of White Plains, President of the Doctors' Service Corps, said last night that the Attorney General would receive complete cooperation from him in testing the legality of the organization's activities. He said it had been formed under the guidance of "competent counsel as a business protection and service for physicians."

Deputy Attorney General William Matthews, who is handling the case for Mr. Ottinger, said yesterday that the Ninth District Municipal Court had been "cluttered for years with complaints of the Service Corps," and that he was surprised that action had not been taken against it long ago. The complaint quotes from the charter of the Service Corps, which sets forth that the organization has been formed for the following purposes:

"To carry on the business of furnishing financial and other assistance to men and women engaged in qualifying themselves for the practice of dentistry, medicine, surgery, pharmacy and the allied medical arts; to loan money, extend credit; to furnish, supply, loan, sell and lease instruments, books, furniture, machinery, drugs and chemicals of all kinds pertaining to or employed in the study, practice or carrying on of the professions of dentistry, medicine, &c.; to make loans of money directly or as agent for existing financial institutions with or without security to students and practitioners of dentistry, medicine, &c.

"To carry on the business of a collection and credit agency for men and women engaged in the practice of dentistry, medicine, &c.; to collect money due on bills, notes, mortgages, contracts and any and all other evidences of indebtedness; to gather information as to the credit responsibility of patients, clients and members of the public generally for the purpose of furnishing information suitable to establish the credit standing of individuals of all classes to dentists, &c."

The charter, as quoted by Mr. Matthews, says also that the organization is "to purchase or otherwise acquire the business, good-will, property, rights and assets of all kinds, and to assume the liabilities of any person engaged in the profession of medicine, &c.; to construct, equip, improve and develop public improvements, including railroads, railways docks, harbors, piers, wharves, sewers and many other public works."

The complaint alleges the Service Corps has entered into an unlawful agreement with Morris P. Schaffer, an attorney whose offices are next to those of the corps, for the collection of accounts by means of legal actions and otherwise. The complaint concludes, "upon information and belief," that:

"The defendant is, in truth, conducting an ordinary collection agency, and is furnishing legal services, advice and counsel to doctors and dentists, and that the alleged 'membership contracts' and 'assignments' are, in truth, mere forms and devices for the purpose of enabling the defendant to conduct legal proceedings and to engage generally in the practice of law, contrary to the provisions of Section 280 of the Penal law."

FATHER AND SON IN JAIL.

Boy Stole Parent's Tools—Man Held for Running Down a Child.

Dominick Fraggione, 17 years old, of 33 oCncord Street, Jersey City, was sentenced yesterday to ninety days in the penitentiary on the complaint of his father, Pasquale, a coal dealer, that the boy had stolen tools from him. Dominick was placed in a cell of the Third Precinct Police Station to await removal to the prison.

Shortly afterward Dominick looked up as the door of the adjoining cell was unlocked. He saw a familiar figure led in and the door locked upon him. It was his father, who had been arrested, charged with assault after his automobile had struck Frank Calmasso, 8 years old, of 125 Oakland Avenue, Jersey City, at Hudson Boulevard and Carleton Avenue. The boy was taken to City Hospital with a fracture of the skull. Frogglone was held in $2,500 bail.

GIANTS TIE CARDS IN 9TH, WIN IN 10TH

By HARRY CROSS.

The very thought of being trimmed by the St. Louis Cardinals keyed a patched-up Giant team to belligerent pitch yesterday at the Polo Grounds and they tied the Cards at 3 to 3 in the ninth and then hurdled out in the tenth and beat Hornsby's boys, 4 to 3. The Cards looked fine except in the ninth and tenth. Not a thing the matter with them for eight verses.

There is still a six and one-half game margin between the Pirates and Giants, and the Reds trail New York by two and one-half games.

In pinning any complimentary prose on the doings of the Giants one has to skip right up to the ninth. In that effusion, with the score 2 to 3 against them, George Kelly laced a three-bagger to right centre. Mueller and Hafey both went after the ball and it looked like a head-on collision. Both players had a long chase to arrive simultaneously at the point where the ball was going to nestle in the turf.

Hafey got his hands on it, but he was going so fast that the narrow escape from a bump with Mueller sent the ball hopping out of his hands. Snyder was shoved in to bat in place of Terry, and Pancho rapped a single to left which sent Kelly home with the tying run. Koehler ran for Snyder and Lindstrom forced him at second. Groh and Hartley were simple outs by airline.

Meusel Does the Trick.

Then the tenth. Zitzsimmons, who had pitched a ball game which deserved victory, popped to short and Southworth smashed a single to centre. Frisch hoisted a long fly to Mueller and South went to second after the catch. It was Irish Meusel who furnished the necessary nourishment to bring victory, his lusty larrup to left persuading Southworth plateward with the jollification unit.

Besides all those fine things, the Giants did some other things which were not so fine. Take the first inning, when the Cards first faced Fitzsimmons. After Blades filed to Kelly in right, Mueller was safe on a wierd toss by Frisch, who was camped at short stop yesterday. Frisch now plays a different position every day, and it is little wonder that he gets confused on his throwing.

After Hornsby, The Great, forced Mueller, Jim Bottomley, another prominent hitter from the banks of the Mississippi, jarred a two-bagger to left and sent Hornsby to third. Hafey rolled a grounder at Frisch, and Frank again threw the ball so badly that Terry couldn't have reached it with a butterfly net. On that error, both Hornsby and Bottomley hurried home. Hafey also tried to get to second, but Terry recovered the ball in time to nip him going into that pier.

The Cards Earn a Run.

The Cards went out and earned a run for themselves in the third. With one out, Mueller whacked a double to left and campleted the journey to the plate when Hornsby rocked a single to right. Bottomley was then rash enough to hit into a double play.

For five innings the Giants' bats and Bill Sherdel's left-handed spins were almost strangers. In that time the McGrawmen got a couple of hits. Southworth had started out with a two-bagger, but he went to seed at third base.

Lindstrom got a single in the fifth, was forced and Hartley hit into a double play. There are better things to report about New York's sixth. Fitz opened this one with a hoist to Thevenow, which happens to be the classy name owned by the Cardinal shortstop. After Southworth could do nothing more momentous than raise a high foul to O'Farrell, Frank Frisch atoned for some of his errors by pasting a home run into the lower tier of the right field bleachers.

That's the way it stood until the Giants rallied in the ninth to tie it up and win in the tenth. After the third inning young Fitzsimmons tossed a fine game of ball. Only one Cardinal, Mueller, got as far as second base after that. He looks and acts like a good pitcher, Fitz does.

KREMER SAVES DAY FOR PIRATES IN 9TH

Halts Rally After Phils Get Five Runs—Pittsburgh Wins, 10-9—Cuyler Makes 2 Homers.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 28 (AP).—A five-run rally in the Phils' half of the ninth inning today fell one run short and the Pirates won the slugging match, 10 to 9.

Fletcher's sluggers collected seven hits off Adams and Sheehan during the rally, but Kremer saved the game, retiring the final batter with the tying run on second. Cuyler performed the unusual feat of hitting two home runs inside the park in one game. No one was on base either time.

REDS BOMB ROBINS AND TRIUMPH, 12-7

BENTON KNOCKED FROM BOX

Wilts In Seventh When Tierney and Fournier Lead Assault With Extra-Base Drives.

By RICHARDS VIDMER.

"Never up, never in" is a maxim of the golf links, but it applied to the Robins and their war on the Reds at Ebbets Field yesterday. The wild men from the West were five runs ahead at the end of the first inning and they were still five runs to the good at the end of the last, although the Flatbush flock made seven in the interim. The Robins pursued persistently but they could never catch up and the Reds won going away, as they say at Saratoga. The final odds were 12 to 7.

There were enough rallies and counter-rallies to elect all three candidates to the Mayoralty. Even if they had been playing "five runs or no count" the adopted sons of Cincinnati would have won by 2 to 1, for they twice staged uprisings that netted that number of markers and the Robins could put over the act just once. Burleigh Grimes was touched for a five spot in the first while Wilbur Hubbell and Lefty Brown gave up the same amount between them in the eighth.

As may be easily deduced "the gang" was working again. The faithful 5,000 was joined by 3,000 more in the expectation of seeing the great Dazzy Vance in action, but Dazzy once more spent the afternoon polishing the bench. Grimes was elected to start and that's about all he did. He was knocked out of the box in the first inning and Rube Ehrhardt was summoned with four runs already across, two out and runners on first and third. The laughing lad caught Hargrave exploring the territory between first and second but Critz crossed the plate with another tally before Hargrave was finally touched out.

Fournier and Tierney Hit.

Ehrhardt went along with dignity until the sixth, when the Reds picked up two more runs on Caveney's single with the bases full. That pair seemed to add insult to injury at the time, as Rube Benton shut out the Robins for six innings, but in the seventh the Rube wilted and the Robins had their little turn at running the bases.

Eddie Brown and Johnston singled in succession to open the inning and Eddie scored when Taylor forced Johnston at second. Cotton Tierney was sent in to hit for Ehrhardt and he came through with a triple to the left field bleachers that scored Brown. Ford singled, scoring Tierney, and was forced at second by Stock for the second out. Wheat walked, and then Jack Fournier drove two runs home with a double that just missed clearing the right field fence.

That left the Robins trailing by 7 to 5 and Benton trailing toward the dugout, with Brady stalking in from the bullpen to relieve him. The Robins were back in the game, but only for the immediate present. The Reds came back with another flash in the eighth and and the Brooklyn boys' efforts were all for naught.

Hubbell took Ehrhardt's place and was greeted with a double from Curt Walker's bat. Holke sacrificed, but Critz and Caveney were not so charitable and both singled, scoring Walker. Hargrave was purposely passed, filling the bases, and when Brady beat out a tap in front of the plate another run came in. So did Lefty Brown, Hubbell joining Grimes and Ehrhardt in the showers.

The Robins Fight On.

Elmer Smith was sent up to hit for Zitzmann, but when Lefty came on the scene Elmer was hurridly called back and Schultz nominated. Brownie got him without further damage, but Babe Pinelli drove two more runs across with a single before he could get the side out.

After this one might have thought that the Robins would have given up hope, but they still were in hot pursuit. Needing only seven runs to tie, Stock singled with one out in the ninth and Buck Wheat drove his eleventh home run into the left field bleachers. That left the Robins only five runs in the rear, but Fournier and Cox were halted before another riot started.

There's nothing the matter with Vance. He's only resting. If he doesn't pitch today there's no telling when he will pitch again.

Fournier was flirting with a home run all afternoon. Twice he hit the fence, but he couldn't quite get the ball over. There was plenty of altitude on his drives, but not quite enough longitude.

There are just eleven more games scheduled to be played at Ebbets Field this season. One today and two tomorrow with the Reds and that's the last of the Westerners.

Pickups and Putouts

Monday's game with the Cards has been moved up to Sunday and there will be a double-header at the Polo Grounds tomorrow. First game at 2:05 o'clock.

Attention is called to the luscious catch perpetrated by George Kelly in the sixth when he ran several land leagues to absorb Hafey's drive with one hand.

Hardly a Giant was at his right station yesterday. Jackson was hit on the knee in practice, and as it was his sore knee, he retired. Groh went to third, Lindstrom to second and Frisch to short. Kelly was in right.

Heinie Groh is playing but he has to be so careful not to injure his knee again that he did not cover the ground like the shadow of yore.

All the sentiment in New York is not with the Pirates. When the Phillies got four runs on them on the score board there was quite a ripple of applause for the Phils.

The two greatest batsmen on the National League circuit faced Fitsimmons yesterday. Hornsby is in front with an average of .387 and Bottomley next with .378. They got one hit apiece off Fitz.

In the seventh, with two out, Thevenow lifted a fly over the infield. Fitzsimmons waited for Hartley, Groh or Terry to get it, and when they failed to respond, Fitz went over and caught it himself.

British Organize a Baseball League To Amuse American Visitors at Oxford

OXFORD, England, Aug. 28 (AP).—Baseball is to be played in Oxford next Summer for the delectation of the numerous American visitors to the city. Oxford hotel keepers are making arrangements for the games.

American students at Oxford University indulge in the pastime, and their team generally is conceded the best in Europe, but the season of the students ends late in June, when the university closes. Therefore the hotel keepers are negotiating with English teams in several nearby villages to come to Oxford to amuse the visitors.

These English teams are in what might be called the experimental stage, so far as good players and knowledge of the niceties of baseball are concerned. Among the players there are no Hornsbys, Cobbs, Speakers, Frisches or Ruths.

The unprejudiced spectator of a game between the Englishmen would have no hesitancy in declaring that the players while at bat have the stance and the swing of the cricket player. Pitchers have not learned the Walter Johnson wind-up and hurl, but use the stiff over-arm delivery of the cricket bowler. The catchers are the most temperamental of all the players. They disdain to don the mask, considering that the wearing of the wire face-protector would be effeminate. Fielders wear gloves, but often in an exciting moment while running for a fly they discard them and make the catches bare-handed. The umpires wear straw hats and linen dusters.

Beat White Sox in Ninth on Errors by Barrett and Davis—End Blankenship's Streak.

CHICAGO, Aug. 28 (AP).—Washington gained a full game on the Athletics today by defeating Chicago 3 to 2 while Detroit trimmed Philadelphia. Bill Barrett and Ike Davis handed the game to the visitors in the ninth inning. Barrett fumbled Goslin's grounder, which enabled the Senators' left fielder to reach second base. He moved to third on Scott's sacrifice and scored when Davis fumbled Bluege's grounder.

The Senators' victory put an end to Ted Blankenship's winning streak after he had won ten consecutive games. Blankenship allowed only five hits, two of which came in the fifth inning, which, with an error, gave the visitors their first run. Peckinpaugh's double in the seventh, followed by Ruel's single, tied the score. Chicago jumped off to a two-run lead in the second inning on Sheely's walk, Hooper's triple and Kamm's sacrifice fly.

Ferguson, who opposed Blankenship, was touched for eight hits, but the White Sox were unable to hit in the pinches, Ferguson turning back nine White Sox via the strikeout route.

Little World Series Date Set.

CHICAGO, Aug. 28 (AP).—With Louisville almost a certain winner of the American Association pennant, arrangements have been made to open the "Little World Series" at Louisville, Wednesday, Sept. 30, either with Toronto or Baltimore, the probable International League opponent. Three games will be played at Louisville.

TIGER BATS BEAT THE ATHLETICS, 8-1

Led by Ty Cobb, Detroit Pounds Four Hurlers and Scores 5th Straight Victory.

DETROIT, Aug. 28 (AP).—Led by the veteran Ty Cobb, Detroit continued its assault on the ramparts of the American League leaders, defeating Philadelphia today, 8 to 1, and collecting fourteen hits off four Mackmen pitchers.

It was the Tigers' fifth straight victory. Cobb and Wingo each got three hits, including a triple and double by Wingo and a double by Cobb. Seven hits were made off Gray in the first two frames. The Athletics' run in the fifth came by means of singles by Poole and Galloway, followed by a fielder's choice.

GOWDY SCOUTS ON COAST.

Is Looking Over Young Players, Seeking Material for Giants.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 28 (AP).—Hank Gowdy, famous ballplayer, has been here for several days as a scout for the New York Giants. He is looking over Coast League material and plans to remain in the West until he has seen every club in action.

The veteran catcher says the majors are overrun with players who have reached the stage of retrogression and whose days are prolonged for no other reason than lack of young and capable substitutes. New players will be lavished with attention.

Gowdy will become manager of the Columbus (Ohio) club in the American Association next season.

ONCE MORE ONE RUN SETS BACK YANKEES

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 28.—Aaron Ward returned to the line-up today and put a good Arkansas hand back of the slipping wheel of Yankee fortunes, but though he exerted all his strength he could not save his team from going down again by the narrow margin of one run. The score was 1 to 0. Joe Giard, a young southpaw, disdainfully included by the Yanks in the Shocker-Bush deal last Winter, was the whitewash artist, while Waite Hoyt was the victim.

Hoyt allowed only three hits, turning in his best performance of the year. Giard allowed eights hits, two of which, including a double, bounced off the bat of Ward.

Aaron fielded nicely. He was in his accustomed place at second. He felt at home and he also felt happy, for the day was the twenty-ninth anniversary of his birth, in Booneville, Ark.

Manager Huggins had intended to put Ward at third to relieve Meusel, but Meusel has been fielding so well that Hug decided to let Meusel stick, and thus keep Paschal, one of the team's most dangerous batters, in the outfield.

Yanks Sluggish on Bases.

Paschal got two hits this afternoon, as did Ward. There were plenty of Yank hits, but once the Yanks were on base their legs went back on them, or the next man up forced them out, or some Brownleg perpetrated a keen stop, much to the New Yorkers' mortification.

Baby Doll Jacobson's long double to right and Bennett's single in the same direction, in the second inning, provided the only tally in the contest, and sent 4,500 Sportsman's Park fans home happy. The victory was the sixth in a row for the Browns and their tenth success in the last eleven games. George Sisler's boys seem hot on the trail of the White Sox, who dropped back a notch by losing to the Senators today.

The Yanks' ill luck in dropping games by a slender margin has cost them dearly this trip. Their last three have been just narrow escapes from victory. They have only won three out of the thirteen so far played on the road. They have two more here and then return to the Stadium.

Hoyt in Great Form.

Hoyt was really in great form today. He only issued one base on balls. This was to Hargrave in the fifth. The catcher was quickly thrown out stealling by his rival receiver. Bengough is picking the ambitious runners off the paths in steel-armed shape of late.

The only other hit besides the two in the second off Hoyt was a double by McManus, with two down in the seventh. It did not matter, as Bennett bounced out quickly to Gehrig.

The game was run through in the rather quick time of one hour and twenty-three minutes. This was announced officially by Umpire Owens, in accordance with the new system put into effect by President Ban Johnson.

Joe Dugan, who had expected to be sent on ahead to his home, in Scarsdale, N. Y., to start resting up for his contemplated operation for the removal of a piece of floating cartilage from his collapsible knee, will now probably stick with the team and return with them on Sunday night.

Huggins called upon Dugan today in the ninth with two out as a pinch hitter for Ernie Johnson, who had replaced Wanninger at short. Dugan, swinging gingerly on his stiff underpinning, nearly got a hit, which would have been fine, for there were two Yanks on base at the time.

But Shortstop Lamotte dashed into left field and took Dugan's drive over his shoulder for a very spectacular ending of the afternoon. The Yanks ran into a spell of hot weather here, which was quite a contrast to the weather conditions in Chicago.

GRAND AMERICAN WON BY STARNER

DAYTON, Ohio, Aug. 28 (AP).—Elmer C. Starner, Ithaca, N. Y., hotel man, was crowned Grand American champion of amateur trapshooters at Vandalia this afternoon. Standing on the 17-yard line, Starner ran through a set of 100 targets with only two misses, and by the narrow margin of one clay finished high over three other contestants, who tied at 97. The New Yorker made a reputation by winning the honors in the first Grand American he has ever attended. The event carried a guaranteed purse of $1,000.

Starner's average on record with the Amateur Trapshooting Association of America was less than 90 for the season. Like W. C. Deck of Plymouth, Ohio, who took the Grand American last year, he was a dark horse. Deck did not enter the tournament to defend his crown. Virtually all of the twenty-five-yard shooters failed to get near the trophy, most of them finishing in the high eighties.

In a shoot-off of twenty-five targets for the honor of runner-up to the Grand American champion, J. F. Leonard of Niagara Falls, N. Y., defeated W. A. Phillips of Forrest, Ohio, and E. E. Daniels of Birmingham, Mich.

These three men tied on 97 targets. Leonard brought down 24 clays in the shoot-off. Phillips finished third with 23 and Daniels was fourth with 22. A number of shooters registered scores of 96, among them Gladys Reid, Portland, Oregon, woman's national amateur champion, and Harriet Smith of Milwaukee.

The tournament will end tomorrow with the international open and the doubles championship event. More than 700 shooters took part in the Grand American.

HARMSWORTH RACE PUT OFF THREE WEEKS

Accident to the French Entry Postpones Event at Detroit to Sept. 26-28.

PORT WASHINGTON, N. Y., Aug. 28 (AP).—The international race at Detroit for the Harmsworth Trophy, emblem of speedboat supremacy, has been postponed three weeks, from Sept. 5-7 to Sept. 26-28, because of an accident to the French entry, which had challenged for the cup, now held by Gar Wood, Detroit sportsman.

This announcement was made here today by W. D. Edenburn of Detroit, Chairman of the Race Committee of the Yachtsmen's Association of America, after receipt of a cablegram from T. E. Clarke, owner of the French entry Excelsior France, that his craft had sustained damage which would delay shipment for two weeks. She is expected to be shipped Sept. 5 from Havre.

Mr. Edenburn announced that the shift in dates for the Harmsworth Trophy race would not affect the annual Detroit regatta, which will be held as originally scheduled, starting Sept. 5.

Gar Wood, who won the trophy in English waters in 1920 with Miss America I and successfully defended it a year later, has built two new boats for this year's defense. They are Miss America III and IV. Besides the French craft, he will have two American challengers, Horace E. Dodge's Baby Horace III and H. Alex Johnston's Yankee Doodle.

SPEED BOATS READY FOR GOLD CUP TODAY

One of Hydroplanes Crashes Into Dock—Express Cruiser Race Won by Lohara.

Special to The New York Times.

PORT WASHINGTON, N. Y., Aug. 28.—A magnificent marine stage is set here on Manhasset Bay for the race tomorrow for the Gold Cup, the blue ribbon event of speed boat racing in America. Probably never in the history of such events in the past has such a numerous armada of spectator yachts been moored around a boat race course as those which form a diadem of lights in Manhasset Bay tonight.

It is estimated that at least eight hundred yachts were in the harbor at sundown tonight, and by the time the first heat of the Gold Cup is run tomorrow it is expected that at least 1,000 yachts of various types will be moored around the elliptical course over which the speed boats will travel.

So numerous is the fleet that the committee in charge of the anchorages has found it necessary to moor them in three lines about the course. The smaller vessels have the most advantageous positions on the inner cordon, while the big steamers and power yachts, of which there are a great number, are compelled to take positions on the outer belt.

Race Starts at 2 P. M.

It will be a colorful setting in which the nine boats of the Gold Cup field will start their battle for speed boat supremacy at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. All of the yachts in the great flotilla will dress ship tomorrow morning at 8 o'clock in honor of the big speed boat event, making a prismatic pageant several miles in extent.

This colorful display will not be confined to the yachts themselves, but the grounds of the three yacht clubs on the shore near the cup course will be decorated with colors, as will all of the near-by Summer places.

Eight of the nine cup boats which will speed over the course in tomorrow's Gold Cup event were out on the bay today for long practice spins and are tuned to the last notch in preparation for tomorrow's test, which will take each boat over a thirty-mile course three times, or ninety miles in all. Fortunately none of the Gold Cup speeders got into trouble today over the crowded course, and all were said to be in excellent fettle tonight.

There were some changes in the list of racing pilots who will drive tomorrow Mrs. Delphine Dodge Cromwell resigning her place temporarily to Colonel J. G. Vincent on the Nuisance, which is Mrs. Cromwell's entry in the race, and Charles F. Chapman, who expected to drive Miss Columbia, giving over the wheel to L. Gordon Hamersley.

Too Busy on Committee.

Mr. Chapman, who scored the best time in last year's Gold Cup race at Detroit with Miss Columbia, is Chairman of the Race Committee this year, and found that work so arduous that he will remain on the committee boat tomorrow to score the Gold Cup heats.

Gar Wood, noted racing driver, who has not missed a Gold Cup race in many years, will not be present. Mr. Wood is suffering from a serious nervous breakdown and is a patient in a hospital at Detroit. His entry, Miss America 2d, it was announced by the Race Committee today, will be driven by Mr. Wood's brother, George Wood. Carl Fisher, who expected to drive his entry, Baby Shadow, in the Gold Cup event, will not take part because of the death of his mother, and Victor Kleisrath will drive Baby Shadow, which is one of the favorites to win the Gold Cup.

All of the Gold Cup entries, with the exception of Miss America 2d, the Gar Wood entry, which was said by the committee tonight to have arrived here too late for a trial today, were on the course. Baby America, it was said, would have a couple of tune-up trials tomorrow morning. Speeding conditions were almost ideal today, last night's heavy northeaster having subsided, and in its place a tranquil westerly breeze was blowing, which left the speed course as placid as a pond.

All day the speed boats thundered around the course, not only the Gold Cup defenders, but the Miami Beach one-design class and many of the hydroplane and free-for-all type, including W. J. Conners's boat Miss Palm Beach. Among the hydroplanes was L. Gordon Hamersley's Cigarette Jr., said to be one of the fastest boats of the type among the big racing fleet here. As Cigarette Jr. bounded by the committee boat on some of her trials she was said by the unofficial timers to be making about sixty-three miles an hour.

Hydroplane Hits Dock.

One of the hydroplanes met with an accident which put her out of the running for Sunday's events. This was Miss Quincey 7th, driven by Cliff Padgett, which crashed into the town dock when coming into a mooring after having a speed trial on the Gold Cup course. Miss Quincey had just rounded the stern of L. C. Strouse's houseboat Bedouin 2d, moored near the pier, when her helmsman apparently lost control of the craft and she crashed into the bulkhead, crushing in her forward timbers and displacing her engines.

Two cruiser races were finished on the Gold Cup course this afternoon, one of them being the race from Sachem's Head, Conn., for express cruisers, and the other contest for cruisers from a starting line in Manhasset Bay to Stratford Shoal Light in Long Island Sound and back.

The distance of the express cruiser race, which carried with it the championship for that type of boat, was sixty-three statute miles, and the first to finish was Lohara, which crossed the line at 4:30:08. Her elapsed time was 3:30:08. The second boat was Clarella, owned by J. H. Vanscover of the Tri-State Yacht Club of Philadelphia. Her elapsed time was 3:34:53. Third place in the fast cruiser race was taken by Diana, with an elapsed time of 3:39:02. Adriel 2d and Seacrest, following, were timed within a few seconds of Diana.

The corrected times for the course of sixty-eight nautical miles were: Kemah 2d, 5:02:18; Baby Claire, 5:58:54, and Senator Bill, 6:02:50.

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 28.—Robert and Howard Kinsey of San Francisco, defending titleholders in the national doubles tennis championship, were defeated in the semi-final round of the title tournament at the Longwood Cricket Club today. The Pacific Coast brothers, who defeated Gerald Patterson and Pat O'Hara Wood of Australia in the final here last year, met a more brilliant and aggressive combination in Vincent Richards of New York and R. Norris Williams of Philadelphia and in forty-nine minutes were dethroned, 6—1, 8—6, 6—2.

The Eastern team was favored to win, but a closer struggle was looked forward to than developed. Richards and Williams, with their greater daring and power of stroking, moved smoothly and irresistibly along to victory with only a momentary halt in the second set when the Kinseys lured them into a series of errors on attempted kills of lobs.

Tomorrow afternoon Richards and Williams, who may be selected to play the Davis Cup challenge round match, will face Patterson and John B. Hawkes of Australia for the title. Patterson won the double championship in 1919 with Norman E. Brookes. They defeated Tilden and Richards in the challenge round.

Miss Harvey and Richards Win.

In addition to being a contender for the men's doubles crown, Richards will also play in the final of the mixed doubles championship. Paired with Miss E. H. Harvey of England, he will face Miss Kathleen McKane of England and Hawkes. The latter combination gained a crushing victory over Mrs. Molla Mallory and William Tilden, allowing them only two games. The score was 6—1, 6—1. Miss McKane's playing was superb. Keenly alert, she caught the opposing pair out of position again and again, volleying flawlessly and at unplayable angles. Hawkes also played splendidly and the American pair was outclassed by a wide margin.

Before meeting Miss McKane and Hawkes, Mrs. Mallory and Tilden put out Miss Martha Bayard of Short Hills, N. J., and Henry Guild of Boston. This pair in the morning had gained a surprising victory over Miss Joan Fry of England and Réne Lacoste of France at 8—6, 7—5. Miss Bayard played such astonishly good tennis that her performance was the general subject of conversation around the club. In many of the rallies she outvolleyed the brilliant Lacoste. Her ground strokes were whipped across the net with stinging pace and her service was a real asset. Guild fully held up his end of the play with smashing placements off service and cleverly placed volleys.

Miss Harvey and Richards advanced to the final by defeating Miss Elizabeth Ryan of California and Jean Borotra of France at 6—4, 6—3. Richards was all over the court, volleying and smashing in deadly fashion and making gets that even the fleet Borotra could not equal.

The final round also was reached in the national father and son doubles championship. J. D. E. Jones and Arnold W. Jones, the latter the captain of the Yale tennis team this year, will face Donald M. Hill and Malcolm T. Hill for the title tomorrow. The former pair put out Nat W. Niles, Boston star, and his son, Nat W. Niles Jr., 6—0, 6—2, while Hill and Hill defeated G. E. Pfaffman and Karl S. Pfaffman, former Harvard football star, 6—2, 6—4.

Kinseys Weak on Lobbing.

Not in years have championship doubles teams been removed from the play with such little effort as it required for Richards and Williams to win today. Only occasionally were they forced to rise to the great heights of which they are capable. In the greater part of the match their march to victory was a procession. The Kinseys did not play with the keenness and vigor that one would expect from a team defending its crown. Their strokes were lacking in finality, errors marred their play constantly and their lobbing, usually so big an asset, was of an inferior order.

Richards and Williams were not much steadier for the match as a whole than were their opponents, although they failed generally on more difficult shots than did the Kinseys. It was the greater decisiveness of the Eastern pair that accounted for their victory. They scored 50 earned points to 20 for the Californians.

Driving deep to the corners, getting sharp angles on their shots and volleying in a manner that permitted of no return, Richards and Williams played an entirely different brand of tennis than the champions put up. Ten minutes were all that were required for the Davis Cup candidates to win the first set. The first two games went on service and then Richards and Williams took five in a row, dropping only seven points in the process.

Three errors by Robert Kinsey in attempting to return overhead smashes gave the third game to the Easterners. This was the fourth on Kinsey's errors at the net, and six of the eight points in the next two games also were won on errors. In the final game Richards scored the last two points on a kill and a drop shot over the net.

Kinseys Play Steadier Tennis.

In the second set the Kinseys steadied down and played on even terms with their opponents. Robert Kinsey played beautifully in the third game at the net to win it at 4—2 after trailing at 0—30. Richards and Williams drove and volleyed in irresistible fashion to win the fourth and then broke through in the fifth after deuce had been called for the first time in the match.

In the sixth game the Kinseys began to lob with good effect and took three games in a row. They broke through Williams on three smashes and won the seventh in Howard Kinsey's fine service and broke through Richards in the eighth when he and Williams each hit out twice on attempts to kill lobs. They then led at 5—3.

Richards brought the winning streak to a halt with three finishing shots at the net, to break through Robert Kinsey. Williams tied the score at 5—all on service, with Richards donating the play again at the net. The next two games went on service and then the Eastern team broke through after a protracted struggle in the thirteenth, in which eighteen points were required for a decision. Williams made five of his characteristic daring placements in this game. Richards then came to the front again and won his own game at love, scoring twice on kills.

In the final set Richards and Williams started out by breaking through Robert Kinsey's service at 6—4 and then gained a lead of 4—1 with a break through Howard Kinsey. The latter was erring frequently, while Robert seldom got into the play. Two double faults of Richards, one the result of a foot fault, gave the Kinseys a lead of of 40—0 in the sixth and then they dropped five points in succession. Robert Kinsey's service could not be handled in the seventh and the Californians won their last game.

Richards and Williams brought the match to an end with a brilliant display, the former scoring on two volleys and the latter on two kills for the final game.

Hardy and Pate Keep Title In Veterans Doubles Tennis

Special to The New York Times.

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 28.—Samuel Hardy of New York, former Davis Cup star, and Walter Pate, also of New York, today retained their title as national veterans doubles champions in the tennis tourney being played on the courts of the Longwood Club when they defeated Julian S. Myrick, New York, and A. Wallis Myers of England, 6—3, 6—4. The New York combination was too strong for the Anglo-American team and won the title for the second successive year without a great deal of difficulty.

MISS FRY TRIUMPHS AFTER 3 LONG SETS

Gains Longwood Final by Defeating Mrs. Jessup at 6-2, 7-9, 11-9.

Special to The New York Times.

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 28.—Miss Joan Fry of England reached the final round of the woman's tennis tournament at the Longwood Cricket Club today. In a long and keenly fought three-set match she defeated Mrs. Marion Zinderstein Jessup of Wilmington, Del., 6—2, 7—9, 11—9. Tomorrow morning Mrs. Molla Mallory of New York and Miss Elizabeth Ryan of California will meet in the other semi-final and the concluding round will be played in the afternoon.

Miss Fry came within a point of defeating Mrs. Jessup in the second set. Hitting the ball with powerful, deep strokes she was clearly the superior of the American girl in the first set. Mrs. Jessup fought hard to hold off the attack, but Miss Fry's shots traveled too fast and were too well directed. Continuing to stroke with the same severity in the second set, Miss Fry gained a lead of 4—0.

Miss Jessup then began to get the situation in hand. She took the next three games, fighting hard for every point and forcing her opponent into error-making. In the tenth game Miss Fry, leading at 5—4, was twice within a point of the match with the score at 40—15 in her favor. An error cost her the next point, and then Mrs. Jessup put over a stinging drive to the baseline. The American girl finally took the game, and after the next four games had gone on service, broke through in the fifteenth and won the sixteenth on her own delivery for the set at 9—7. In the final set Miss Fry gained a lead of 3—1, outsteadying her opponent in long driving rallies. Mrs. Jessup pulled up to 3-all, and the score went to 4-all. Mrs. Jessup broke through in the ninth at love when Miss Fry began to lose control. The English girl then proceeded to take the tenth at the same score. A duel of service then developed with each player winning in turn for nine games. Miss Fry finally broke through in the twentieth game at 4—1, hitting with such speed and depth that Mrs. Jessup could not handle her shots accurately.

Polo Player Painfully Injured When Thrown at Fort Hamilton.

Lieutenant D. T. Craw, captain of the 1924 West Point polo team, was painfully injured yesterday at Fort Hamilton when he was thrown from his mount in a practice game. Craw was still unconscious when teammates galloped to him. He was badly cut about the face and probably suffered a broken nose. Later, in the post hospital, the surgeon in attendance said that his condition was not serious, but that he would be out of the Saddle River game, for which the Fort Hamilton four was practicing when the accident occurred. Since his graduation from the Military Academy Lieutenant Craw has been stationed at Fort Hamilton.

KNOWLES ADVANCES IN INVITATION BOUT

BEATS TAFT BY 5 AND 4

Also Puts Out McMahon, 8 and 7 Without Losing a Hole—Haigh, Paul and Giles Win.

By WILLIAM D. RICHARDSON.

RYE, N. Y., Aug. 28.—Whether a week-end golfer can hold his own successfully against those who put no such limitation on their links activities was answered in the affirmative by Ellis Knowles, former intercollegiate champion, at the Westchester Biltmore Country Club today. In the club's annual invitation event the Apawamis ace, who confines his golf largely to Saturdays and Sundays during the playing season, put the curb on two youngsters who are still able to find time for at least an occasional round in between. Not only that, but he refused to give either one of them the satisfaction of winning a hole. When the two matches were over both of his opponents were wondering why in the world Knowles hadn't sent in his entry for the amateur championship.

In the opening round of match play this morning Knowles, who is the medalist, defeated W. H. Taft of Montclair and Dartmouth, one of the leading players in the present intercollegiate crop, by 5 and 4. A short time afterward he eliminated J. G. McMahon Jr., former Yale star, to the tune of 8 and 7. The closest that either one came to winning a hole was when they were fortunate enough to get halves. Against Taft, Knowles had an approximated 69, conceding him a par 4 at the sixteenth, which he didn't play since the match was settled at the fourteenth hole. His medal for nine holes against McMahon was 34, four under par, and the same figure that he had over the same route in his medal-winning performance yesterday.

How to stop Knowles, or at least how to win a hole from him, is the problem that now faces A. W. Haigh of Westchester Hills. If Haigh doesn't solve the first of these two questions it will be up to the winner of the other semi-final round between C. H. Paul of the home club and A. C. Giles of Wee Burn, who holds the Connecticut State amateur title.

Bancker Meets Defeat.

Haigh reached the semi-final round by defeating W. W. Bancker of Wykagyl, 7 and 6, in the first round and E. E. Sturges of Scarsdale, former Westchester County amateur titleholder, 1 up, in the second. Paul's two victims were M. B. Kaesche of Ridgewood, one of the stars of the New Jersey sector, and J. H. Schenck of Merion Cricket Club, Philadelphia. In each match his margin was narrow. The match against Kaesche went to the home hole and that against the Quaker City golfer was not decided until the last yard had been covered. Giles defeated W. I. Foley of Englewood, 3 and 1, in the first round and then conquered J. McGough of Brookville, 1 up, in a nineteen-hole battle.

For the first two holes McMahon played Knowles on even terms. The next seven, however, Knowles won, the last of them with an eagle 3. After the match ended on the eleventh green, Laddie was frank to declare that it was one of the worst drubbings he had ever received.

The only consolation McMahon was able to derive was the belief that if he had played the first hole differently he might have had a chance. The first green is not hard to drive. Knowles had the honor and pulled into the gully at the left. That, so McMahon figured, was his opening, but instead of getting home he followed Knowles's lead. The result was a half that might otherwise have been a win. From then on Knowles played nine successive holes in par figures or better. Seven of them went to his credit. There were two birdies that escaped him. One was at the sixth, where he missed a yard putt, and the other at the seventh, where he almost holed his putt for a 2. The eagle 3 on the ninth was a whiz—a forty-foot putt from the edge of the green.

Sturges, who had barely escaped elimination at the hands of Ralph Edwards of Belleclaire in the morning, was less lucky against Haigh. Coming off the thirteenth green he was 2 down, and although he succeeded in getting on level terms, his opponent staved off trouble by holing a thirty-five-foot putt for a birdie win at the home hole. Paul and Schenck had a "birdie" duel, getting no fewer than nine between them. The former was 2 up at the turn, but the Philadelphian began pelting birdies at him so fast that Paul was 1 down, with three holes to play. A win at the sixteenth enabled Paul to square the match, and he then won the next two. The hole that ruined Schenck's prospects of victory was the seventeenth, where he tried to play a mashie shot over the water without looking at the ball, with the inevitable result.

Giles Falters on Greens.

Agains McGough, Giles was 4 up going to the twelfth hole, where his putting touch left him temporarily. McGough squared the match by winning the seventeenth, and forced it beyond the usual distance by getting a half at the eighteenth. Here both drove equidistant from the hole, but the Brookville player took three putts.

WALKER HOME FIRST IN 25-MILE BATTLE

Takes Race in National Cycle Championship Series at N. Y. Velodrome.

Cecil Walker, the all-around bicycle champion of America, won the twenty-five mile national championship race at the New York Velodrome last night before a crowd of 14,000 fans. Walker led seven rivals to the tape and covered the distance in 52 minutes 24 2-5 seconds.

Walker made his bid to win when three-quarters of a lap from home. He sprinted around Alf Grenda, the lanky Tasmanian, going down the back stretch. Walker fought off the other stars who were racing with him five abreast and in the home stretch sped home in front of Freddie Hill of Boston.

Grenda, Harry Horan of South Orange, Alex McBeath of Australia, Ray Eaton of East Orange, Willie Grimm of Irvington, Anthony Beckman of Secaucus and Freddie Spencer of Plainfield, N. J., finished in that order.

Alf Goullet, great all-around rider, went the distance, but failed to get in the money. Goullet has been troubled with boils lately and apparently was unable to give his best in the race.

Willie Spencer of Newark, American champion in 1922 and 1923, defeated Orlando Piani, Italian rider, in two straight heats of a one-mile match race. Piani used poor judgment in both heats. In the initial heat, while Piani was looking back for Spencer, the latter hopped around Piani and opened up a big gap, which Piani was unable to close. Piani rode the second in the same manner, and while he looked back for Spencer, Willie jumped around and outraced him to the tape.

MRS. REINHART GAINS WESTERN GOLF FINAL

Defeats Mrs. Horne on 19th Green, While Mrs. Higbie Conquers Mrs. Gant, 3 and 2.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Aug. 28. (AP).—Mrs. Elaine Rosenthal Reinhart of Dallas, Texas, and Mrs. Harley Higbie of Detroit will meet in the final for the women's Western golf championship as a result of their victories today.

Mrs. Gaut apparently was overgolfed from previous strenuous matches, in one of which she had to score 78 to win, and besides, Mrs. Higbie set a record of 38 for the first nine and gained a lead of 5 up.

As had been expected, the contest between Mrs. Reinhart, who has won the Western title twice, and Mrs. Horne, who was champion two years ago, was a fierce battle. Mrs. Reinhart, although she shot par, was never up until the seventeenth hole, while she saw her opponent get a lead of 1 up half a dozen times. These leads were always shortlived, as the Texan wiped them out at the next hole; and, in like manner, Mrs. Horne wiped out Mrs. Reinhart's lead at the eighteenth, only to lose at the extra hole.

It was at the extra hole that Mrs. Reinhart played three of the best shots of the match and cut her total to one under par by bagging her fifth for a birdie. She drove more than twenty yards and boldly played her brassie second over a yawning trap with a twenty-foot perpendicular bank at the edge of the green and then ran a thirty-foot putt dead, bettering Mrs. Horne's par 5.

Mrs. Higbie, who has never won the Western title, continued her erratic golf today. She got two birdies and an eagle to score her 38, which is only two above men's par, and then went six above par on the next seven holes, taking seven at one and six at two others. She has played in this manner all week. In the qualifying round she went out in 39 and back in 49 and in two matches previously she shot poorly on the first half only to come home in 37, or one more than men's par.

Chicago Plans Net Play.

CHICAGO, Aug. 28 (AP).—An intersectional tennis team championship tournament, to become an annual affair, has been arranged by the Chicago Town and Tennis Club for four days, beginning Sept. 24. Invitations to compete have been issued to the world's leading net stars, including the first ten players in national ranking and the Davis Cup teams of Japan, Australia, France and Spain.

FIGHT FANS HERE SAY HERMAN WON

Some Rounds Abbreviated, Some Watches Showed—Fitzgerald Resigns—Receipts $59,180.

By JAMES P. DAWSON.

New York's delegation of fight followers returned from Waterbury yesterday, some by auto and others by rail, but all amazed over the decision which deprived Babe Herman of a victory over Louis (Kid) Kaplan and preserved for the Meriden lad the title of world's featherweight champion. New Yorkers who made the trip to the Connecticut city left the scene of battle convinced, almost to a man, that Herman had been the victim of a wrong decision. The general opinion was that Herman had won clearly and cleanly.

The fight itself was spectacular, satisfactory from a competitive standpoint, and a huge financial success. But it has left in its wake a condition which, many think, will seriously affect future boxing activities in Connecticut. Referee Dave Fitzgerald yesterday returned his license as a referee to Boxing Commissioner Thomas E. Donahue, as a protest, not against the failure of the Commissioner to select him to referee the bout, but against the bringing into Connecticut of a referee from Massachusetts.

It was expected that the New Haven referee, regarded as one of the best in the country and the outstanding arbiter in Connecticut, would be selected, but a short time before the bout it developed that Commissioner Donahue had especially arranged to have a referee from Massachusetts and another from New York available, either one or the other to be selected at the ringside. Tommy Sheridan was the New York referee who made the trip to Waterbury at the request of Commissioner Donahue, transmitted through Chairman James A. Farley of the New York State board, who attended the bout with Secretary Dan Skilling.

Fitzgerald Kept Score Card.

Fitzgerald yesterday did not mince words in denouncing the action of Commissioner Donahue and the decision of Referee Jack Sheehan as well. He said that if he had been in the ring he would have raised Herman's hand unhesitatingly. Sheridan also said that his decision would have gone to Herman, and exhibited a score card showing that he had given Herman the majority of the rounds. Jigger McCarthy, who refereed the opening bout of the night, also was reported contemplating resigning when he learned that an out-of-State man had been selected to referee the bout. Neither Chairman Farley nor Secretary Skilling of the New York Commission would comment on the match for publication.

Commissioner Donahue refused to discuss the decision in Waterbury after the battle. He explained that he was actuated by a desire to preclude the possibility of partisanship entering into the decision in his selection of a referee.

"The reports that Fitzgerald was to referee surprised me," said Donahue. "There was no authorized statement from me to that effect. I wanted to make sure that there would be no ground for a cry of favoritism in the event that Kaplan received the decision in a close battle. For that reason I arranged to have a referee here from Massachusetts and another from New York. I finally decided upon Sheehan as the referee and arranged with Chairman Farley to have a New York referee enter the ring if Sheehan failed to show up. As it happened, Sheehan did not know he was to referee until I told him at the ringside. This is shown by the fact that he was compelled to enter the ring in his street clothes. I will stand by his decision."

The decision led several managers of boxers to daclare that they never would agree to an important fight in Connecticut. Max (Boo Boo) Hoff, manager of Danny Kramer, Philadelphia contender for the title, voiced regret that Kramer was not in the ring with Kaplan. He expressed confidence that Kramer would have knocked Kaplan out.

Say Time Was Short.

Next to the decision itself, the work of timing the rounds came in for a good deal of criticism, as well as the official weighing. Practically every one at the ringside sensed that the thirteenth round was cut short considerably, and watches held individually, when Manager Jimmy Kelly first protested a shortening of rounds, supported Herman's manager in the protest that the thirteenth session was cut short almost half a minute. Kelly claimed that a watch held by one of his friends in Herman's corner showed the thirteenth round to have gone exactly 2 minutes 27 seconds when the gong ended the round. This was the greatest shortage noted. Other rounds were claimed to have been cut short from four to ten seconds.

Promoter Tex Rickard, who witnessed the bout, was impressed with the interest reflected by the capacity crowd at Brassco Park. The receipts for the match were $59,180.50 gross, a State record for Connecticut. The boxers were paid off on net receipts of $49,300. Kaplan's percentage made his end $19,685 and Herman's percentage arrangement surpassed his flat guarantee of $5,000 by $4,892. He received $9,892.

Rickard said he thought Herman was entitled to a shade decision, but added that he considered the draw decision fair to each boy.

REFEREE DEFENDS DECISION.

Did Not Know He Was to Officiate Until Five Minutes Before Bout.

WATERBURY, Conn., Aug. 28 (AP).—Referee Jack Sheehan today gave the following summary of the Kaplan-Herman bout and his reason for declaring it a draw:

"The bout was of a wavering kind. It see-sawed back and forth often, frequently. Kaplan took the first four rounds by force in carrying and by sharp body attack.

"Herman took the next three rounds, running into favor by defensive fighting and his meeting Kaplan with a long, rasping left hand.

"But after this the battle see-sawed until the twelfth round, when Herman came to life with a hurricane attack which cast gloom over the army of Nutmeg State adherents by the force of his blows. From then on it was anybody's bout.

"I think my decision met with approval. It was a matter of one man playing for the head and the other scoring to the body. I believe it was a draw—a good draw.

"I didn't know I was to referee this bout until five minutes before. I have had a referee's license in Connecticut for a long time."

Sheehan said he came to the boxing meet to see the main bout, without the least idea that he would be asked to appear in it.

Kaplan Ready for Return Bout.

MERIDEN, Conn., Aug. 28 (AP).—Louis (Kid) Kaplan, who retained his featherweight title in his match with Babe Herman in Waterbury last night, will meet his rival in a return match for the 126-pound title, it was announced here today by Scotty Monteith, manager of the champion.

Monteith stated that he had an engagement with Tex Rickard, in New York, where details would be discussed. What might take place then Monteith could not say except that Kaplan will defend his crown in New York and that the match would probably be one of the earlier bouts at the new Madison Square Garden. Jimmy Kelly, manager of Herman, also is expected to attend the conference.

The champion's hand, injured in last night's bout, was examined today by Dr. Frank S. Otis, and as far as could be determined there is a splintered bone in the right hand near the thumb. A further examination will be made.

Says Some Rounds Were Short.

NEW HAVEN, Aug. 28 (AP).—James Cavallaro of this city, a licensed timekeeper, who was at the Kaplan-Herman bout last night, but who was not the official timekeeper, said today that after Herman's manager had made his first protest against short rounds State Commissioner Donahue sent him to the other side of the ring to check up on time, and that the watch showed that some rounds were eight to ten seconds short and one round was thirty-three seconds short.

EVANS SETS RECORD AND WINS AT GOLF

His 70 Tops Field in Pre-Amateur Championship—Jones Not Sure of Keeping Title.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 28 (AP).—Chick Evans of Chicago, former national and open champion, thrilled a gallery at the Allegheny Country Club today in a special 18-hole medal play tournament which was held as a prelude to the national amateur championship at Oakmont next week, when he shot a 70, establishing a competitive course record. It was the first time in ten years that he had played the course, and had it not been for the second hole, on which he took a six, wasting two strokes, he would have been able to break 70.

Evans's nearest competitor was Jimmy Johnson of St. Paul, who turned in 74, one above the par figure of the course. J. Wood Platt, Whitemarsh; W. M. Reekie, New York, and H. J. Hiemenz, Lancaster, were tied for third place with 75. Following came William C. Fownes Jr., Robert A. Lyne, Oakmont, and Watts Gunn, Atlanta, who all had 76s.

Bobby Jones, national amateur champion, had an 81. Roland MacKenzie, Washington, D. C., who was playing with Jones, had an 86. Many of the stars who were scheduled to play did not put in an appearance. They took the time to practice at Oakmont. Including among those who went to the course where the tournament will be played next week was rancis Ouimet.

Jones isn't at all optimistic that he will retain the laurels won at Merion last year. Pitted against the champion are some of the country's greatest amateurs, all eager to knock the Atlanta star off his pedestal.

"One can never tell what is going to happen in a golf match; there are at least a dozen in this tournament who have a chance to beat me," Jones said. "There is no such thing as a golf championship monopoly. That is the reason golf is the game it is and so popular with the American public. The uncertainty is what holds the interest. If one player could win year after year, golf would lose much of its fascination.

"Golf is not like baseball. In a golf championship you have only one tournament; in baseball they play 154 games, and that is where class will tell. If there were 100 golf matches a season to determine the championship, it might be possible for a champion to hold a title longer.

"I have made a study of golf. I believe a player can be at the top of his game for only about four days; after that he declines and it takes two weeks to reach the crest again.

"Don't let any one tell you playing in a championship match is not nerve-racking. When Dave Herron beat me back in 1919 I lost twenty pounds. I lost twelve pounds at Worcester in the open championship last June. I am heavier now, but I will not be much overweight when this championship is over."

BINGHAM GAINS FINAL IN ORVIS CUP GOLF

Will Meet Taussig for Trophy at Manchester—Graves Forces Bingham to 19 Holes.

Special to The New York Times.

MANCHESTER, Vt., Aug. 28.—The final thirty-six-hole match for the Orvis Cup at Ekwanok Country Club will be played tomorrow between Harry Payne Bingham of the National Golf Club and Frank Taussig of St. Andrews as a result of the third and semi-final rounds, played today. Bingham had to go nineteen holes to dispose of Brainerd Graves of Providence, a Yale golfer, this morning, and ended his match with Phil Wray, another Providence man, in an unusual manner when each had two balls out of bounds playing the sixteenth hole.

Taussig generally was in the lead and saved a margin of 2 and 1 against John D. Ames of Chicago in the morning and ended his match with W. H. O'Brien Jr. of Siwanoy at the fifteenth this afternoon.

The summaries:

First Thirty-two, Third Round—Phil Wray, Wannamoisette, defeated H. B. Rust, Wannamoisette, 3 and 2; H. P. Bingham, National, defeated E. B. Graves, Wannamoisette, 1 up (19 holes); Frank Taussig, St. Andrews, defeated John D. Ames, Springdale, 2 and 1; W. H. O'Brien, Siwanoy, defeated C. M. Fetteroff, Upper Montclair, 1 up.

Semi-Finals, Third Round—Eugene Homans, Englewood, defeated S. H. Harris, Essex County, 5 and 3; H. Y. Barrow, Baltusrol, defeated Ellis Adams, Essex County, 3 and 2; H. K. Kerr, National, defeated W. S. Carleton, Brae Burn, 7 and 5; A. L. Walker, Ekwanok, defeated Henry Heyburn, Louisville, 5 and 4.

OUT OF BERLENBACH FIGHT

Special to The New York Times.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Aug. 28.—Jack Delaney, local contender for the world's light-heavyweight title, was operated on this morning at St. Vincent's Hospital for a serious abscess of the neck. The condition of the boxer was said at the hospital tonight to be as good as could be expected. Dr. H. A. Sabitz of the hospital staff announced that Delaney was resting comfortably and that the operation was a success. The operation was performed by Dr. Murray Johnson and Dr. Curran of this city and Dr. W. G. Fralick of New York.

The danger of septic poisoning as a consequence of the alarming swelling in the region of the abscess led to the decision to operate. Dr. Sabitz said that Delaney is a very sick man, but added that the only fear now was that complications may develop.

It will be some time, from present indications, before Delaney will be able to enter the ring again or undertake any training, it was said. The illness of the local favorite has caused his withdrawal from a scheduled bout against Paul Berlenbach, world's light-heavyweight champion, which was to have been held in New York on Sept. 11.

Delaney first complained of the trouble in his neck a fortnight ago, when he was forced to cancel a bout he had scheduled in Detroit. He came home immediately, but it was thought at first that the complaint was not serious and that a few days of rest and treatment would find Delaney improved. The complaint gradually grew worse, however, until at last an operation was decided upon.

McTigue to Replace Delaney.

Mike McTigue is to get another chance at the world's light heavyweight title he lost to Paul Berlenbach sooner than the Irish boxer expected. Fate yesterday smiled on McTigue, even as it frowned on Jack Delaney, Bridgeport contender for the title, and made possible a return meeting between Berlenbach and McTigue at the Yankee Stadium on Sept. 11.

The withdrawal of Delaney opened the way for another chance at the title for McTigue, and the Irish battler quickly seized the opportunity. Berlenbach and McTigue have been scheduled for fifteen rounds. The rest of the card remains unchanged. In the other important matches, Harry Galfund, local welterweight, will clash with Frankie Schoell of Buffalo in the twelve-round semi-final, and Jimmy Slattery, Buffalo light-heavyweight, will tackle Tommy Loughran of Philadelphia in an eight-round bout. This match will witness Slattery's first appearance in a local ring in a bout of more than six rounds.

McTigue is expected to give Berlenbach an exciting battle for the title. The Irish boxer, through his spectacular battle against Tony Marullo at Coney Island last Saturday night, earned many new friends and convinced his old admirers that he possesses fighting ability which makes him dangerous, when he elects to fight up to his best form. It was Mike's first bout in a local ring as an ex-champion, and he was something of a revelation. He was aggressive and at times reckless in his fighting fury to a degree that was startling.

KING SOLOMON GAINS VERDICT OVER ROMERO

King Solomon, Panama heavyweight, added Quintin Romero, Chilean, to his list of vanquished rivals last night, when the pair clashed in the main bout of twelve rounds at the Rockaway Beach Arena, Steeplechase Park. The bout was the principal attraction on a card arranged for the benefit of the Rockaway Beach Hospital.

When the final bell ended hostilities Solomon received the decision. Solomon, despite an injured right hand he suffered early in the battle, out-fought and out-boxed Romero convincingly and at the final bell had a clear margin on points. Solomon weighed 196 pounds and was two pounds lighter than Romero.

FLOWERS BEATS MALONE.

Gets Decision in Ten Rounds at Boston, Though Staggered in Eighth.

BOSTON, Aug. 28 (AP).—Tiger Flowers, Atlanta middleweight, tonight won the decision over Jock Malone of St. Paul, Minn., in a ten-round bout at Braves Field. Malone weighed 155 pounds and Flowers 161. Flowers won eight rounds, one was a draw and the eighth round was Malone's. The latter's right to the chin in that session sent Flowers reeling and was Malone's only effective blow in the bout.

SILVANI IS SUSPENDED.

Set Down for Thirty Days by Boxing Board for Canceling Bout.

The suspension of Joe Silvani, Bronx heavyweight, for thirty days was the outstanding development at a comparatively quiet meeting of the State Athletic Commission yesterday. Silvani was penalized for withdrawing from a scheduled bout against Carl Carter at the Ridgewood Grove S. C., Brooklyn, tonight.

The application of Matchmaker Tom McArdle of the Queensboro Stadium for permission to change his weekly date from Sept. 7, Labor Day, to Sept. 9 was approved.

Anderson Outpoints Henry.

SUNSPERO TAKES DUST

By HENRY R. ILSLEY.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 28.—Running in front all the way, but gaining the decision by a head only, the Lilane Stable's brown colt Kiyi, by Omar Khayyam—The Marchioness, this afternoon won the second section of the Consolation Claiming Stakes, which featured the card of the twenty-fifth day of the meeting here. Only four two-year-olds faced the barrier for the dash of six furlongs, Kiyi running the distance in 1:13 1-5 under top weight of 110 pounds. Frank Bray saddled the winner, which had Clarence Turner up. The race was worth $2,330 to the Lilane Stable. Kiyi was the 4 to 5 favorite.

One of the biggest Friday crowds of the meeting turned out for the sport, which was under clear skies and with a nipping breeze. It was an indication that the last day of the meeting would see another capacity attendance.

Kiyi has been in training for a long time, the colt having begun his racing career at Miami last Winter. The Consolation Stakes was his third start at the meeting and his second victory, he having won the first section of the stake earlier in the meeting. The Consolation is open only to nominees in the leading juvenile stakes of the meeting and four accepted the weights.

Kiyi had the post position on the rail for the dash of six furlongs and saved ground throughout. All the way down the backstretch G. A. Cochrane's Gnome filly Rosina was lapped on the colt. They had a hot battle of it down the homestretch and a sixteenth out the filly took the lead and looked all over a winner. She weakened at the end, however, Kiyi having a head on her at the winning post. R. T. Wilson Jr.'s Indian Tales took third money from Samuel Ross's Miss Stanley.

Roland First to Wire.

Mrs. R. L. Miller's four-year-old Sweep colt Roland was easily the winner of the Essex Handicap, a dash of seven furlongs for three-year-olds and upward, in a field of six, there having been seven scratches with no change of track conditions. The consistent filly Julie was the early pace maker, but found the distance a little too long and tired fast in the final furlong.

Richards had Roland well in hand and eased him back on the turn. When the field swung into the homestretch Richards came in next to the rail, assumed the lead and held A. C. Bostwick's Scorcher safely in the drive for home. Roland was the 7 to 5 favorite. Julie held on to take third money.

There was a big upset in the running of the Bluff Point Handicap for three-year olds and upward over the mile course, in which the La Brea Stable's Sunspero, winner of his last three races and conqueror of Altawood in the Geyser Handicap, was beaten by Mrs. M. L. Davis's six-year-old gelding Washington. The chestnut son of Ballot showed a startling form reversal over his last race, winning easily by a length and a half.

Only four went to the post, Frederick Johnson's Quatrain being scratched. Washington with the feather of 102 and Callahan in the saddle took the lead with the rise of the barrier and never relinquished it. He opened a good lead on the others, increasing it to two lengths. In the stretch Andy Schuttinger made a hard try with Sunspero, but the Sun Briar gelding could not make the grade under his top weight of 126 pounds. Frederick Johnson's Dare Say took third money. Sunspero was the even money favorite, Dare Say the second choice at 11 to 5. With the winner the outsider of the lot at 7 to 1.

Widener Jumper Scores.

The Round Lake Steeplechase for three-year-olds and upward was easily won by J. E. Widener's Loyterer, with D. Byers up. It was his first start of the season and trainer J. H. Lewis had the son of Neil Gow and High Time ready. Byers held the English-bred gelding off the pace for a turn of the field, sent him to the fore a half mile from the finish and he won eased up by five lengths from Mrs. F. Ambrose Clark's Loch Ayr.

Loch Ayr ran a good race, showing the way to the other three for the greater part of the distance. She was the lightweight of the party under 130 pounds, the winner taking up 139. Mrs. Clark's other entry, Moseley, ran out on the back of the stretch while the Brookmeade Stable's His Lordship ran a bad race. He was the 11 to 10 favorite, while the winner was the second choice at 8 to 5.

BRONZE KING WINS HORSE SHOW BLUE

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 28.—Women again carried off the laurels on the second day of the annual Newport Horse Show. In the opening class of the day, that for thoroughbred hunters, Miss Margaretta B. McNeal from Devon, Pa., rode her Greenway Boy for the blue against a big field of entries, and Miss Sally Lanier, riding with superb horsemanship, was selected for second place with her Down East.

The New York State horses today again pushed prominently to the front, two of the notable victories of the afternoon being scored by George Couch's entries, his Princess Gloria, a big winner on the opening day, taking the blue in the class for large saddle mares, and his Bronze King the blue ribbon in the class for geldings over 14.2 hands.

John McE. Bowman's horses also began to get into the running during the day, his chestnut gelding Over There coming to the front for the blue in the class for large hunters, and with Water Way also got a place in the class for hunters ridden abreast.

Late in the afternoon Suzette, one of Mrs. John R. Gladdings's entries from Providence, won her first blue of the show in the class for road hacks, scoring over Crouch's Princess Gloria. The tables were reversed, however, in the sweepstakes for saddle horses, for Suzette was second to Princess Gloria.

There were plenty of thrills in the two big jumping classes of the afternoon, the class for eight jumps touch-and-out, which finally was won by Mrs. Horace W. ## SARATOGA MEETING WILL CLOSE TODAY

Hopeful Heads Feature Card for Final Day—Sande to Ride Chance Play.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 28.—With the running of the last race on tomorrow's card the twenty-six-day Summer meeting of the Saratoga Association will come to a close. Three important stakes are to be decided and they make up an attraction that is expected to bring a capacity crowd to the attractive plant on Union Avenue.

The $50,000 Hopeful Stakes for two-year-olds over the course of six and a half furlongs will be run for the twenty-first time, and while the field of eighteen is not a record number, it includes the best of the year with the exception of Haste, which is not eligible. Chance Play will have Earl Sande up, replacing Clarence Kummer, contract jockey for the Log Cabin Stable, which presages a change in Kummer's contractual relation.

The Saratoga Steeplechase Handicap at two miles and a half for four-year-olds and upward will have its seventeenth running.

The historic Saratoga Cup at a mile and six furlongs has lost considerable of its interest through the absence of the great American Flag and Altawood, but the $5,000 stake should furnish a real race with Mad Play, Homestretch, Swope and Flames.

HELMS WINS TWICE; WIDENS CHESS LEAD

Special to The New York Times.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 28.—While Joseph D. Lear, Buffalo's chess champion, made no further progress in the annual tournament for the State title at the meeting of the New York State Chess Association at the Hotel Lafayette today, because of the two adjourned games he has pending, Herman Helms of New York completed his schedule by winning from both of the Rome representatives. His final score was 6½ points out of a possible 7. In the sixth round the former State champion won from Richard Ramme in a Sicilian defense lasting 44 moves, and in the final round he defeated D. Francis Searle, President of the association, in a two knights defense which went to 30 moves.

Lear, who was the only one to draw with the leader and can still tie him by winning both of his remaining games, began his game in the seventh round with Dr. Harold M. Coss of this city. The latter has an excellent chance for second or third place. He had the white side of a queen's pawn opening and when play was adjourned held an even position. Another adjourned game between Dr. Coss and Carl L. Janowitz will be played off tomorrow. Janowitz meanwhile slipped into third place by scoring a well earned victory at the expense of Stopinski of Buffalo.

Dr. C. C. Steigerwald of Buffalo emerged as winner in Class A of the general tournament, thanks to a clever victory over A. P. C. Rodenbach of this city. Dr. Steigerwald went through with a clean score of 6—0. Nicholas Weber of Utica, with 5—1, captured the second prize, and Rodenback, 4—2, the third. Charles Broughton of Staten Island, 3—3, was placed fourth.

With three more games to be finished, the standing of competitors in the championship tournament is as follows:

| Helms | 6½ | ½ | Stopinski | 3 | 4 |
| Lear | 4½ | ½ | Ramme | 2 | 5 |
| Janowitz | 4 | 2 | Searle | 1½ | 4½ |
| Dr. Coss | 3½ | 1½ | Barron | 0 | 7 |

|  | W. | L. |  | W. | L. |
| Dr. Steigerwald | 6 | 0 | Broughton | 3 | 3 |
| Weber | 5 | 1 | Reynolds | 2 | 4 |

Post and Paddock

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 28.—The finish of the steeplechase this afternoon was a combination horse and dog race. As the regular contenders came around the last turn a yellow canine joined the chase, scrambled over the last jump in the wake of the field, but finally gave it up and pulled up lame.

That four favorites won on the next to the last day of the meeting was of some solace to the talent.

The Audley Farm's Dawn o' Virginia ran away half a mile before the running of the final event on the program. After breaking well at the real start, the Friar Rock filly failed to show anything.

Daughters of Man o' War ran first and second in this race, which was for maiden two-year-old fillies, when the Log Cabin Stud's Medal and the Glen Riddle Farm's Corvette ran in that order.

Entries for the first day of the Belmont Park meeting will be closed here tomorrow at 3 P. M.

WHEAT AND POLITICS.

Mr. Coolidge returned from his Northwestern trip in June with the impression that radicalism was waning; that economic and Republican political conditions were good. Senator Butler is known to have high hopes about the party prospects in that region. Now Mr. Frank Kent of The Baltimore Sun, an acute political observer and, originally at least, no friend of Mr. Coolidge's, has looked over the political landscape in Minnesota. He finds that the satisfactory price of wheat "has redeemed the Republican Party in the eyes of the "farmers." Senator Shipstead has lost favor with them. He was sure that Mr. Coolidge's election would send the price of wheat to the demnition bow-wows. So the Farmer-Labor Party of Minnesota is largely a name and a reminiscence. It was an unnatural combination. Labor got out. Now, if Mr. Kent isn't mistaken, the farmers are also leaving. Again fact—or Mr. Coolidge's political luck, if you prefer—has "knocked out" theory.

Yet political conditions can't be regarded as stable in a region where votes depend upon the price of crops; and the Republican Party as guarantor of prosperity, by means of the tariff, may yet have a hard row to hoe in Minnesota.

THE GOVERNOR AND THE MAYOR.

Praise of the style and spirit of Governor Smith's speech in Brooklyn on Thursday night is not necessary. It merely exhibited once more the quality of the man. With it the people of this city are now familiar. Whenever the Governor is called upon to speak his mind on a large public question, they look to him to do it with entire frankness, with force of reasoning and with a grasp of the matter which is revealed in a lucid and orderly presentation. In Brooklyn Governor Smith again showed his ability to stand up before his fellow-citizens and address them freely, with unpremeditated art, out of a full mind and a sincere heart. The immediate triumph which he had with his audience was perhaps largely personal; but his persuasive power over the many thousands who heard him over the radio and the still larger numbers who read the printed reports of his speech was due to his own manly attitude and the appeal of the ideas which he expressed.

He did not return Mayor Hylan's attack in kind. It is true that he made one or two keen thrusts at Mr. Hylan of a sort that may be followed up by destructive blows, if the Mayor ventures to challenge what the Governor said; but, in general, personalities were brushed aside, with either good humor or contempt, and the whole case against the Mayor rested upon unquestioned fact and large public grounds. In short, the Governor based his effective opposition to the Mayor on the charge, supported by evidence, that Mr. Hylan is not competent to administer the great office to which he again aspires. With one overwhelming specification after another, Governor Smith showed what urgent problems of administration had been facing the city, and that the Mayor had merely fumbled or frustrated their solution. It was a severe arraignment, all the more telling because it was made without personal animus and manifestly dictated only by a desire that Greater New York should have a Government more worthy of it.

In all this the city is once more placed under a great obligation to Governor Smith. But for his active influence in the counsels of his party there is little doubt that Mayor Hylan would have had another nomination. From that the Governor has saved us. To him more than to anybody else do we owe it that Mayor Hylan has been balked in his political ambition and will be, unless all present appearances are utterly deceitful, defeated badly in the Democratic primary. And this great service to the community has been performed by the Governor simply in the loyal devotion to the city of one of its sons. He asked with genuine feeling what man had more reason than he to pledge his best to the well-being of New York City. Born and bred here, signally honored here, it is in his mind only an elementary duty of citizenship that he should throw himself into the Mayoralty campaign in order to do all he can to make the future development of this metropolis, with all that this means to the welfare and pride of millions, secure and majestic.

Mayor Hylan and his echoes sneer at Governor Smith as an "outsider" coming down from Albany to dictate to people here how to run the city. But this must fall on deaf ears. The great multitude of inhabitants of New York know "Al" Smith to be bone of their bone and flesh of their flesh. It would be impossible to name any man so conspicuously an "insider" in Greater New York as is Governor Smith. He has a permanent place inside the admiration and the affection of his fellow-citizens in this town.

FLEET COMMAND OF THE AIR.

Those two old friends and fellow-workers, Rear Admiral Sims and Rear Admiral Fullam, have again "doomed" the capital ship. There is not much for its defenders to say except to admit that command of the air should be tantamount to victory, and to argue that, as it takes all kinds of units to make a fighting fleet, the battleship and battle cruiser cannot be dispensed with. In the June number of The Aero Digest Admiral Fullam asked naïvely what would be the result of a battle at sea between six Saratogas (airplane carriers having a speed of thirty-two knots), with deck loads of 450 planes, and eighteen battleships of the present type, with 16-inch guns and a speed of twenty-one knots.

The question answered itself, but he has now brought up his reserves in the person of Admiral Sims. In the September issue of The Aero Digest there is a letter to "My dear Fullam" (publication authorized), beginning: "Even the most hard-boiled of the "battleship men have to acknowledge "that the precious battleships cannot escape at least disablement in "the presence of an air force that "absolutely commands the air over "them." Taking up Admiral Fullam's diagram of the Saratogas and the slow-moving, plane-unattended battleships, he says:

> As the carriers have the greater speed, they will remain entirely out of range of the battleships' guns. The carriers will therefore suffer no damage whatever, while the battle goes on between bombs on one side and anti-aircraft guns on the other. Needless to say, the great battleships could not long survive as fighting units under such conditions.

Admiral Sims guardedly rests his case upon superiority in the air, assuming that the battleships would be accompanied by some aircraft units, but not by enough to offer much resistance to the enemy's concentration of planes. He concludes by saying that "the 'hot air' advocates insist "upon a naval policy of a command "of the air. That cannot be achieved "by spending the bulk of the naval "appropriation in maintaining a fleet "of battleships."

In the same number of The Aero Digest W. R. Chellgard makes "disclosures" about the part played by aircraft in the Hawaiian manoeuvres. Not far from the truth, he says, was the story of a reporter on board a battleship of the Scouting (or Blue) Fleet that the fleet had technically succumbed to aerial bombing. Declaring that the defending aircraft got the best of the war game, Mr. Chellgard declares:

> Admirals of the Blue Fleet made many complimentary remarks, "not for publication," such as: "Our chief "enemy was the bombing and torpedo "planes. As long as they maintained air supremacy we could not "accomplish our mission." And again: "The necessity for air supremacy has been demonstrated."

It is asserted that the air forces of the islands maintained patrols 150 miles from shore until the Blue Fleet was actually in sight, flying more than 10,000 miles, much of the distance out of sight of land; that it established contact early and kept the defending forces informed of the location, dispositions and strength of the Blue Fleet; that an air base which the enemy had constructively established on Molokai was bombed; that the Blue carrier Langley (a slow old tub, by the way) was "constructively" sent to the bottom by Black planes; that scouting Blue planes were "shot down with ease"; that on April 27 "the 'Air' attacked "with seventy-two actual Black "planes and the scouting fleet was "destroyed" (a surprise attack made in rainstorms); and, finally, that an attack on the main Blue Fleet on April 28 was theoretically successful. Major Gerald C. Brandt, the officer commanding the Air Service defending the islands, early in the Summer described the "destruction" of the Blue Scouting Fleet and the "sinking" of the carrier Langley. According to him, the umpires did not make a decision in either case. All the facts about the part that aircraft played in the Hawaiian war games should be published by the War and Navy Departments. It has been already admitted unofficially that "the "manoeuvres showed the need for a "great air development in the fleet." But it does not follow that capital ships will have to be scrapped. Neither the General Board of our navy nor the British Admiralty believes that capital ships as units can be dispensed with.

A LOOKER-ON IN VIENNA.

Senator Capper's European travels must have benefited Europe, but have they benefited him? Has he changed his mind as well as his sky by crossing the Atlantic? Can it be that he has fallen, hard and far, from the faith of the Republican saints, of whom he is one of the most admired, amiable and ingenuous? To a Times correspondent in Vienna he expressed opinions that we can hardly repeat without a shudder and that must depress notably the temperature of Swampscott: "It "seems becoming the general practice "to levy a high tariff in an effort to "protect home industries. There is "no spirit of cooperation. I think "these high tariffs will only serve to "block business generally and upset "the traffic." This is strange doctrine for a Senator who voted for the emergency tariff, described by him as "a kind of embargo erected to keep "out the flood of agricultural products "diverted to us from their usual markets in Europe," and for the non-emergency Fordney-McCumber protector and blocker.

Is high protection a blessing to the United States, a curse to Continental Europe? Should it be reserved only for Americans? Is Europe unworthy of it? Or does Senator Capper, impressed by the evil effects of the tariffs established against one another by the Eastern European States, turn his thoughts to certain Mid-Western and Northwestern American States, where there have been long murmurings against the Republican Elixir of Prosperity? You can almost hear the Home Market Club wail as he deplores "the erection of high tariff walls." Senator Capper has maintained that the steeper the surtax rates, the fatter the revenue they yield. To be consistent, he should maintain that the higher the tariff, the better the business. But no little quibbles of analogy or consistency can be raised in the presence of a heresy and dereliction so enormous. Has Europe corrupted that generous spirit? Has Arthur Capper "come out for free trade"? There will be tears and broken hearts for this; and what will be thought and said about it in "sunny Kansas with her woes and glory"?

TEN THOUSAND YEARS HENCE.

For months past our eyes have been peering into the past to learn more about our earthly origin. British scientists seem to be looking in the other direction. Having accepted evolution some decades ago, they are now more concerned about what we are to evolve into and what sort of earth we may have to live upon. The discussions of the British Association for the Advancement of Science seem to be following Edward Everett Hale's motto—"looking forward and not back"—and, with all their discouragements, looking up and not down. They are the best sports in the world. They face mosquitos and earthquakes alike with the same equanimity that their statesmen have shown in dealing with distressing economic problems. If there has been a "fall of man," they are not discouraged by it. They accept the theory that the earth has been a billion years in the making, but they show a tolerance toward the youngest scientist in their midst.

Their chief interest at the opening session at Southampton seems to have concerned what is going to happen to the earth geologically. Within "measurable time" it is not impossible, it is physically possible, that the areas now occupied by civilization will again be seized by the glaciers whose predecessors left their mark on stones in temperate zones around the world. One of these scientists, a Canadian, has pictured a polar civilization, while the zones in which man has assumed continued progress will be swathed in snow and ice. The reports do not state the basis for the prophecy, but, if it is a sound one, future ages may look back to Peary and Amundsen as we now do to Ericson and Columbus and Cabot and Cartier and Champlain.

While this forward looking was going on in Southampton, in South Africa General Jan Smuts was making like prediction, only he was not so vague in the matter of dates. His "measured time" was 10,000 years. By then, approximately, the European climate would have "altered beyond recognition" by people living in our time. The new ice age is drifting nearer and nearer. This will mean not only that certain torrid wildernesses will pass away, but that "the "present human races will have disappeared" and given place to a higher species. Living, as he does, in that part of the world where there are "living fossils" (Bushmen), remains of a race which disappeared from Europe thousands of years ago, and where there are still living fossils of plants that have gone from all other fields, he has good reason for his faith that there will be still further evolution—that the races now living will some day be but as fossils to men of a bettering breed, whether they live at the Poles or in the latitudes which have bounded mankind's past achievement.

One can but recall General Smuts's words to his fellow-Boers who had vowed to fight to the bitter end: "The end has come, and it is more "bitter than we thought it could be, "but let us bow before the will of "God." That will may "lead to the light of a brighter day." This higher fate is the only thing that can fully justify our having come as far as we have. It remains, as one of the great schoolmasters of England used to say, to "take the bitter and the sweet as "sweet and bitter come and play the "game." And are any of us playing the game better than those Britishers, scientists or statesmen, who, with all their difficulties, insist upon looking forward?

THE COST OF CONVENIENCES.

Employers and employes in the strike of the transfer expressmen are both apparently waiting for the public to take its accustomed punishment. The President of the New York Transfer Company voices a firm belief that the traveling public will soon "tire" of tipping red-caps and taxi drivers. Figures are quoted by one transfer company to show how much more expensive it is to move a heavy piece of luggage by emergency taxi methods than in the old way. If the public does tire, it will not be because of the extra cost but because of the extra trouble. Given a choice between spending a dollar to fetch his trunk in person and paying $1.50 for the privilege of handing over a baggage check and finding the trunk in his apartment, the American citizen will as a rule take the second alternative.

The American citizen must have his conveniences; only he does not think of them as such. What is luxury by the European standard of living is comfort or convenience here. What is comfort or convenience in Europe is necessity here. How many self-respecting Americans out of any group of one hundred on a railroad journey will submit to the procedure abroad? To gather your car luggage about you as the train pulls into the station; to stick your head out of the window and hail the porter or facteur or träger; to shove the baggage at him through the open window; to march on the baggage room for the purpose of personally identifying and claiming the heavier pieces; to attend to their loading on the taxi? In the long run the American way costs more, but it is only one of many things that cost more over here. Marketing by telephone costs more than marketing in person. Having food sent home costs more than carrying it home. Perhaps 20 per cent. of the cost of milk in New York City is the difference between finding the bottle at your door and calling for it at the dairy shop.

The other side of the story is that this national indulgence is by no means always an economic waste. From recognition of the value of the business man's time we are coming to recognize that the time and effort of the woman in the house are also worth something. There are tens of thousands of housewives who can and do put their energies to better use than in lugging market baskets. With them the labor-saving device is just that; it saves labor that can be expended on higher uses. That is economic gain. The loss comes in the case of other tens of thousands who make no advantageous use of the time and effort they save by means of the telephone, the delivery wagon and the transfer check. Here it is a mere case of a fictitious standard of living, of paying high for a convenience that is only a concession to laziness or to the appetite for display. It is this demand for "conveniences" which are really luxuries that makes Americans the frequent victims of those who minister to their demands.

IMMIGRANTS AND TOURISTS.

The ruling of the Department of Labor that Canadians returning to their country via New York in third class need not pass through Ellis Island seems sensible. Surprise has been expressed that this has not always been the procedure. Certainly Canadians returning home are in no sense immigrants to the United States. The same is true of tourists coming here for a few months' visit. And yet these, with the exception of the British, if they travel third class, are treated like immigrants and are obliged to pass through Ellis Island. Under the new experimental procedure British travelers may have their passports O. K.'d in Britain before sailing. All other third-class tourists, of whom there are now large numbers, must be examined at Ellis Island as if they were immigrants, whereas, owing to the peculiarities of the department's rulings, immigrants traveling second or first class do not need to go to the island.

This topsy-turvy arrangement calls attention again to the advisability of adopting the suggestion put forward six weeks ago by Commissioner Curran that the division between the classes of aliens that do and do not have to land at Ellis Island be made according as they come to this country to stay or to make a temporary visit. At present, with the exceptions above noted, the division is made on the basis of the fare paid. Passengers traveling first and second class, whether immigrants or tourists, can land at the pier. Those traveling third class, even though coming here only for a few weeks, must be put through the examination at Ellis Island, which has as its object testing the physical fitness of persons coming here to live permanently.

That the division of tourists and immigrants is undemocratic goes without saying. What is much more to the point, it is impolitic. Foreign tourists traveling third class are much the same sort of persons as the American students and teachers who have availed themselves this year of the special accommodations for short trips to Europe. Very often they include persons of standing and influence in their local communities abroad, who are deeply offended at being treated like immigrants, and form a bad opinion of the United States and American methods immediately upon arrival. Why put such persons, whose stay is only temporary, to the needless inconvenience of a searching examination such as is right and proper for immigrants intending to become American citizens? By the same reasoning, why should immigrants who are able to buy second or first class tickets be permitted to escape the examinations at Ellis Island for no other reason than that they are not traveling third class?

There is a logical distinction between tourists and immigrants. Certainly no one who has the interest of the United States at heart will object to delaying a man or woman a few hours at Ellis Island who expects to live here permanently. But there should be no preferential treatment for immigrants based on their financial status. Nor should tourists, no matter in what class they travel, be subjected to a drastic examination and be caused the inconvenience and delay of going to Ellis Island. By issuing a new ruling to make this distinction between immigrant and tourist the department would help to eliminate justifiable criticism of our administrative methods.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Changes in "the Trade."

There is deep mourning in the liquor warehouses of Front Street, Hamilton, the capital of Bermuda, and perplexity among the legislators who sit on Parliament Hill and make up the island colony's financial budget. For Bermuda, in the words of one of her newspapers, faces a "grim, unpleasant fact." The golden tide that flowed across the barrier reef has receded; Bermuda has ceased to be a supply station for Rum Row.

The grim fact as related in a speech from the throne of the Colonial Parliament is that the revenue for the six months ended June 30, 1925, was £122,640, compared with £179,155 for the corresponding period last year. This decrease of more than 31 per cent. is laid chiefly to the falling off in receipts from the liquor export tax. Thus Bermuda officially recognizes the decline of an unsavory trade that augmented the Treasury to a point never before attained, and now her budget makers must practice economy all along the line.

History is merely repeating itself. Nassau was swept by the flood of rum and dollars only to be left high and dry, while the roistering buccaneers of Bimini left nothing but stagnation behind them. Of the island caches, French St. Pierre, that bare rock among the icebergs, remains to report the return of vessels unable to dispose of their cargoes. The trade has changed. New methods have been adopted and new bases established, among them dry Halifax, which now reaps the harvest that the islands formerly garnered. Meanwhile Rum Row is silent. If the game has not been killed, at least the Dry Navy has made it more hazardous.

An Old Frontier War Flares Up.

If history does not repeat itself, it has at least a tendency to show that men always react to given conditions in much the same way. The war between the cattle men and the sheep men in the West became history with the passing of the open range. Seldom, indeed, during the last decade or two have we heard of cattle men unceremoniously "shooting up" sheep men. To be sure, the cowboy still looks down upon the sheep herder as a social outcast. But the occasional quarrels have been settled without resort to direct action.

Now, however, at the hearings of the Senate subcommittee studying the question of ranges in the national forests, the old warfare has flared up. There has been no gun play, but the charges that in the past led to violence have been laid before the committee by angry men. According to the cattle growers, the sheep men are ruining the last of the range. How can a man expect to run his cows on the public lands when the sheep get there first and pull the grass up by the roots, using their hoofs to cut what is left? To which the sheep men angrily retort that they cannot keep their sheep alive if the cattle men bamboozle the Government into forcing the sheep off the ranges.

Cattle and sheep men thus disputed fifty years ago. With no government to interfere the cattle men usually won. It is not for mere Easterners to express opinions on such an exclusively frontier controversy. Sheep are close croppers, and no doubt have injured many a range. But is this not all the more reason for exercising supervision over the remaining grazing lands with a particular view to preventing the unnecessary denudation of the pastures in the forests?

Not Always the Starry Heavens.

Yesterday's London dispatch in The Times about the absent-minded British scientist was no doubt completely faithful to the facts, but it erred in two of its implications. Because the learned Briton at Southampton walked for half an hour in the rain, followed by a party of savants who assumed that he knew where he was going, when, as a matter of fact, he was only thinking, it does not follow, as the dispatch asserts, that "scientists are still absent-minded." Some scientists and theologians and philologists undoubtedly are, but the ratio is probably much smaller than it used to be.

The modern professor is too busy for profound meditation. What with his regular work, his Summer session courses, his address before the Woman's Afternoon Club, his talk over the radio, his appointment with the reporters, his article for the next number of The Hydrographic Quarterly, his coaching duties with the soccer team, and not improbably his duties in the kitchen after dinner, the average professor has very little time to be absent-minded. On the contrary, if one were asked to cite the highest example of clear purpose and well-directed energy it would be a college professor engaged in making a living.

The second doubt arises in connection with the correspondent's assumption that the absent-minded scientist who got lost in the rain was meditating on the age of the earth or "some other equally profound subject." That does not necessarily follow. Gone are the times when professors were exclusively engaged in meditation on billions of geologic years, or the measureless spaces of the Milky Way, or the use of the infinitive in Dryden, or the general whyness of what. The modern professor who loses himself to the world is as likely as not to be engaged in plumbing the truth about garbage incineration in twenty-five American cities of the second class, or a new cheese-making formula, or the average annual earnings among the ladies' wrapper workers of Chicago and Philadelphia. A professor need not be in touch with the infinities in order that he may put on his vest in the morning and then summon his wife to help him find it.

Voyage of the Farhlannet.

Memories of the Fram, that stout little ship in which Amundsen navigated the Northwest Passage, are stirred on reading about the voyage of the twelve-ton yawl Farhlannet from Droennoey, Norway, to New York. The crew of three resembled the company that Amundsen likes to gather around him—sturdy, silent, patient, hard-working Norsemen, with a heart for any fate, fearing nothing, enduring everything. No need to tell them, as MacMillan warned his men, not to give one another the story of their lives, lest boredom come. These Norwegians have their long periods of silence in which the glance of an eye or the movement of a hand takes the place of expression.

In a voyage of 3,500 miles, the ketch-rigged little ship sailed for seventy-three days. She encountered heavy weather. Sometimes an anchor had to be thrown out to weather a blow. The larder was well supplied with plain food. A spare sail was used to catch drinking water when it ran short. There was plenty of rain.

These seasoned Norwegians were content with any weather, nor did they murmur at hardships. Was not their goal when the voyage ended the Norwegian centennial celebration in Minnesota? What an approach to it for them, who loved adventure! A very remarkable performance, this long voyage of a twelve-ton yawl. But perhaps it was not so difficult and hazardous as that of the Nina of Columbus.

"Moral Obligation" Repudiated.

The "weighty moral obligation" recognized by our Foreign Debt Commission with respect to pre-armistice borrowings of Belgium involves a pernicious doctrine which it is to be hoped the Senate will promptly repudiate.

It is, in effect, that the word of the President in the negotiation of a treaty with a foreign power shall be "morally" binding—not legally binding—upon our Government, in spite of the clear constitutional provision empowering the Senate finally to reject or advise and consent to any such arrangement, in its sole wisdom.

If the Senate is "morally" bound to agree to the waiving of interest on the pre-armistice borrowings by Belgium from our Government because President Wilson agreed that a German obligation should be accepted in its place, the whole principle of Senatorial check upon Presidential adventures abroad vanishes, and our President becomes supreme in foreign affairs. Honorable men discharge their moral obligations even more punctiliously than their legal ones.

Presses Library's Needs.

The time has come when the people should realize the importance of the Public Library in our modern life—should appreciate the need this worthy institution fills.

It seems hardly believable that an honest appeal for a larger appropriation to carry the library organization on a sound and good business basis should be ignored or neglected, but this has been done in the past. Let us not make a mistake by showing neglect when we can be of help.

We must not let this matter drop. Surely we have sense enough to realize that without our libraries and the efficient help of the trained library workers mental stagnation would result for many of our citizens.

The salaries received by librarians are ridiculously low, and it seems to me that they have been martyrs to their profession long enough.

Library's Need of Funds.

They say "A word to the wise is sufficient." We might wonder now if this can be true when you reflect on the urgent need of the New York Public Library today and the half-hearted response the staff is receiving.

The library has done much more for the people in education than can be realized through casual thinking.

Surely our City Government should support any movement or plea that would help to form good citizens, and an immediate response to that appeal made by the New York Public Library will help the city in the educating of its adult citizens, as well as training the minds of the children who now "storm the doors" of the library seeking book knowledge.

Let us appeal for a higher appropriation to increase the salaries of the librarians.

A Breeding Spot for Mosquitos.

We appreciate the truth of your article, "Much Worse Than a Nuisance."

On Morgan Avenue, between Waring and Mace Avenues, the Bronx, lies a body of stagnant water (formerly a running creek), giving forth a stench and obviously breeding mosquitos and vermin for the last three years. It ought to have been drained, filled or ditched by the health authorities, as a menace to health and a breeder of typhoid. This has been called to their attention without result.

The owners of properties in sparsely settled localities can help eliminate the mosquito by cutting the weeds and mowing the lawn, if necessary, over ground other than their own and in unoccupied places adjacent to their own.

The mosquito evil has never been as bad in our locality nor as ferocious as this year.

BOLSHEVISM IN THIS COUNTRY.

Its Tenets, Constituency, Leaders, Finances, Strength and Tactics in the United States.

By BENJAMIN STOLBERG.

There is no end of literature on the spread of Bolshevism in this country. Most of it is as ephemeral as it is worthless. But both the Bolshephobes and the Bolsheviki agree in one essential. This is that communism in the United States is growing in significance and strength.

The exact opposite is true. The Communist movement in this country is losing daily in significance and strength. It is true that in the last three years it has increased its membership by about 35 per cent. and almost doubled its organizational structure and financial power. But at the beginning of this year it reached its saturation point. Its factional struggles about issues irrelevant to our situation have disclosed its absurdity in our environment.

As a matter of fact the Communists are organized very sharply into an open political party, whose secretiveness lies mainly in its quaint Bolshevist jargon. Its name is the Workers' Party. The first tenet of the Workers' Party is that everybody not a member and that every movement but itself is "counter-revolutionary"; and all traffic with "counter-revolutionaries" is strictly interdicted by the Communist International. The Communists do not believe in educating the middle class, but in abolishing it. And the means for its abolition is the labor movement. Accordingly their first "step" is to "capture" the labor movement from its present leaders. To look for organized communism outside the labor movement is futile.

The Workers' Party claims a membership of over 20,000. But its actual and dues-paying membership is 16,200. In 1922, soon after it was reorganized from an "underground revolutionary party" into an open political organization, it had somewhat less than 12,000. In 1923 its membership grew to about 13,000. Even now most of its members are foreign-tongued, and the party is organized on the basis of language federations. At this moment the party is trying to reorganize on the more indigenous basis of industrial and "shop nuclei," mainly to acquire a more American complexion.

The party has seventeen language federations. By far the largest grouping are the Finns, whose excellent and well-to-do cooperatives have joined the party practically in a body. The Finnish membership is almost 6,500. Their affiliation is more sentimental than "scientifically revolutionary." The next largest group are the Russian Jews in the needle trades. These number just about 2,000. But they exercise a disproportionately strong influence on the Jewish workers. Most of them were members of the Socialist Party, and when the Communists split from it in 1919 they went with the Communists; their sympathies were naturally with the Russian revolution. Next come the South Slavic, the Lithuanian, Russian and English-speaking federations, with a membership of about 1,000 each. The other groupings, with a membership from 500 down to 80 in the order of their size, are the Ukrainians, Czechoslovaks, Letts, Italians, Germans, Hungarians, Poles, Scandinavians, Greeks, Rumanians and Esthonians.

The constitution of the party gives all final power to the Central Executive Committee of thirteen members. These in turn are avowedly under the iron "discipline" of the Communist International. They are proud of their "Jesuitical" organization. One of their poets sings in their official monthly:

> As ruthless and as bitter in the fray
> As any plotting Jesuit ever was. . .
> . . . We are a band
> Of Zealots stirring up the inert mass
> Dogmatic, narrow, trumpeting the land,
> And knowing but one class—the working > class!

The comic thing about this attitude is that they do not really know our working class. Their "genius for doing the wrong thing" has been due mainly to the fact that Zinoviev personally, who knows absolutely nothing about our labor movement, has been the final arbiter of the party's tactics since 1922, and especially since Lenin's death. Since 1922 the Communist International has had a resident agent with the Workers' Party, whose word is law. Throughout 1922 and during the first half of 1923 this agent was Joseph Pogany, who called himself John Pepper. Pogany had been a Cabinet member in Bela Kun's short-lived Hungarian Government. Pogany behaved completely like a wild man. He was under the delusion of grandeur that he was another Lenin and his writings curiously reflect this delusion. He almost ruined the party with hair-splitting "Leninist interpretations" of American life and introduced violent schisms. Finally William Z. Foster, the National Chairman of the party, pilgrimaged to Moscow and begged Zinoviev to relieve the American Bolsheviki of the Pogany lunacy. Pogany was recalled in the midsummer of 1923. For almost one year, until June, 1924, there was an interregnum, with Alexander Bittelman, a Russian engineer who had been in our Jewish labor movement for several years, as sort of official observer for the Comintern. This last June, however, the Communist International sent over another resident agent, who acts as the Chairman of the Parity Committee, which had to be established "to liquidate" the factional rows precipitated by Pogany. His name is M. Grusev, Americanized into Green.

There is, of course, a great deal of speculation about the extent to which the Workers' Party is not merely controlled but also subsidized by Moscow. Since this financial connection is necessarily less accessible than the political connection, it gives rise to the wildest speculations. A former Department of Justice agent, who lost his job when Mr. Stone was cleaning up the department after Mr. Daugherty, writes as follows: The Communists are "developing a secret intelligence service," for which "it is reported (sic) * * * that the Communist International appropriated $100,000,000 * * * the bulk of which is to be expended in the United States."

In the first place, the Communists do not need a "secret intelligence service" to learn all there is to know about the inner tactics, problems and perplexities of American labor. This writer doubts whether anybody in this country knows about the daily doings of our trade union politics as much as William Z. Foster. To know American labor one need not be a spy: merely alert. It is true, however, that the Communist International does supplement the American income of the Workers' Party. Right or wrong, the Communists justify this partial subsidy on the grounds that the international radical and labor movements have been engaging in mutual aid for three-quarters of a century.

The bulk of the income of the Workers' Party comes from its supporters right here. They undoubtedly give and give and give again until it hurts. The annual membership dues are $6. In the form of assessments, collections and gifts of all kinds, the average member contributes $12 a year—over and above his support of the party press. This gave the party during the last fiscal year $195,000. Of the dues, one-third went to the national organization, which makes $33,000. Of the rest of this income the national organization received about one-half—approximately $47,000. The income of the national office then, raised in this country, was about $80,000. The expenditures of the national office during the same period were $180,000. This deficit was made up by the Communist International.

The party maintains twenty-three newspapers—daily, semi-weekly and weekly—which reach a combined reading public of 2,400,000. It has an English, Russian, a German, a Yiddish, a Lithuanian, a Ukrainian and three Finnish dailies. All these papers are supported almost entirely by their readers, organized into cooperatives for this purpose. The Freiheit, the Yiddish Communist daily, raised during 1924 $140,000. Whenever some new equipment is needed, it is raised in the immediate membership. Some of it is raised at the larger meetings. Not very long ago the New York City branch of the party staged a concert at Carnegie Hall, at which $6,000 was raised. Every meeting is used to raise money. The party press in round numbers costs about $750,000. This sum is almost entirely raised in this country. The press, of course, earns only part of its expenses. It costs the average member from $15 to $20 annually.

This writer knows definitely only of the sum of approximately $100,000 which Moscow contributed to the Workers' Party during the last fiscal year and of the $25,000 which it gave to The Daily Worker. There is no doubt that during the formative "underground" years of the Communist movement—from 1919 to 1921—some Russian money was used to consolidate the different revolutionary factions into the present Workers' Party. In 1921 Foster founded the Trade Union Educational League and its official organ, The Labor Herald, which had a large and mostly unpaid-for circulation. Rather careful but indirect accounting enables one to estimate the probable subvention of the Communist movement in this country by the Communist International from 1919 to 1924 at about $200,000, which might be raised to $250,000 if we include the many trips to Moscow taken by the American Communist leaders, often to settle very minor issues of policy.

PROFESSIONAL POLITICIANS.

Smith, Walker and Roosevelt Cited as Giving Term New Meaning.

The letter of Mr. Louis C. Tetard is a commendable reaction to your editorials on the local political canvass.

The term "professional politician" may not fairly be ascribed to Governor Smith, or to Senator Walker, nor indeed to Mr. Waterman if that term is meant to connote the making of professional fortunes. Certainly Mr. Waterman rested his pen long enough to wrest with shovels, a distinct contribution and an achievement.

We must rescue the term "politician." Too long it has meant the tilted hat and the half-smoked cigar. Theodore Roosevelt persistently urged his fellows to cultivate politics, not for their own fortunes but for their country's good. The American citizen who is not, in this higher sense, a politician, is not a patriot.

By common consent, Governor Smith has maintained this high level of ideal in public service. When he vetoed recently the Rocca Teachers' Pay bill, a measure affecting nearly 30,000 men and women, and sent the teachers back to the Board of Estimate and to their Board of Education, bodies that should long ago have acted in the matter, he placed the onus squarely where it belongs, and he suffered not at all in the estimate of any teacher fit to train children how to think, or fitted to think properly along economic and civic lines.

Governor Smith approved the nomination of Senator Walker, and on the Senator's record of work in public service. If experience in framing legislation urgently needed in local affairs, or even the ordinary run of experience in public affairs, is to decide Mr. Tetard and me and countless others, may it not appear prudent in Mr. Waterman's heart of hearts for him to believe, if not to say, as he would if he were hiring an executive in his business: This candidate has a clean personality, a long experience in the things closely pertinent to the Mayoralty and an intimate knowledge of the game of practical political business, an asset vitally necessary to the otherwise unwary? And then might we not fairly expect him to say to Mr. Walker: All right; go to it, and watch your step?

MADISON SQUARE REMEMBERS DIANA.

Yes, something lacks to us who used to see
The young Diana
Bend her shining bow . . .
There was a loveliness
We used to know
If we would but look over tower and tree—
Did that clean arrow of her archery
Kill some of human baseness
There below?
Ah, who of us can say?
But we who go
Lift wistful eyes to where she used to be!

As when the scent
Of some rare perfume goes,
Or when, in piercing poignance,
melodies
Are hushed forever,
Came, at last, the close
Of her sweet sovereignty above the trees . . .
Something . . . unnamed and lovely
. . . went away!

Southampton.

With a cast composed entirely of local talent, the Southampton amateur musical revue, "Cheer-ee-o," will be produced this afternoon and evening at the Parish Hall for the benefit of the Southampton Hospital. The final dress rehearsal was held last evening and everything was pronounced in readiness for the rise of the curtain.

It will be a musical revue, including specialty acts, chorus numbers and a spectacular Arabian Nights pageant of ancient Bagdad. A flapper dance, a golf dance, a Raggedy Ann dance and other numbers will provide the twentieth-century touch, and it has been promised that "Cheer-ee-o" will move with all the speed and sprightliness of a Broadway revue.

The production has served to overshadow all other events in Southampton for the past week, and the rehearsals have caused a decided lull in entertaining. There will be several dinner parties, however, to precede the evening performance, the largest being that to be given by Mr. and Mrs. John D. Wing in honor of their daughter, Miss Bessie Morgan Belmont. Others who will entertain in Southampton tonight include Mrs. Reginald Fincke and Mrs. Delancey Nicoll Jr.

East Hampton has many dinner parties scheduled for this evening and many of the guests expect to motor to Southampton for "Cheer-ee-o." Among those entertaining at the Maidstone Club are Mrs. E. De Forest Simmons, Mrs. Hugh C. Pierce, Mrs. J. T. Snyder, Mrs. Charles Carscallen and Mrs. James L. Blackwell.

A delightful entertainment of old English and French plays was given last evening by the Jitney Players, under the direction of Bushnell Cheney, on the grounds of the H. S. Rogers estate on Gin Lane. Four hundred guests were present to witness the performance, and many remained for informal dancing, which followed.

A still larger audience is expected for the same show this evening, when it appears at East Hampton on the lawn of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Appleton's beautiful estate on the ocean front, adjoining the Maidstone Club links. Six hundred East Hampton residents will attend tonight's performance, which will be under the auspices of St. Luke's Episcopal Church of East Hampton.

Many members of the younger set attended the dance given last night by Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Hamlin of East Hampton in honor of the birthday of their daughter, Miss Judith Hamlin. Every since their daughter was a baby Mr. and Mrs. Hamlin have given an entertainment on her birthday. Two hundred guests were present at last night's affair. Preceding the dance Miss Hamlin was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Graves, who gave a dinner for thirty-five guests in her honor at the Maidstone Club.

Mrs. Jack Devereaux will be hostess to a large group of her friends at luncheon tomorrow on the porch of the Summer home of her father, John Drew.

An exhibition of paintings by prominent Southampton women will be opened this afternoon in the Memorial Hall on Herrick Road. Among those whose work will be displayed are Miss Zella Demilhau, Miss Rachel Hartley, Miss Georgianna Howland, Mrs. W. S. Hoyt, Miss Beatrix Hoyt, Mrs. Lawrence M. Miller, Mrs. Robert S. Peabody, Mrs. Theron R. Strong and Mrs. Newell Tilton. Paintings by Henry May Jr. and Richard Newton Jr. will also be exhibited. The exhibition will remain open for a week.

Mrs. Frederick L. Van Lennep and her daughter, Mrs. Charles R. Higgins, will be hostesses tomorrow afternoon at a tea, musicale and reception at the Meadow Club. The entertainment will be in honor of Mrs. Van Lennep's niece, Miss Alice Trumbull, who has recently come from Santiago, Chile. Another niece, Mrs. Alice Atwater, will entertain the 200 guests with a group of solos.

BARNARD TO MAKE CANCER VIRUS FILM

Master of Rugby Says They Are Less Objectionable Than Vulgar Plays.

LONDON, Aug. 28.—After discussing 150 problems with due scientific solemnity—some of them at the eighty section meetings held today—the learned scientists attending the annual meeting of the British Association at Southampton have been unable to agree on the 151st problem—to smoke or not to smoke. In the agricultural section of the meeting, whenever a speech begins, the men in the audience pull out their pipes, and others, including women, puff cigarettes to aid them in assimilating the erudite ideas of the speaker. But if the smokers stray to sections where authorities on economics and other branches are speaking they are confronted with the peremptory order, "No smoking," hence expressions of anger among the smokers.

The speeches today included a defense of bar-rooms as best for youths, compared with indecent plays, a demand that bachelors be "taxed fiercely," and a statement that weather forecasting has greatly improved recently.

Dr. J. E. Barnard, whose recent announcement that he had segregated the cancer germ caused a world-wide sensation, told the members of the association today that he soon hoped to be able to prepare a cinema film showing the life cycle of small organisms, such as the cancer virus, with the virus passing through a filter. He said:

"They are such extremely small bodies that they pass through any known porcelain filter or membrane impervious to any ordinary medium. Work in the direction of standardizing a filter is progressing, and during the last few months we have been able to see bodies less than one-third the size of those we have previously been able to see with the best available microscopes. We hope the work on which we are now engaged will make it possible to prepare a cinema film of these small organisms. Already we are able to photograph these viruses magnified 3,000 diameters in one-tenth of a second and to make a series of such photographs in succession.

"Later on," Dr. Barnard said, "we hope to be able to photograph bodies one-twentieth of a micron, which is equivalent to one five-hundred-thousandth of an inch. At present we photograph down to one-two-hundred-and-fifty-thousandth of an inch; and even now we could make a motion picture of an organism, such as the anthrax bacillus, one-hundred-thousandth of an inch in diameter. The probable development, in the near future, will be the use of a microscope working in a vacuum, and details of such an instrument are now being worked out by the National Institute of Medical Research. The instrument I have in mind will enable us to work with rays smaller even than the ultra-violet rays."

The color of tomcats received a fair share of the attention of the learned scientists of the British Association, and long reports were read on experiments in the inheritance of fur color in cats, but more amusing was a revelation that some one has perpetrated a huge cat joke on England. The Zoological Garden directors, secretaries of cat clubs and museum curators reported that they had been receiving letters from all parts of the world, and in every language, stating that the writers have in their possession a tomcat with three colors. The writers are claiming a very large reward, which they understand is being offered in London for such a treasure.

How the story got broadcast throughout the world remains a mystery, but it may be based on the rarity of tortoise-shell, black and yellow toms. Some cat experts, it was said, had gone so far as to conduct complicated breeding experiments in an effort to produce a three-colored tomcat.

LONDON, Aug. 28.—Attempting to swim the English Channel is becoming such a popular form of outdoor sport that the newspapers now discuss "Channel swim modes."

Hence, when Setsu Nishimura, the Japanese swimmer, started from Dover today on his attempt to swim the channel attired in an ordinary swimming suit and a dress reaching to his knees, there was much comment.

Nishimura intended to make it a real Japanese victory, for the Japanese flag was hoisted on the vessel accompanying him.

Whether the ankle-length dress proved too much for him was unknown, but in any event he gave up his attempt after covering two miles in one and three-quarter hours.

BOULOGNE, Aug. 28 (AP).—Miss Gertrude Ederle, the young American swimming champion, now favors Monday for her second try at swimming across the English Channel, provided that weather conditions are sufficiently good. From tomorrow on she will do only light training work.

Lillian Harrison, Argentine star, has decided to wait until Sept. 15, feeling sure she will have an opportunity by that date.

Mrs. Hoppe said yesterday that this was erroneous and that she has the children at her father's home, 141 West Ninety-fifth Street.

DARROW REPLIES TO OHIO JURIST

Says Judge Marshall Failed to Read Caption of Tennessee Law.

Special to The New York Times.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 28.—Being held up as a horrible example is a little thing in the life of Clarence Darrow, he said today. He stopped two hours in Kansas City en route from Girard, Kan., to Chicago. He has been visiting E. Haldeman-Julius, Girard publisher, who may publish some of Mr. Darrow's works, he said.

"Judge Marshall would have done well to read at least the caption of the Tennessee law, before basing a speech on it," said Mr. Darrow, referring to a statement by the Chief Justice of Ohio.

"The caption of the law reads, 'An act to prevent the teaching of evolution in public schools.' I am sure the Chief Justice would be the last to say the caption is not part of a statute. "The body of the act, which I am surprised Judge Marshall has not read, declared it unlawful to teach a doctrine of the origin of man contrary to the Bible, and which declared he originated from a lower form of life. If that did not mean evolution, then the law is unconstitutional because it contradicts itself, having evolution in its caption."

Mr. Darrow reread the words of the Justice closely and smiled. "Ethics? This case now is appealed to the Supreme Court of Tennessee," he continued. "What about the ethics of the Chief Justice of another State giving his opinion on the case when he obviously knows nothing about it? He says there was no discussion of evolution provoked. Well, the law said, 'contrary to the Bible,' but did not say what the Bible taught. Now, most Bible scholars hold that the first two chapters of Genesis are allegorical, so it was competent to show by experts what the story of Genesis means.

"All of the lawyers for the defense agreed that expert testimony on the theory of evolution and the story of Genesis was competent. It should be assumed that lawyers who had studied the case deeply, including several readings of the law, were justified in raising the questions they did. Few cases are presented to the court where lawyers on both sides agree. I presume that Judge Marshall knows that. As for saying that courts are cockpits, I never said that.

"I have said many times what eminent lawyers often have said," Mr. Darrow concluded, "that courts should have facilities to investigate both law and facts, instead of depending entirely on lawyers, which makes courts largely an arena for fighting over evidence and law."

WORKERS DENOUNCE CONNECTICUT FILM TAX

Mayor Fitzgerald Tells New Haven Movie Employes the Levy Is Un-American.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 28 (AP).—An open-air mass meeting of employes of movie picture theatres was held in front of the building from which the film exchanges are moving, this noon, as a protest against enforcement of the film tax law.

Mayor Fitzgerald, one of several speakers, said there was a surplus of more than $1,000,000 in the State treasury and he could see no reason for the Legislature passing the law as a revenue measure. Unless a full accounting of the expenditure of money received was given, the Mayor said, such taxation was wholly un-American.

John J. Spain, Deputy Tax Commissioner, said today that because distributers had failed to register films at his office this week it would be necessary to postpone requirements for registration until after next week's films are used.

Distributing companies continued today to remove their films from local offices. It is estimated that with the closing of the exchanges here 517 persons will be thrown out of employment within a few days.

Hartford, Aug. 28.—Final arrangements for the payment to the State of the tax on motion picture films by the distributers were made today at a conference in New Haven between Tax Commissioner William H. Blodgett and representatives of the motion picture industry. Agreements were also entered into by which theatre owners of the State will reimburse the distributers for all tax payments on films.

No increases in prices of theatre admissions are expected by theatre owners because of the agreement. The new arrangement is also expected to allow continued performances in all theatres, at least during the life of present film delivery contracts with the producing companies.

Under the agreement, Tax Commissioner Blodgett said after the conference, the distributers will pay the tax on all films which have been shown in the State up to the present since the law went into effect on July 8, as soon as the amounts can be determined from reports of operators, and a check-up to be made by Special Agent John J. Splain.

LADY CHANNING DIES; WED AMERICAN PEER

LONDON, Aug. 28.—Lady Channing, wife of Lord Channing of Wellingborough and daughter of Henry Bryant of Boston, Mass., died today at Eton Place, the home of Lord Channing. Funeral services will be held in St. Mary's Church, Torquay, on Monday afternoon.

Lord Channing was born in America in 1841 and married Miss Elizabeth Bryant in 1869.

Lady Channing was the wife of one of the few American members of the English peerage. Her husband, Francis Allston Channing, who was created a baronet in 1906, was elevated by George V in 1912 to the rank of a peer. He had been a member of Parliament from East Northamptonshire for twenty-five years, from 1885 to 1910.

Lord Channing, like his wife, was a Bostonian. He was a son of the Rev. William Henry Channing, an eminent Unitarian clergyman, only less celebrated than his uncle, Dr. William Ellery Channing. His father succeeded James Martineau as minister of the Hope Street Unitarian Church in Liverpool, England; returned to the United States during the Civil War to take charge of the Unitarian Church in Washington, but later went back to England and died there in 1884. His daughter became the wife of Edwin Arnold, the poet.

Lord Channing is indebted for his title to the services which he rendered in and out of the House of Commons in promoting agricultural, educational and labor reforms. He stood high in favor with Gladstone. At the time of Lord Salisbury's cession of Helgoland to Germany, he published a letter in The London Times bitterly assailing the surrender and predicting that the Kaiser would convert the island into a North Sea Gibraltar. His writings include "Instinct," "The Greek Orators as Historical Authorities" and "The Truth about Agricultural Depression." In addition to her husband, Lady Channing is survived by two daughters.

BANCROFT BURIED IN GALESBURG GRAVE

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—Edgar A. Bancroft, who died at his post in Tokio as Ambassador to Japan, was buried today beside his wife and his parents in Hope Cemetery at Galesburg, Ill. The funeral party, which accompanied the body from the Fourth Presbyterian Church here, reached Galesburg at 2:15 P. M. Services had been arranged in the Congregational Church, where the Rev. Charles McKinley, pastor and fellow member with Mr. Bancroft on the Knox College Board of Trustees, officiated. As at the Chicago service of Thursday, simplicity prevailed at the home ceremony. Old friends and neighbors crowded the little church to do him honor.

By proclamation of Mayor Mureen, business houses closed during the hour of the funeral, flags on city and county buildings were flown at half staff.

Bells in the towers of Old Main Hall, at Knox College, tolled through the service at the church; then, as the funeral cortège wound past the elm-shaded campus on its way to Hope Cemetery, the procession paused for one minute at the college gate.

Mr. Bancroft was graduated with the class of 1878. He later served his alma mater as trustee, and was one of the most distinguished of the college's many famous alumni.

The departure of the body from Chicago was simple and unostentatious. Following the simple funeral service at the Fourth Presbyterian Church, attended by representatives of President Coolidge and the Japanese Emperor, the body of the Ambassador remained at the church over night, watched by a guard of four noncommissioned soldiers from Fort Winfield Scott. At 10 A. M., borne in a black hearse, the casket was taken to the Union Station and placed aboard a train.

Military and naval representatives of both the Japanese and United States Governments who accompanied the body on its long journey from Tokio continued on to Galesburg, accompanying the relatives and friends.

The profusion of floral offerings with which the Fourth Church was banked was removed early and conveyed to the train before the body. An entire baggage car was required to transport them.

YALE SEEKS OLD MEMORIAL.

Plans Taking Over Colony Historical Building as Quadrangle Site.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 28.—Yale University will take over the site and building of the old New Haven Colony Historical Society if negotiations now being carried on with the directors of the society are successful.

The building, which is located on the site purchased in 1638 by Theophilus Eaton and John Davenport, is valued at $250,000, but will be torn down by the university authorities to make room for what is proposed as the Vanderbilt Quadrangle. The new building will front on Grove Street and will be the gift of Frederick W. Vanderbilt of New York City.

The New Haven Colony Historical Society Building, the most historical in the city, was erected as a memorial to his father, Senator James E. English, by Henry F. English.

Many conferences have been held between Judge John L. Gilson, President of the society, and the authorities of the university. Mr. English's objection to having the memorial to his father removed is holding up negotiations, but it is expected he will give his consent soon.

IMPROVING THE RACE

"When were the problems of the human plant fraught with a greater interest and significance than today?" was the question asked of a recent visitor by Luther Burbank, in his Santa Rosa, California, home. Mr. Burbank believes that the principles of selection and cross-combination that he follows in producing new and superb blossoms would work great improvement in the human race. Olin Downes tells how he found the plant wizard engaged and describes the environment in which he works and studies.

$50,000 IS VOTED TO FIX BRIDGE SITE

MANY ORAL COMBATS

Hylan, Connolly, Miller, Senator Walsh and Others Enliven the Session.

The Board of Estimate voted an appropriation of $50,000 yesterday to determine the site of a new bridge or tunnel linking Manhattan and Queens at one of the wordiest and liveliest meetings in its history.

There were times when all the members were talking at once. There were snatches when only the Mayor was speaking. In between the times and the snatches delegations from Queens and from Staten Island were vociferous. Through it all the head of the lone policeman assigned to the board's chamber swiveled like a horizontal windmill as its owner sought to fasten an admonishing eye on the excited ones.

Maurice E. Connolly, Borough President of Queens, and Julius Miller, Borough President of Manhattan, pro and anti-Hylan, respectively, carried the bitterness of the primary campaign into the board meeting. They exchanged amenities on how a gentleman should talk, among other things. Mayor Hylan attacked and consoled State Senator Thomas Walsh of Staten Island as a traction controlled person. The Senator indignantly denied the attack and cynically rejected the consolation.

Queens Delegation Starts It.

The program began when several hundred citizens from Queens demanded a reduction on the assessment for the acquisition of land for the Anawanda Park site in Ridgewood. James B. Emerick, Assistant Corporation Counsel and head of the Ridgewood Community Council, led the agitation to reduce the assessment to a basis of 20 per cent. charge on the residents and a 40 per cent. charge on the city and borough. Much opposition developed.

"Just because we have a little mixup in the party," said Mr. Connolly, soothingly, "there is no reason why we should drag our politics into this meeting and permit it to interfere with the city's business."

Mr. Connolly looked about pacifically. Deputy Controller Frank J. Prial remarked:

The Queens Borough President looked in a pained way at Prial. The Mayor reached for his gavel. The crowd tittered.

The delegation from Queens developed excitement as the debate went on. The lone policeman sought to still them. The men shouted, the women talked shrilly and several babies cried just to make it unanimous. A group from Staten Island, there to talk about a bus route, caught the spirit of the occasion and they became orally active also. Borough President Miller, Mr. Prial and Aldermanic President William T. Collins told the Queens residents that they could not have a public hearing on the matter just then. The question of the assessment went to a vote and the Tammany members of the board defeated it.

The Richmond delegation's proposal for a public hearing on their bus route came up. It was to grant the Tompkins Bus Company a franchise for one year to operate in New Dorp Lane. Borough President John A. Lynch joined the Mayor in the attack on Senator Walsh. The crowd of 300 from Staten Island cheered every time the Mayor and Mr. Lynch advanced to the assault. They booed and hissed the Senator when he tried to get a word in. He demanded fair play.

Hylan Goes After Walsh.

"They are all on to you, Walsh," remarked the Mayor cheerfully, as he toyed with his gavel. The crowd roared assent.

"One man is trying to run the Board of Estimate," said Aldermanic President Collins.

Senator Walsh then admitted that he, as an attorney, had obtained the injunction which halted operation of the bus line in New Dorp Lane. He said that he had taken this step because the route was being operated illegally under a permit issued by the Department of Plant and Structures.

"Why are you apologizing?" asked the Mayor.

"I am not apologizing," said the Senator.

"It is too bad that a young man like you is owned body and soul by a railroad company," said the Mayor.

"Mr. Mayor, I demand fair treatment here."

"It's too bad, Walsh," said the Mayor.

Senator Walsh then denied that any railroad had "any strings on him," and said it was true that he occupied an office with Bertram G. Eadie, foe of the Mayor and attorney for the Richmond Power and Light Company. This was one of the things with which the Mayor had charged him.

Walsh Offers Sympathy to Mayor.

"No matter what is the depth of your sorrow," said Walsh, "it is no greater than my sympathy for you."

The Senator was then urged to amend his injunction order. He said that he had displayed leniency and added that he would have "put many members of the delegation who came over here in New Dorp Lane buses in jail" for using the forbidden vehicles.

"Walsh," cautioned the Mayor, "if you keep on putting people in jail they will throw you off Staten Island."

Then came up the proposal for a new bridge over the East River. Borough President Miller introduced a resolution that before a bridge were determined upon the tunnel plan should be considered. In an effort to study the whole problem he suggested that a committee be appointed. The personnel of the proposed committee did not include Mr. Connolly. He objected because he had been left out.

"That is the most offensive kind of resolution that I can conceive of," he said. "It is miserable and contemptible. From this the people of Queens should be able to get an idea of how they would be treated if 'the other people' are successful. The Borough President of Manhattan is influenced by politics in this. God help Queens if they win!"

Miller Denies Partisanship.

Miller denied the charge of partisanship. He said that nothing had been done for Queens in the last ten years. He said that "Connolly's criticisms are cheap politics themselves." Connolly grew indignant.

"Now, listen, Julius," he began. But several others began also, so the general result was just a blur of words. Mr. Miller then launched into a defense of his resolution. Connolly sought to break in.

"I let you talk like a gentleman," said Mr. Miller, "now let me talk."

Connolly eased himself comfortably in his chair. He looked over at Mr. Miller, who was standing. He said:

"Ah, go and sit down."

"I stand for real relief and not for fake relief," shot back the Manhattan Borough President. I have been working while you have been talking. For every speech you've made I have made a real improvement."

"Shut up," advised Mr. Connolly. Another duel of words ensued. Connolly raised his voice. This gave him the upper hand—no, voice.

"Listen, Julius," he said, with a grin. "I was working for the interests of the Borough of Queens before your name was ever pulled out of the hat."

Mr. Miller reflected for a moment.

"All you can do is get insulting," he countered. The Mayor had been rapping gently with the gavel and opening and shutting his mouth as he alternately saw a chance to speak or discovered himself balked. Finally he stood up. He said that the proposal of Mr. Miller did "not ring with sincerity."

They argued about the proposed committee for an hour. Mr. Miller finally amended his resolution so that Mr. Connolly was included. The appropriation was made available. Then Mr. Connolly asked that the amended resolution be read. This was done.

"That's substantially what I am asking for," he said.

"Well," said Mr. Prial, "what's all the argument about then?"

Nobody offered to answer this and so, after several other items had been acted upon, the board adjourned.

Kathryn Ray Allowed to Enter Atlantic City Contest Despite 'Miss America's' Protest.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 28.—Even though she is a professional beauty, Miss Kathryn Ray of New York, member of Earl Carroll's "Vanities," who was selected as "Miss Coney Island" for the Atlantic City Pageant, will be accepted as an inter-city representative and be allowed to compete for the crown of "Miss America," the nation's most beautiful bathing girl.

This was the decision announced here this evening by the Pageant Committee, following a special three-hour meeting which was attended by the City Commissioners. The meeting was presided over by Armand T. Nichols, Director General of the Pageant.

The meeting was called after Miss Ruth A. Malcolmson of Philadelphia, who wears the "Miss America" crown, as winner last year, had declared in newspapers that she would not defend her title this Fall because professional girls would be allowed to enter.

Miss Malcolmson charged that instructions to contestants in inter-city beauty contests heretofore had barred professional entries and that by admitting them the pageant was being commercialized.

"The rules and regulations governing entries of inter-city beauties in the Atlantic City pageant, after due thought and consideration, have been approved by the Pageant Committee and acceded to by all of the entrants in increasing numbers annually," read the official statement issued by the Pageant Committee.

"All the cities entering the contest have done so according to the rules and regulations which have been approved by the Pageant Committee. The rules and regulations of this year are in no way different from those which were in force and which governed the contest when Miss Malcolmson (Miss America) was selected."

In the meantime, in Philadelphia, explanations and criticisms are being hurled about in the "battle of beauties" involving Miss Annette Jackson, the "Miss Philadelphia" of this year; Miss Lillian Mae Erbe, for two years runner-up in the competition for that title, and Miss Malcolmson. Each beauty, supported by indignant adherents, has accused the other of professionalism. It has been charged that Miss Malcolmson has received pay for appearance in various localities, thus becoming a professional.

Regardless of the outcome of these disputes, however, the Pageant Committee has now made it entirely clear that professional beauties will be considered eligible.

WHISTLES HIS WAY TO A CHAMPIONSHIP

Boy's Rendition of 'Honest and Truly' and a Cuckoo Clock Wins Jersey City Title.

Louis Warner, 14 years old, of 99 Ocean Avenue, Jersey City, won the whistling championship of the city yesterday afternoon at the annual Jersey City playground picnic in West Side Park, attended by 5,000 children and 2,500 adults. He competed for the honor against fifteen other boys representing the various playgrounds of the city and won the championship for his own playground, Neptune.

Watching the other boys, all of them victors in the elimination tests, Louis stood calmly at one side of the large athletic field where the final contest was held. He was the last one called upon to perform, and opened his program with a rendition of the popular song "Honest and Truly," which established him as a real competitor immediately. He followed it with a loud, piercing whistle, intended to show his audience his volume. Then he imitated a peanut stand whistle, a traffic policeman's whistle, a sparrow, a Bob White, a canary, a cuckoo clock striking midnight, chickens and a locust.

At the conclusion of his performance, George S. Furst and Mrs. Beth Kelly Lahey, both former professional whistlers, held a brief conference and selected him the winner. Commissioner A. Harry Moore, Democratic candidate for Governor of the State, presented him with a loving cup suitably inscribed and wished him luck in a short address. Asked if he intended to make whistling a profession, Louis said he would wait until he got a little older before he decided.

The contest was the first of its kind governed by a set of rules which provided that the contestants must be 14 years old or younger, that they must all rely on natural ability, unaided by any device to increase volume, and they were permitted to whistle in any style they cared to use. Not a single girl survived the initial tests, so the boys had the day to themselves.

All the large business houses of Jersey City loaned their trucks so that the children might be transported to West Side Park yesterday morning. They had plenty of refreshments, played all sorts of games and engaged in various kinds of concerts. Some of them presented short plays and pageants, while others danced the "Charleston."

"COLOSSUS" LANDS IN JAIL.

Describing Himself as American Singer, He Is Held at Versailles.

VERSAILLES, France, Aug. 28 (AP).—A foreign automobilist entered the inn at the village of Flins on the Seine River today and, after insulting the customers, began to empty their glasses. The Mayor was summoned to intervene and he only escaped assault when onlookers interfered.

The automobilist, who is described as a "veritable colossus," was arrested after a struggle, being brought to the Versailles Jail, charged with being drunk and disorderly and insulting a magistrate. He gave the name of Earl Askam and described himself as an American belonging to the Metropolitan opera, New York.

Earl Askam is not listed in "Who's Who in Music" nor was he known when an inquiry was made at the Metropolitan Opera House last night.

Deputy Inspector Pierne Charges That White and McNulty Exceeded Their Authority.

John B. White and George T. McNulty, former patrolmen of the Special Service Division and now under suspension pending the outcome of charges made against them, were placed on trial before First Deputy Commissioner John A. Leach at police headquarters yesterday for alleged connivance in making a fake raid on the Steamer Club, at 33 Second Avenue, on June 6.

It is alleged that the men staged the raid so that officials of the club could obtain a Supreme Court injunction preventing the police from making any further raids on the club. As a result of the raid the club subsequently obtained such an injunction from Supreme Court Justice Levy.

After the testimony of several witnesses had been taken the trial was adjourned until Sept. 16 to allow the accused men time to find the man who, they claim, informed them that gambling was going on at the club.

Deputy Inspector Camille C. Pierne of the Special Service Division said that on the morning of the raid he received three unsigned communications saying that a fake raid was to be made on the Steamer Club that afternoon. With two other officers he went to a spot where he could watch the entrance to the club, and saw White, McNulty and Patrolman Kiernan, the latter a patrolman who had only been assigned to the Special Service Division five days previously, enter the club.

A little later Kiernan came out, the Inspector said, and when he was asked what was going on the patrolman said the two others were making a raid and he was going to call a patrol wagon.

The Deputy Inspector said that if the men knew gambling was going on at the club they should have reported the matter to their superior officers and that in making the raid themselves they went out of their territory.

White and McNulty both denied that the raid was a fake. They said a man informed them that gambling was going on and they first desired to check up on his information. When they went to the club, they said, the circumstances seemed suspicious and they decided to arrest several men on charges of disorderly conduct.

No department charges were made against Kiernan for his connection with the raid, as it was shown that he was a new man in the Special Service Division and that he accompanied White and McNulty in the belief that the raid was genuine.

CYRIL MAUDE TO QUIT STAGE SOON, HE SAYS

Plans to Retire to Devonshire Home After Engagement in 'These Charming People.'

Cyril Maude, the English actor who appeared two seasons ago in New York in Frederick Lonsdale's play, "Aren't We All?" arrived yesterday on the Mauretania to star in "These Charming People," by Michael Arlen. On his arrival he said that at the conclusion of his American engagement he would retire permanently from the stage to spend the remainder of his life at his home in Devonshire. This is his third farewell engagement. He has been on the stage for forty-two years.

Mr. Maude said that his first American appearance was in Denver, Col., forty-two years ago. He played in the melodrama "East Lynne." He said that he thought the drama had retrograded rather than advanced. When asked what he thought of the idea of producing Hamlet in plus fours, as was done in London this week, he said "It's horrible."

His home in England was built in 1650. He plans to make an intellectual monastery of it and will invite "thinking people" to spend the week-ends there with him.

"I may even offer it as a retreat to young writers who have some work they wish to do," he said, "but in that case I will have to adopt immigration restrictions and devise some sort of an Ellis Island for it."

SAINTON MUSIC HEARD HERE FOR FIRST TIME

Two Pieces by Franco-English Composer Played at Stadium —Season Ends Tomorrow.

Two pieces by Philip P. Sainton, a Franco-English composer, were heard for the first time in America last night when played by the Philharmonic Orchestra under the direction of Willem von Hoogstraten at the Stadium concert. The remainder of the program consisted of the dramatic "Coriolanus" overture of Beethoven, Schubert's B minor symphony, Moussorgsky's Fantasy, strongly tinged with the romanticism of Berlioz, "A Night in Bald Mountain," and Wagner's "Tannhäuser" overture.

These selections appealed strongly to the audience, with the possible exception of the pieces by Sainton, which were an admirable example of music that wanders aimlessly and imitates imitations of past and present masters.

There was much applause for Mr. von Hoogstraten, and the encore of the evening, played twice, was the "catchy" trifle of Rimsky-Korsakoff, "The Blumblee."

Concerts tonight and tomorrow night will conclude the Stadium season of 1925.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

"The Little Mouse," with Mabel Normand as its star, opened in Stamford last night.

Owen Davis's new farce, "Come Easy, Go Easy," is now in rehearsal with Otto Kruger and Victor Moore heading the cast. Lewis & Gordon are the producers.

"Her Own Idea," a comedy by F. C. Merlin and Brian Marlow, has been placed in rehearsal by John Cort, with a cast including Carroll McComas, Cyril Scott, Theresa Maxwell Conover, Eleanor Woodruff and Edith Van Cleve. The play will open out of town on Sept. 14.

"Mostly David," by Paul Gerard Smith, is one of several plays announced for production by E. K. Nadel.

"Weeds," by John B. Hymer and Le Roy Clemens, will be brought to New York by Samuel Wallach in October. The play was tried out in the Spring, and Winchell Smith has since been called in as "technical adviser."

RIVAL TONG CHIEFS AGREE ON A TRUCE

FOES FACE EACH OTHER

Both Deny Guilt for Shootings, but Accept Armistice—Will Report Monday on Results.

A move which presaged the end of the present feud between the Hip Sing Tong and the On Leong Tong was put into effect yesterday afternoon by District Attorney Joab H. Banton when representatives of both tongs, for the first time since the tong peace treaty was signed on March 26 last, sat in conference and agreed on what the prosecutor considered was a truce.

Five high officials of the Hip Sing Tong, including Ong Win-min, Eastern National President, and George Wong Tack, President of the New York branch, sat in a group in front of Mr. Banton and Chief Assistant District Attorney Ferdinand Pecora and engaged in what had the appearance of a business-like discussion with five leaders of the rival tong, among whom were Henry Moy, International Secretary, and Lee Dhu, Secretary of the local branch of the Hip Sing.

The two groups were seated within a few feet of each other, separated by the Grand President of the Chinese Consolidated Benevolent Association, who had come to offer his services to revive the peace treaty. On either side of this volunteer mediator were Charles W. Gould, counsel for the Hip Sings, and Abraham Goodman and Leslie A. Lockhart, legal advisers to the On Leongs.

For two hours Banton and his assistant listened to explanations of the trouble between the two Chinese secret societies. When the conference was ended and the tong leaders returned to their automobiles and drove back to Chinatown, Mr. Banton said that he felt that the end of the warfare between the rival tongs was in sight.

"The most effective thing accomplished," said the prosecutor, "was the agreement of the representatives of the two tongs on what I consider to be practically a truce in the situation. Next to that in importance was another agreement on the appointment of a secretary from each of the tongs and the Grand President of the Chinese Consolidated Benevolent Association, who is not affiliated with either tong, to act as a sort of court of grievances and discuss dispassionately the contentions of each side that the other had violated the peace compact, signed last March.

"At the conference today each side alleged that the other had broken the peace agreement.

"Both sides declared that the recent killings in this and other cities by Chinese gunmen had no official connection with either tong.

"I am hopeful that our effort to bring about peace will meet with success. The committee of three will report to me on Monday the result of their efforts. It is more than possible that we shall then be able to iron out all the trouble between the Hip Sing and On Leongs, and bring them back to a position where the peace treaty of last March will be continued for its full duration."

Policeman Clarke of the Jersey City police became suspicious yesterday when he saw two young men whom he believed to be Chinese coming out of the Hudson Tube station at Journal Square. One carried a black bag, and when the policeman demanded that he reveal its contents he refused.

Clarke then led the pair to the Mercer Street Station. There they said they were not Chinese, but Japanese. One said he was James Sakaloto, a pugilist, and he identified his companion as Mutsu Okochi, his trainer. They said they lived at 54 West Ninetieth Street, this city. When the lieutenant opened the bag it was found to contain boxing gloves, trunks and other garments used by pugilists in training. Apologies were made and the pair left the station.

TO OPEN OPERA SEASON.

Two-Weeks' Repertoire at National Theatre Begins Tonight.

The National Theatre, Second Avenue and East Houston Street, will begin a two weeks' season of grand opera this evening. Cavalieri F. Acierno is promoting the programs. Several artists have been engaged, among them Nicola Zerola, Giuseppe Reschiglian, Giuseppe Agostini, Emanuele Fernandez, Elia Palma, Luigi Dalle Molle, Stella Marchetti, Edith Nelson, Emita Macri, Amalia Antonelli, Dorothea Pilzer, Beatrice Eaton, Guglielmo Tamburini and Espartero Palazzi. The conductors will be Gaetano Dell'Orifece and Adolfo Ventura. There will be a chorus of thirty-five voices and an orchestra of thirty pieces.

The operas proposed are "Otello," "La Forza del Destino," "Un Ballo in Maschera," "Aida," "Traviata," "Lucia," "Il Trovatore," "Rigoletto," "Carmen," "Samson and Delilah," "La Gioconda," "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "Pagliacci," "Martha" and "Faust."

DEFRAUDER GOES TO JAIL.

Plea Fails to Help Man Who Withheld Money From Government.

The plea for a suspended sentence for Adolph Frederick of 1,263 Lexington Avenue by his counsel, Frederick Behr, when arraigned for sentence yesterday for withholding ticket money from the United States Shipping Board, did not keep him out of jail. Behr said his client would make restitution of the money he had taken when he was hard up, a sum which the Governments contends amounts to $17,000.

"Of course, you are going to pay back as soon as you possibly can," said Federal Judge William H. Atwell. "Men who want to do right pay their debts. But first you will go to Essex County Jail for sixty days. When you come out, prove that you are earnest, that you are honest in your intentions by paying the Government what you owe."

Frederick pleaded guilty to the specific charge of withholding $137.43 from the Shipping Board. He was owner of a travel bureau.

School Friend "Identifies" Body, but Telegram Offers Denial.

Although the body of the young stenographer who committed suicide in her furnished room at 131 West Sixty-first Street on July 30 was identified yesterday as that of Dorothy Davis of Malone, N. Y., a telegram from that place received last evening said that Dorothy Davis was alive and living there with her sister, Mrs. Bess Smallman.

The identification as Dorothy Davis was made by Miss Everett of Malone, a school friend of Dorothy Davis. It was a case of mistaken identity, according to the dispatch from Malone, and the identity of the girl who committed suicide here is still a mystery.

Morrow Aids Spanish Red Cross.

VAN HOOGSTRATEN TO LEAVE

Conductor to Lead Portland (Ore.) Orchestra—To Return in Spring.

Confirmation has been received of the report that Willem van Hoogstraten, conductor at the Stadium concerts and for two seasons one of the conductors of the New York Philharmonic Society, has been engaged as director of the Symphony Orchestra of Portland, Ore.

The Portland orchestra's season extends from November, 1925, until the middle of March, 1926. Soon after that Mr. van Hoogstraten will return to New York to conduct at the ninth season of the Stadium concerts. It is felt that his work in this city and his experience as guest conductor of other American orchestras make him a particularly valuable acquisition for Portland and the Northwest.

"Clouds" to Open Next Wednesday.

"Clouds," a play by Helen Broun, is announced to open at the Cort Theatre on Wednesday night of next week. The play is the offering of a new producing company, Woodhouse Productions, Inc., of which Walter C. Lindsey is the head. The cast will include Louise Carter, Ramsey Wallace and Marian Swayne.

GIVE GUILD SCHOLARSHIPS.

Scholarships in the Theatre Guild's new school of acting, which will open in October, have been offered by Winthrop Ames, Sam H. Harris, Arthur Hopkins, and the Theatre Guild itself. Each scholarship carries with it an option on the student's services for the season following graduation, during which the student agrees to play for the manager in question at a salary of $50 a week.

All applicants must be enrolled in the Guild school before October and the scholarship awards will be made a month later. The school will be under the direction of Winifred Lenihan.

Suit Over Services in Near East.

The Texas Company, with offices at 17 Broadway, Manhattan, filed a petition yesterday in the Federal Court in Brooklyn for an injunction against the continuance of a suit brought against it by Frank Cohen of 34 West Eighty-fifth Street, Manhattan. Cohen seeks $100,000 for services in the Near East, where, he said, he spent eighteen months opening Texaco agencies. The Texas Company alleged that Cohen failed to present a bill of particulars for his services.

REDS SPY ON ENEMIES WHEREVER THEY HIDE

PARIS, Aug. 28.—The persistence with which the Soviet Government pursues the activities of its enemies was further revealed in Paris today by the establishment in the same building occupied by the Society of Russian Emigrés of a group of Bolshevist agents whose sole duty is to spy on these émigrés and report their doings to Moscow.

Not long ago the President of the Association of Russian Industrialists, which is carrying on anti-Bolshevist propaganda in France, leased an old mansion opposite the Chamber of Deputies and there established the society's headquarters. Finding the premises too big, he decided to lease the upper floor. Within a few days the agent of the building received a visit from a dignified looking Frenchman, who proposed to take over the unused part of the building for a long term of years. The agent, assuming that he was dealing with French interests, signed the lease in favor of the visitor and a company calling itself "Wireless."

The new tenants immediately moved in and the émigrés were not long in learning that their neighbors on the floor above were nothing more than a group of Bolshevist spies subsidized by Ambassador Krassin, who thus keeps an ear to the keyhole and an eye upon all their movements.

The situation is all the more serious for the members of the society because they know if their identity becomes known to Moscow it means that any member of their family still in Russia will be subject to prosecution.

Despite the decree forbidding their demonstration today, the Paris Communists met in force in central parts of the city and necessitated the calling out of imposing police forces in order to keep traffic moving. The French police's "grist mill" method of breaking up crowds worked effectively, and at the steps of the Opera House the Reds were dislodged after a short and spirited charge.

Many arrests were made, revealing the fact that the majority of the demonstrators were foreigners. A few minor injuries were sustained by the police and the Communists.

The clash occurred just as beautifully gowned women were arriving for an opera performance—also mostly foreigners, as French society is away at Summer resorts. The entire demonstration was unusually good-natured.

OFFICER DIMS KLAN CROSS.

Makes Hooded Order Put Out Fire in Oran[illegible] Mountains.

WEST ORAN[illegible] N. J., Aug. 28.—The Ku Klux Klan staged a big open-air meeting in the Orange Mountains here tonight, but their pet display—the burning cross—brought them trouble.

About 500 Klansmen, most of them in full regalia, came from all directions and in all sorts of vehicles to the estates of Mrs. Hanna Williams and F. G. Whiteman. They warned curious persons to keep away. Then they lighted the usual cross.

Joseph Tims, a mountain motorcycle policeman, pushed past the sentinels and into the centre of the Konklave. He demanded that the cross be extinguished. The Klansmen protested, but Tims made them bring water from a near-by house and put out the flames.

Six Klansmen, fully robed, went to West Orange Police Headquarters to protest. Desk Lieutenant Harry Dangler upheld Policeman Tims. The Director of Public Safety was the only person who could give them a permit for their fire, he said. The delegation went to the home of William S. Woodhull, Director of Public Safety in West Orange, and asked his permission to relight the cross. He refused it. The Klansmen went back to the mountains and continued their secret session, unlighted by their spectacular emblem.

FOUR TAKE $2,693 PAYROLL.

Armed Men Believed to Have Followed Pair From Bank.

Evidently followed from the Corn Exchange Bank at Norfolk and Grand Streets, where they had drawn money to make up the payroll of the clothing firm of Armatys & Brown of 37 Broome Street, John Armatys, a member of the firm, and Jacob Margot, a bookkeeper, were held up by four armed men yesterday afternoon and robbed of $2,693.

As Armatys and Margot were about to enter the Puritan Building, where the company's offices are located, the four men walked across the street from the opposite side and held revolvers against them. One robber reached into Armatys's inside coat pocket and took the envelope which contained the payroll money. The thieves then ran across the street, where a fifth was waiting for them in an automobile. Before an alarm was raised they had driven off.

QUEENS POPULATION INCREASES 100,355

Building Department Reports That 20,000 Families Have Moved There Since Jan. 1.

SECOND WARD TO BENEFIT

Subway to Spur Building, Connolly Believes—Fourth Ward Leads in Homes Construction.

More than 20,000 families have moved into Queens Borough since Jan. 1, 1925, increasing the Borough's population by 100,355 persons, according to the report of the Queens Borough Building Department submitted yesterday to Borough President Maurice E. Connolly. Within the next ten years Queens will have a population greater than that of Manhattan or Brooklyn, and, with the construction of additional subways, the population will increase more than 1,000,000 within the next few years, Borough President Connolly predicted.

The section to be benefited immediately by transit relief and to which thousands of families are expected to move, according to Connolly, is the Second Ward, which includes Elmhurst, Winfield, Woodside, Annadale Park and Corona. This district is now second among the Queens wards in construction under way, and building activity will take a rapid jump as soon as the new subway, now under construction, has been completed.

During the last seven months 17,267 new buildings have been erected at an estimated cost of $113,065,450.

The Fourth Ward, which includes Richmond Hill, Jamaica, Hollis and St. Albans, leads other wards in new homes. In Flushing and Douglaston, comprising the Third Ward, a number of brick tenement houses are being erected, while the first ward, including Long Island City, Astoria and the Hunters Point section, leads in erection of tenement houses, having added forty-three such buildings during the month of March last alone.

Although comparatively little building construction is going on in this ward at the present time, Astoria is expected to take a rapid jump as soon as the Borough officials complete their work of laying out the streets. In the Fifth Ward, made up principally of the Rockaways, construction work will show a big increase in the very near future as a result of the recent real estate boom, according to the report of the Building Department. The report for the last seven months this year shows an increase over last year. The total number of buildings erected in Queens in 1924 was 24 619, at an estimated cost of $160,331,713.

HOW POLICE FUND IS SPENT.

Receipts of Games Go for Up-State Camp, Enright Declares.

In reply to a published criticism of the manner in which money derived from the sale of tickets for the approaching police games is to be spent, Commissioner Enright yesterday made public a letter he had sent to the Mayor describing how the fund is disbursed.

The Commissioner said that since 1920 the revenue derived from the games had been used in part to maintain the police recreation camp at Tannersville, N. Y. The camp is operated, he said, for the benefit of men of the department who are on sick leave and also to afford a two weeks' vacation each year to the widows and orphans of men in the department who were killed on duty. As far as it will permit, he continued, the camp accommodates policemen and their families at vacation time, no charge being made for lodging and a charge being made for the actual cost of food used.

He said it is proposed to build a large hotel at a cost of about $300,000 in order to accommodate more policemen and their families and so that the vacation camp may be ultimately used as a year-round resort.

CLERK FINDS VALUABLE GEM

London Man Thought $5,000 Pearl Was Worth 18 Cents.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 28.—A clerk named John Callum, taking a walk during his lunch hour yesterday, picked up what he though was the ornamental end of a hatpin in front of the home of Lady Assheton Smith, at Queen Anne's Gate. Estimating its value at about eighteen cents, he dropped it into his pocket and forgot it until he read in this afternoon's papers that a pearl valued at $5,000 had been lost by Lady Assheton Smith yesterday while she was leaving her home.

Callum phoned Lady Assheton Smith who advised him to go at once to her jeweler. There the pearl was identified and Callum will receive a $500 reward.

Lady Assheton Smith, when she discovered the loss, "mobilized" all the messenger boys available in London and they searched the neighborhood far into night, without result.

AUTO KILLS BROOKLYN GIRL.

Hits Her Car at Sheffield, Mass., and Speeds On—Victim's Sister Injured.

SHEFFIELD, Mass., Aug. 28 (AP).—Birdie Sheridan, aged 23, of Brooklyn, N. Y., was instantly killed and her sister Ruth seriously injured here last night when a speeding automobile crashed into and overturned the machine in which they were passengers, which was parked in front of the Summer hotel where they were employed. James Graney of Sheffield, companion of the sisters, was not injured.

The speeding machine, it was said by police, did not stop after the accident.

The dead girl's skull was fractured and her sister received injuries which forced surgeons to amputate three of her fingers.

Teachers Study the New Steps at Convention Here.

Esthetic dancing under the direction of V. Vestoff of New York, occupied the Society of American Teachers of Dancing at their convention at the Waldorf yesterday. The teachers whirled and gyrated until almost exhausted by their efforts to learn the latest steps in nature dances.

Musical comedy and stage steps also received attention at the morning meeting, with Adolph Newburger of New York leading in a waltz clog, which is supposed to be the latest thing. Pearl Wallace of St. Petersburg, Fla., gave a lesson in tap dancing work, and Betty Gould of Cincinnati led in limbering up exercises.

Mineral Royalties Decreased.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28 (AP).—The Government received $5,353,132 less in royalties for mineral leasing on public land during the last fiscal year than the preceding year, due to the temporary closing down of wells in the Wyoming field and to storage for better prices. Total receipts last year, the Interior Department reported today, were $8,278,793 against $13,631,840 the year before.

DIVIDENDS DECLARED BY SEVERAL CONCERNS

Directors of the General Gas and Electric Corporation declared an initial quarterly dividend yesterday of 37½ cents a share on the Class A common stock; also the regular dividends of $2 a share on the $8 cumulative preferred Class A stock; $1.75 a share on the $7 cumulative Class A preferred stock and $1.75 a share on the cumulative Class B preferred stock. All the dividends are payable Oct. 1 to stockholders of record Sept. 15.

"The corporation has given the right to holders of the common stock Class A of record Sept. 15 to accept in lieu of a cash dividend additional common stock Class A at a price of $25 a share. A holder of 200 shares of stock would receive $75 quarterly if he takes the cash dividend. If he accepts this in common stock he would receive three shares, which are quoted in the current market around $60 a share."

The Executive Committee of the Prophylactic Brush Company has declared a quarterly dividend of $1.50 a share on the preferred stock, payable Sept. 15 to stockholders of record Sept. 1.

The Equitable Office Building Corporation, which is controlled by the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and affiliated interests, declared an initial quarterly dividend yesterday of $1 a share on the corporation's common stock, payable Sept. 30 to stockholders of record Sept. 15.

TAXI WAR IN BERLIN.

25 Per Cent. Rate Cut to Be Followed by Another.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Aug. 28.—All Berlin can joyride on nothing per day if warring taxi owners carry out the price-cutting threats which are already responsible for a 25 per cent. rate decrease. War was declared when 1,000 two-passenger taxis charging 25 per cent. less than the large cars appeared in Berlin and usurped the taxi business.

After an endless waiting at stands while small cars dashed by, owners of the larger cars decided to charge the same prices as the small cars. Now owners of the small cars state they will reduce another 15 per cent., and will keep their prices below those of the larger cars even if the reduction continues to a point where a meter becomes a mere ornament.

Berliners are watching the battle interestedly, anticipating the time when it will be cheaper to taxi to work than ride there in a street car.

THE WEEK'S PRICE TREND.

A Continuation of the Downward Tendency in Commodities.

The downward price tendency that has been a feature of the wholesale commodity markets since the middle of August continued during the past week. †Nominal.

Of the twenty-three changes in the foodstuffs, fifteen were declines. The weakness in the grains, all of which were lower, was a feature, about half of the declines occurring in them. In the local market there was another price reduction in Spring patent flour. This amounted to 35 cents per barrel. Fancy Minnesota family flour dropped 25 cents per barrel, but the Winter soft straights variety did not change. Middle Western lard was cheaper, but bacon held steady. At Chicago there were revisions downward in live hogs and short ribs. Live beef steers, mess pork and live sheep showed no change either way.

The listed dairy products were firmer. There were four changes, of which three were advances. The best creamery butter, nearby fancy and fresh-gathered eggs supplied the increases, while fresh cheese declined.

No changes were recorded in the fresh or dried fruits. Two declines were noted in the listed vegetables. Potatoes again were weak, easing off 25 cents per barrel. Turnips had a drop of 20 cents per bag. Onions, peas and cabbage were quotably unchanged.

In the beverages there was an advance of five-eighths of a cent per pound in No. 7 Rio coffee, but the Santos No. 4 variety held steady. The various teas showed no changes. Zanzibar cloves and black Lampong pepper were lower among the spices. There was an advance in Mombasa red pepper. Both the best granulated and the 96 test raw sugars were higher. Both kinds, however, are priced well below last year at this time.

In the grains there were six changes, all of which were reductions. These occurred in No. 2 wheat, No. 2 yellow corn, No. 3 white oats, No. 2 rye, malting barley and No. 1 hay. For the third week in more than a month the leathers were quotably unchanged. There were five changes in the hides, of which three were declines. No. 1 extremes, No. 1 calfskins and Chicago City calfskins were cheaper. The advances were in No. 1 Texas and Colorado hides.

The lumber and the building material lists were again bare of changes either way. The number of revisions in the listed metals was fewer than last week, there being but five changes as against ten. Tin, lead, zinc and iron bars at Chicago declined. An advance took place in furnace coke for prompt shipment.

There were thirteen changes in the listed drugs and chemicals, the revisions being about equally divided. No changes took place in the dyestuffs division. Resin and turpentine were higher in the naval stores. Gasoline continued its decline in the oils.

In crude rubber the plantation variety was stronger, but no chanage developed in the up-river fine quality. China steam filatures were weaker in the silks, but the Japanese No. 1 Sinshiu moved up 25 cents per pound. A decline in hemp and another rise in jute were prominent in the miscellaneous changes.

In the textiles the past week brought forth little of note. Burlaps were slightly easier toward the close. Prices of gray goods were maintained, particularly for spot lots.

THE BUSINESS WORLD

COMMERCIAL PAPER.

Yesterday—4 per cent. for the best names.
Thursday—4 per cent. for the best names.
The quotations are for six months' paper.

Spring Openings of Woolens.

Although two or three large woolen producers have opened their lines of Spring piece goods for the women's wear trades, it is expected that most of the others will not open before Labor Day. One mill which has opened its lines reports that repps and jersey cloths are selling well, the repps being preferred because of their attractive sheen. Rayon borders and stripes are also being well received, as are worsted and cotton and worsted and rayon mixtures. Colors which have been favored thus far have been rose and the wine shades and varieties of green.

Coat Reorders Diversified.

Reorders being received by the cloak and suit trade indicate that three types of coats are running close together in popularity. These are the flared, the straightline and the wrap-around types. Lack of concentration is also noted in the selection of colors. In the suede coats being reordered, blue shades like gracklehead, and reddish browns like mulberry and cherokee are leading, although the demand is spread over many other colors. In coats made of the new type of bolivia, black is said to be an important color, as well as the blues and reddish browns. Reordering is reported to be fully as good as it was last year at this time.

Considerable activity is reported in art needlework recently, which is attributed to the favorable response of the consumer to new style ideas in stamped goods. Reordering of these new patterns has been gratifying to manufacturers, who look forward to an active Fall and holiday business. This increase in activity is especially welcome after a quiet Spring season, and is looked upon as a demonstration of the ability of new styles to stimulate business. Considerable buying of linen stamped goods is reported, this being ascribed to the lower prices at which these goods are quoted this year. Prices on other materials are virtually unchanged.

Flares which appear in the silhouette of many dresses for the Fall are said to presage a more widespread use of fans, which give balance to the general effect. Ostrich feathers are expected to be used in these fans and, to comply with the demand for a popular priced variety, manufacturers are bending their efforts to bringing out fans that require less labor and that can be more attractively priced. For young girls a two-stick fan is being offered, in which the border of the feather is white, while the centre color is to match the shade of the frock exactly. For the young matron ostrich fans are being sold with rhinestones along the stems. Uncurled feathers are used for the most part, but the willowed or drooping effect is also utilized.

An active demand for damasks for the Fall is reported by curtain manufacturers, rayon mixtures in striped effects being the types of this class of goods which are most preferred. Pricing of these goods at popular levels is said to be responsible for the urgency of the demand, which is regarded by some manufacturers as likely to outstrip the supply. The damasks are wanted for the overdraping of glass curtains. In the latter, colored and dotted marquisettes are in demand. The call for marquisettes is expected to carry over and make these goods popular items next Spring in rayon mixtures. Although the chief damask colors have been rose, blue and gold, green is a shade which is gaining in popularity. In the marquisettes, gold is a new shade which is in demand, although natural is also wanted. Ruffled and fringed curtains are the rule as opposed to the straight-hanging variety.

Anthracite Supplies Limited.

Sales of anthracite at wholesale have been on a small scale during the past week, owing to lack of available tonnage, Saward's Journal will say today. Early in the month the line companies had enough orders in hand to more than take care of their August output. With them it has been just a question of allotting the coal among their regular customers. The same is true of the larger independents, whose plan of distribution is similar to that of the line companies, although their prices are higher. With the approach of Sept. 1, buyers without dependable sources of supply, or those desiring an extra supply of one size or another, have had to rely on the small "high dollar" operators or on the wholesalers who handle this class of tonnage. A week or more ago even the small producers practically withdrew from the market, having either disposed of their output for the closing days of August or decided to hold it on tracks for sale at a higher price later on. Expanding demand continues a feature of the bituminous demand.

More Call for Handkerchiefs.

An improving business in handkerchiefs is reported by leading wholejobbers have been fairly active in re-salers in the Worth Street district. The plenishing stocks, which have been depleted by the good turnover which the retailers have enjoyed. Much of the stimulation is attributed to the popularity of novelties, which now constitute the bulk of the handkerchief business. This is particularly true of women's goods, but is also becoming more and more the case in men's handkerchiefs. The vogue of colored handkerchiefs to match ties and even belts with silk inserts has been a feature during the past season. Highly colored handkerchiefs in a solid effect or with fancy printed or embroidered patterns predominate in the women's merchandise.

Demand for Polished Stones.

A report from London to the local jewelry trade indicates the polished diamond market there has now followed the lead of that in rough stones. A stronger tone is developing and a large volume of business is being done. There has been a demand for parcels of small eight-cuts and carat stones of all grades, while the scarcity of good single stones is becoming more marked. Better grade eight-cuts and straight sizes are much sought after and maintain their price very firmly. The market, it is added, is having the regular visits of dealers from all quarters anxious to pick up as much of any of the small lots as may be offered.

Confident on Men's Half Hose.

A substantial business is reported to have been placed for men's fancy half hose by five and ten cent chain stores. It has been reasoned that once this merchandise was retailed at so low a figure, it would mark the end of the vogue for novelty half hose as a class. The argument was that the better dresser would not wear these hose because goods resembling the better styled merchandise would be available so cheaply. This view, however, is not shared by some of the important hosiery sellers. They do not believe that there is anything in the way of a heavy Spring volume of business in these fancies. There is enough difference between the better and cheaper versions to clearly separate them in consumers' minds.

Gray Goods Turn Active.

There was fairly active trading in gray goods yesterday, despite the further easing up in raw cotton prices. Most of the demand was for printcloths on spot, although there were some sales for future delivery. In the business transacted were sales of 38½-inch 64-60s at 9½ cents for spot, 9⅜ cents for September and 9¼ cents for November and December. For 39-inch 68-72s buyers paid 10¼ cents for quick goods, while the price for 38½-inch 60-48s was 8 cents for spot lots. The 39-inch 80-square construction sold at 12¾ cents. Sheetings were quiet. Sales in this division were made on the basis of 9⅝ cents for spot lots of 37-inch 48-square four-yard goods and 12¾ cents for 40-inch 2.85s. The remainder of the market was featureless.

SAVES PARALYTIC AT FIRE.

Rescuer, Trapped, Carries Woman in Chair to Roof.

The story of how a passer-by ran into a burning five-story tenement at 321 West Fifty-ninth Street and, at the risk of his own life, rescued a negro woman paralytic early yesterday morning was revealed by members of the Fire Department.

The man, who was extremely reticent about describing his act, told Fire Department officials his name was Robert J. Griffo, 36 years old, of 132 West 112th Street. He was passing the house when a negro boy ran from the front entrance shouting "Fire!" Griffo ran up to a third floor apartment and found the woman, Mrs. A. Smith, 57 years old, sitting helpless in her chair.

Griffo took the woman on his back and started back the way he had come, but found that the flames and smoke had cut him off. He carried the woman up the fire escape to the roof, where he nearly collapsed. He refused medical attention, however, and hurried away.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

On nearly all markets, yesterday's movement was purposeless and uncertain. Except for cotton, whose price drifted further downward toward the low point of the year, the trend in none of them was clearly outlined. This is no unusual picture for an end-of-August market and, but for the recent demonstrations on the Stock Exchange, it would be accepted as a matter of course for the traditional dull season of the year. Even in the stock market, activity subsided yesterday. The noticeable advances or declines were smaller in number than on preceding days, and mostly occurred in stocks which have lately been inactive.

The only sidelight on the financial situation which the day's news contributed came again from the earnings statements for July, which were especially impressive for the Northwestern district. Some of those lines, whose comparison with previous years had long been discouraging, brought gross revenue for the month to the highest midsummer figure since the war. This was not reflected in the railway shares; that part of the market, not being apparently an objective point to the season's professional speculators, has adjusted itself to the inactive season.

In the decline of call money rates to the lowest figure of the week there was no significance; the general money market has not stirred at all during the fractional rise in Stock Exchange demand loans. The Federal Reserve Board's summary for member banks in the system indicated distinct slackening of the general demand for credit; whereas total loans had increased $92,000,000 in the first week of August and $62,000,000 in the second, the increase now reported for the third week was a bare $2,000,000, and the slower movement was most noticeable with commercial loans which were actually reduced. This is not a usual occurrence, even for a week in August, and it will not continue; but it draws attention to the relatively small increase in the demand on bank credit for commercial purposes, even as compared with a year ago. Hardly one-sixth of the expansion in these member bank loans, since last August, is ascribed in the report to advances not secured by stocks and bonds.

In the week-end mercantile trade reviews, the attitude in regard to the business situation continued to provide a curious contrast with the evidence of large and increasing trade which the railway traffic statements indicate. The mercantile agencies report a spirit of underlying confidence, of hopefulness for the future; mostly based, however, on deductions from other indications than the reports of merchants. Only on the fact that trade is "well in advance of a year ago" does there seem to be general agreement; but interior trade had only begun to revive from actual inactivity in August, 1924, and the Stock Exchange has exercised no such restraint in its passing of judgment on the present situation as compared with a year ago.

The seeming discrepancy between the picture drawn by the mercantile community and the tangible indications of the movement of merchandise from producer to consumer is not a new element in the situation; it may be said to have existed pretty continuously, ever since the policy of "buying for visible requirements" and of avoiding long "forward orders" has prevailed. It probably indicates rather a difference in point of view than a conflict over facts; for even in trade discussions, the so-called "hand-to-mouth buying" is not now commonly described as meaning small aggregate purchases. Presumably, the lack of such accumulating advance orders has the effect of retarding the activity of producers, whose output always increases when plenty of contracts for the longer future are in hand. But even in this regard it may conceivably turn out to be a stabilizing influence, through avoiding the alternation of industrial overproduction and underproduction which were familiar under the previous practices.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Volume of business on the Stock Exchange yesterday was smaller than earlier in the week. Professional operators and "pools" continued active on both the long and short sides of their favorites, but the general list was quiet. Price movements were irregular most of the day. Many specialties advanced several points, while others declined. The tendency of the market as a whole, as indicated both by the railroad and the industrial averages, was slightly downward. Short covering, which had been rather generally expected to be large, failed to develop. American Can, Sears Roebuck, General Electric, Steel common, Allied Chemical and other recent favorites closed the day with net losses ranging from small fractions to as much as 4⅞ points, but these losses were partly offset by substantial gains in Mack Trucks, Pierce Arrow, Studebaker, Chrysler, White Motors and Frisco.

Calling Their Shots.

It was generally admitted yesterday that the stock market is now dominated absolutely by a few pools and a few market leaders, who, barring unforeseen catastrophes, have no idea of allowing the situation to slip away from them. During the last few days a few brokerage houses who are in the confidence and, it may be said, in the employ of these market leaders, have been able to "dope out" the market almost from hour to hour in their morning instructions to customers. One of them advised yesterday that stocks would be irregular during the morning, stronger during the noon hour and would close at about the high prices of the day, which was approximately what happened. If the opening is to be a strong one and the closing irregular, they seem to know that, too. The explanation seems to be that the market has been taking the tip for its trend from a few leading issues, and that those who are running the market in those issues have had their campaigns planned several hours ahead of actual quotations. As to whether such a situation is or is not "healthy," opinion seems to differ.

Strike News and the Market.

It was considered rather remarkable yesterday, at least, by those unfamiliar with Wall Street idiosyncrasies, that the calling out of 158,000 miners, and the possibility that the mines will suffer heavy losses this Fall, should not have caused a great commotion. Nothing of the sort happened; in fact, any one who should have inquired of Wall Street men their opinion on the strike would possibly have been answered by the query, "What strike?" It is one of the axioms of the financial district that "stocks should not be sold on strike news," and the principle is one that Wall Street usually follows. The coal shares generally were not affected yesterday. A few of them advanced.

Decrease in Steel Tonnage Expected.

According to predictions yesterday in the financial district, the United States Steel Corporation will show another reduction in forward orders carried on its books as of the close of August, when its official statement covering this account is published on Sept. 10. The reduction, however, is expected to be smaller than July's, which was about 170,000 tons. It is reported in trade circles that the current month has seen the demand for steel products increase, both from the railroads and general industry, but this increase was not sufficient to offset the volume of shipments from the mills, which gained materially as compared with July. The corporation's mills are operating at about 72 per cent. of capacity, against 61 per cent. early in July.

Mack Trucks Meeting Next Week.

In view of the erratic fluctuations in the capital stock of Mack Trucks, Inc., this week, there has been considerable conjecture in the financial district as to what action the board of directors would take when they meet for dividend consideration. According to report, a directors' meeting is scheduled for next Tuesday. For many months, rumors have been circulated about the street that the company would split its stock into smaller units and pay the equivalent of a larger dividend on the new units. These rumors have been denied from time to time, but despite these denials Wall Street yesterday professed to look for some sort of favorable announcement before the end of the year. Uncertainty regarding the forthcoming meeting was responsible for the reaction in the stock early yesterday, but the shares recovered later. Next to Mack Trucks, Chrysler was prominent in the motor group. It was reported that directors of this company would announce next week the retirement of preferred stock, and report earnings at about $30 a share on the common.

Sixty Railroad Reports.

The July statements of the first sixty railroads to report indicate a gain of about 32 per cent. over the same month of 1924, which is very near what experts expected. At this rate, Class 2 carriers should receive more than $100,000,000 in net income for the month compared with $74,087,000 the previous July, and $84,935,306 in July, 1923. These figures also would represent a substantial gain over June, but according to the present scale of variation of traffic, approved by the American Railway Association, July was expected to produce 8.7 per cent. of the year's traffic and June 8.2

Banks Altering Loan Policy.

One reason advanced for the present scarcity of new bond issues is a tendency among banks to lessen their loans on securities and to acquire more obligations based on commodities and for commercial purposes. This tendency is expected to continue for some time in connection with crop moving and marketing activities, and with seasonal expansion in business. Loans on securities have advanced to record proportions and several large banking institutions in the financial district are beginning to employ the bulk of their funds elsewhere. Summer dullness also has been a factor in the bond market, however, and it is expected that several large new issues will be announced after Labor Day. The total of new issues this week was the lowest of the year, less than $10,000,000, compared with about $75,000,000 in the corresponding week last year.

Reserve Bank Credit for Poland.

The $10,000,000 gold credit arranged by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York for the central bank of issue of Poland is expected to exert a powerful influence in favor of zloty exchange in parts of the world where that currency has been under pressure. It is believed that this psychological factor was one of the principal reasons for the establishment of the credit. Poland being on a gold exchange basis, holders of her currency are able to obtain New York funds in exchange on request. These requests undoubtedly were large during the recent speculative attacks on the zloty, and it is understood that dollar balances held here by Poland were somewhat depleted. The new credit means that Poland will have ample funds here, both for trade and to stabilize exchange, as well as to advertise the confidence of American financial circles in the Polish situation.

STEEL COMPANIES PLANNING A MERGER

ALL INDEPENDENT MILLS

Tentative Terms to Stockholders Prepared—$33,000,000 Preferred Stock and $30,000,000 Bonds.

Negotiations for the proposed merger of three of the smaller independent steel companies in the Ohio district in one combination are reported to be progressing rapidly, according to reports in the financial district yesterday. It was admitted yesterday that details, especially in regard to the terms to be offered to the stockholders, are still to be ironed out, but no serious opposition is expected along these lines in view of the fact that the interests which are expected to receive better terms will head the proposed consolidation. The companies involved in the proposed consolidation are the Otis Steel Company, Midland Steel Products Company and the Trumbull Steel Company.

Conferences were held in this city yesterday by the executives of the three companies and the banking interests affiliated with the Trumbull and the other organizations, but at the banking headquarters it was said that no official statement could be issued at this time.

The stocks of both the Otis Steel Company and the Midland Steel Products Corporation were strong on the New York Stock Exchange as a result of the day's developments. Otis Steel common and preferred advanced to new high records for the year to date, the former selling up to 15¾ and the latter at 97½. The common closed with a net gain of a point and the preferred was up 5 points net. Midland Steel Products preferred rose to 145½ and closed at 144⅝, up 5⅝ net for the day.

According to reports in the financial district the consolidated organization will have a capitalization of 1,760,000 shares of no par value common stock, $33,000,000 of 7 per cent. preferred stock and $30,000,000 bonds. These figures, it was stated, are only tentative and some change may be necessary to meet the demands of the stockholders of the Midland Steel Products Company.

Under the tentative terms, it is reported, stockholders of the common and preferred stock of the Trumbull Steel Company will receive share for share for their current holdings in the common and preferred stock of the consolidated organization.

Holders of the preferred stock of the Midland Steel Products Company, which issue carries valuable participating rights, it is understood, will receive for each share 1¼ shares of the new preferred stock, $10 a share in cash or new 6 per cent. bonds, and two shares of new common stock. Holders of the common stock of the Midland Steel Products Company, it is reported, will receive four shares of the new stock for each share now held.

Regarding the position of the stockholders of the Otis Steel Company, it is proposed to issue 1¼ shares of the new preferred stock for each share now held, and in addition the stockholders will receive another ¼ share of new preferred stock to take care of the accumulated dividends due on Otis Steel preferred, which amounts to about 29 per cent. up to Sept. 1. The common stock of the Otis Steel Company will be exchanged on a share for share basis.

It was reported in the financial district that the $17,500,000 issue of Trumbull Steel Company bonds, which was recently sold through the National City Company, would remain intact under the consolidation. A total of $12,500,000 new 6 per cent. bonds of the consolidated company will be issued to retire $4,375,000 of 8 per cent. bonds and $4,600,000 of 7½ per cent. bonds of the Otis Steel Company, and to provide for the $10 a share in bonds or cash to be issued to the Midland Steel preferred stockholders. In addition about $1,000,000 of new working capital will be turned over to the consolidated organization.

Gold for Straits Settlements.

The International Acceptance Bank announced yesterday that arrangements had been made to ship $100,000 in gold to the Straits Settlements. The demand for gold in several other parts of the Far East is making itself felt in New York, one reason being the shipment of rubber, which now commands high prices. A demand for gold from several Central European countries also is reported, following a lapse of several months.

POLISH BANK GETS $10,000,000 CREDIT

Loan by Federal Reserve Bank Here Will Be Secured by Gold.

TO STABILIZE THE ZLOTY

Warsaw Hopes to Thwart Speculators' Drive on Her Exchange —Other Issues Expected.

The Federal Reserve Bank of New York announced yesterday that it had advanced a $10,000,000 credit to the Bank Polski, the central bank of issue of Poland. The credit will be secured by gold. It was obtained for the stabilization of Polish exchange, which has been under speculative pressure in Europe and has declined several cents in recent weeks.

The credit will run for one year and carries an interest rate of 4½ per cent. This charge will be made, however, only on portions of the credit that are used. When use is made of the credit, corresponding amounts of the gold set aside by the Polish bank will be deposited at a place to be designated by the Federal Reserve Bank. It was not announced whether the gold covered by the credit will be brought to New York or held in the vaults of one of the Reserve Bank's correspondents or agents in Europe.

The credit was decided on as the most convenient way for Poland to obtain dollar funds, which she desires particularly at this time. The Reserve Bank has arranged similar credits in the past with banks, both in this country and abroad. The transaction differs, however, from the $200,000,000 credit advanced to Great Britain last April in connection with the British return to the gold standard. The transaction with the Bank of England represented a credit arranged simply on a pledge to pay if the credit should be called into play. The Polish credit, secured by gold, was described as a collateral loan. Great Britain has never used any of the $200,000,000 credit obtained from the Reserve Bank nor the $100,000,000 credit obtained at the same time from J. P. Morgan & Co.

The Polish credit was arranged by Dr. Felix Mlynarski, Vice Chairman of the Bank Polski, and Hipolit Gliwic, Polish Chargé d'Affaires in Washington. The Reserve Bank was represented by J. Herbert Case and Edwin R. Kenzel, Deputy Governors. The Reserve Bank and the Bank Polski are correspondents and have always had close financial relations. The credit was decided on following the drive against the zloty, the Polish national currency, last month, when a great wave of selling was attributed to speculative elements in Germany. There was also selling based on trade figures showing large excesses of imports over exports in Poland.

As Poland is on a gold exchange basis, holders of her currencies may on presentation obtain drafts on New York or on cities in other countries where the gold standard is in effect. It is understood that at the time of the pressure on the zloty there were heavy requests for New York funds which depleted the dollar balances held here by Polish interests. It was desired to replenish these balances, and from the viewpoint of Poland the credit is considered an advertisement to the world of the confidence felt in American financial circles in the Polish situation.

New York bankers who have underwritten Polish bond issues welcomed the Reserve Bank's action as creating a favorable sentiment toward Poland among investors and commercial interests. It is understood that several loans to industrial interests in Poland are under negotiation, and that Polish Government bonds also may be offered later in the year as part of an issue already authorized. It is believed in financial circles also that knowledge of the credit will forestall any speculative attacks on the zloty. In the last year many foreign countries have obtained currency stabilization loans or credits in New York, but usually from private banking institutions.

The Polish zloty ranged fractionally higher than par, 19.3 cents, for more than a year until the selling last month, when it dropped to 17 cents in a few days. The closing rate yesterday was 18 cents.

HONDURAS SEEKS LOAN HERE

Mission Is on Way to Negotiate for $6,000,000 or More.

Honduras will soon open negotiations in Wall Street for a loan of from $6,000,000 to $8,000,000, it was learned yesterday. A financial mission has been sent from Honduras with full authority to conclude arrangements. It has not been decided with what New York banking group the Government will deal, and it is not expected that definite arrangements will be announced in less than two months.

Honduras has reached an agreement with British bondholders, it was reported, under which £1,200,000 will be paid on Honduran bonds now in default. Of this amount £400,000 will be payable in the near future. It is planned to devote part of the proceeds of a New York loan to this purpose. The remainder of the loan is desired for national purposes. The Honduran Parliament authorized a loan of $20,000,000 here, but the smaller amount was decided on by the financial mission.

Tampa Electric to Increase Capital.

A special meeting of stockholders of the Tampa Electric Company has been called for Sept. 30 for the purpose of voting upon a proposal of the management to increase the capital stock from 49,686 shares of stock of $100 par value each to 62,107 shares. The new stock will be offered to stockholders and the proceeds used for improvements and expansion of service.

Piling Order for Bethlehem Steel.

The Bethlehem Steel Corporation has received an order for 1,100 tons of steel piping from the American Construction Company.

Report of Member Reserves of Aug. 19 Shows Drop of $92,000,000 in Deposits

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—Changes in the condition of 728 reporting member banks in leading cities during the week ended Aug. 19, as shown in the statement issued by the Federal Reserve Board, include increases of $2,000,000 in loans and discounts, of $12,000,000 in time deposits, and of $17,000,000 in borrowings from the Federal Reserve banks, together with declines of $3,000,000 in investments and of $92,000,000 in net demand deposits.

The New York City members reported declines of $4,000,000 in loans and discounts, of $31,000,000 in net demand deposits and of $7,000,000 in borrowings from the Federal Reserve Bank, and an increase of $13,000,000 in time deposits.

Loans on stocks and bonds went up $4,000,000, increases of $10,000,000 in the New York district and $7,000,000 in the Chicago district being offset in part by a decline of $12,000,000 in the Boston district. "All other" loans and discounts, largely commercial, increased slightly in all districts except Boston, New Yok and Philadelphia, banks in the Boston district reporting a reduction of $8,000,000 and those in the New York distric of $18,000,000.

Investment holdings of reporting members show no material changes in any of the Federal Reserve districts.

July Production One Per Cent. Below That for June.

The July production of paper in the United States as reported to the American Paper and Pulp Association and cooperating organizations, decreased 1 per cent. compared with June production, according to the Association's summary.

During July domestic wood pulp production decreased 11 per cent., this decrease, with three exceptions being distributed over all grades.

RUBBER REACTS TWO CENTS.

Demand Reported Normal, but Buying Is Insufficient.

A sligthly easier tone prevailed in the local crude rubber market, due to the lower cables received from abroad at the opening of business. Other products were off on an average of 2 cents a pound.

Following are the day's prices for spot and future contracts:

"Shipments from the field are showing marked increases," he said, "owing to the recent completion of new wells."

The latest development in the field is the completion of a well flowing 7,000 barrels by the Carribean Petroleum Company at a depth of 2,500 feet. The American Maracaibo Company has holdings of some 60,000 acres in the basin.

WEEK'S NEW BONDS ONLY $9,720,000

BANKS ALTER LOAN POLICY

Turning of Funds Toward Commerce and Commodities Influences Security Market.

New bond offerings this week amounted to only $9,720,000. This compares with offerings of $49,054,000 last week and $73,229,000 in the corresponding week a year ago. There were only four new issues this week, divided among the foreign, industrial and State and municipal classifications. Offerings, by groups of this week and last, follow:

| | This Wk. | Last Wk. |
| Foreign | $8,700,000 | ........ |
| Industrial | 750,000 | $6,000,000 |
| State and municipal | 270,000 | 13,054,000 |
| Public utility | ....... | 30,000,000 |
| Total | $9,720,000 | $49,054,000 |

The largest issue of the week was a loan of $8,700,000 to the City of Munich, offered through Harris, Forbes & Co. The loan will mature in from one to twenty years and is believed to be the only German municipal loan offered here on a serial maturity basis, which is the method usually employed in American State and municipal borrowing. Bearing a 7 per cent. interest coupon, the bonds were priced to yield from 7 to 7.65 per cent.

The only industrial issue of the week was one amounting to $750,000 by the Continental Optical Corporation, this financing accompanying a merger of several large concerns in the industry. The only other offerings of the week were two small municipal issues.

Offerings are expected to increase considerably after Labor Day. The large volume of offerings earlier this year, some of which have not been fully digested by the market, as well as the usual holiday dullness, are given as reasons for present inactivity. It is reported also, however, that a tendency among the banks to alter their loan policies is having a sentimental effect on the situation. Loans on securities have risen to record proportions, and the banks now are turning a larger portion of their funds to obligations representing commodities or commercial enterprises. This tendency is expected to continue with the crop movements well under way, and the seasonal business expansion.

Next month, however, is expected to bring a number of good-sized new issues, both foreign and domestic. Municipalities, in particular, are scheduled to award a total of about $20,000,000 in new issues within two weeks.

HANNA SUSPENDS DIVIDEND.

Not to Pay on First Preferred—Reports $101,880 Deficit.

Directors of M. A. Hanna Company have suspended dividend payments on the company's first preferred stock. A quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent. was due to be declared at this time. About three months ago the directors suspended dividends on the second preferred stock.

For the three months ended June 30 the company reports operating income of $259,367, against an operating loss of $102,687 reported in the March quarter. After allowing for all charges, including reserves for interest, depreciation and Federal taxes, a deficit of $101,880 was reported for the June quarter, against a deficit of $413,647 after similar deductions reported in the March quarter.

For the first half of 1925 net operating income amounted to $156,680, against $378,091 in the first half of 1924. After similar deductions, the deficit for the half-year period aggregated $515,627, against a deficit of $458,376 reported in the first six months of 1924.

CRUDE OIL PRICES CUT AGAIN

Companies Readjust Quotations to Meet Mid-Continent Action.

Further reductions in the price of crude oil were announced yesterday for the purpose of readjusting quotations in proportion to those in effect in the mid-continent territory. The Ohio Oil Company announced a reduction of 25 cents a barrel in Lima, Indiana, Illinois, Princeton, Plymouth and Wooster crudes and 10 cents a barrel in Waterloo crude.

In the Rocky Mountain district a reduction of 25 cents a barrel was announced, bringing quotations to a level with those quoted by the Prairie Oil and Gas Company in the mid-continent section.

The Gulf Oil Corporation and the Texas Company reduced Arkansas and Louisiana crudes, excepting Smackover, Bellevue and Cotton Valley crudes, 25 cents a barrel, thus meeting the cut previously announced by the Standard Oil Company of Louisiana.

Purchase Milwaukee School Bonds.

RAILROAD PROFITS INCREASED IN JULY

GAIN IS ABOUT 32 PER CENT.

Northwest and Southern Lines Share in Advance, Relieving Pessimism of Some Security Holders.

The net operating income of sixty railroads reporting for July totals $80,940,000, compared with $61,339,000 shown by these carriers in July, 1924, an increase of $19,601,000, or nearly 32 per cent. Compared with June of this year, the net of these same roads indicates an increase of 8.3 per cent.

Gross revenues of the sixty roads aggregate $428,657,000, compared with $396,275,000 last year, an increase of $32,282,000, or 8.2 per cent., while in June they had gross of $415,951,000.

Figures issued yesterday continued the favorable trend, the Southern Railway, Seaboard Air Line, Northern Pacific and Great Northern reporting earnings far ahead of last year's statement for July. Net operating income for the first seven months of the year on these roads also indicates substantial advances over the corresponding period of 1924.

Net income of the Southern Railway in July totaled $2,738,926, against $2,105,215 in July, 1924, while in seven months the total was $17,331,889, an increase of about $2,500,000 over that period last year.

In the case of the Seaboard, an increase of about $235,000 was recorded in July net income, while the seven months' total of $5,678,991 was nearly $500,000 ahead of last year. Improvements by the Northern Pacific and Great Northern in both gross revenues and net income encouraged holders of the roads' securities who have been pessimistic about the Northwestern situation.

The Northern Pacific reported a July gross of $8,074,032 and net of $1,750,817, compared respectively with $7,299,929 and $1,068,232 for the previous July. The Great Northern offered gross of $10,090,146 and net of $2,595,033, compared with $9,120,577 and $1,911,879 in 1924.

The Central Railroad Company of New Jersey reported gross revenues for July of $5,283,426, against $4,831,982 for July, 1924. Operating expenses were $3,639,606, compared with $2,983,244 in 1924.

MAY BUY ENGLISH CAR CO.

General Motors Reopens Negotiations for Austin Motor Company.

According to cables received in the financial district yesterday the General Motors Corporation has resumed negotiations for the acquisition of the Austin Motor Company, Ltd., of Birmingham, England. This report could not be confirmed at the local offices of the company.

It has been known for some time, however, that General Motors has been contemplating the acquisition of an automobile property in England. These negotiations were started several years ago, the desire of the local organization to manufacture motor cars in England having been to overcome the 33 1-3 per cent import tax on American cars. These negotiations were dropped when the Ramsey MacDonald Government cancelled the import duty on foreign motor cars, but the restoration of these duties by the present ministry, it is understood, resulted in the revival of negotiations.

LIVERPOOL'S COTTON WEEK.

British Stocks Reduced Again—Imports Much Smaller.

LIVERPOOL, Aug. 28.—Weekly cotton statistics are as follows: British stocks, 532,000 bales, against 574,000 bales a week ago, 589,000 bales two weeks ago, 628,000 bales three weeks ago and 400,000 bales a year ago; of which American, 250,000 bales, against 289,000 a week ago, 311,000 two weeks ago, 352,000 three weeks ago and 149,000 a year ago. Imports 16,000 bales, against 43,000 bales a week ago; of which American 2,000 bales, against 14,000 bales.

Forwarded, 53,000 bales, against 45,000 bales the preceding week; of which American 38,000 bales, against 30,000 bales. Exports, 5,000 bales, against 13,000 the week before; of which American 3,000 bales, against 6,000. Sales, 26,000 bales, against 25,000 bales the week before; of which American 15,000 bales, against 14,000 bales a week ago.

ASKS SPEED WITH ST. PAUL.

Bondholders' Chief Says Lower July Net Indicates Need.

Lower net operating income of the St. Paul, despite an increase in gross revenues, as shown in the July earnings statement issued by the receivers, emphasizes the necessity of reorganizing the property as soon as possible, asserted Frederick H. Ecker, Chairman of the Bondholders' Committee, yesterday.

Mr. Ecker offered no criticism of the situation, admitting the rights of the receivers to make large expenditures to improve the property. Such a situation, however, he declared, is in effect building up the property for the benefit of the stockholders at the expense of the bondholders, by reducing the amount of earnings which under normal conditions would be available for interest.

TO ARBITRATE MILL STRIKE.

3,000 Massachusetts Textile Workers to Go Back Monday.

Manufacturers and strikers have agreed to arbitration. One manufacturer, one striker and an outsider will compose the Arbitration Board.

LONG ISLAND NOW HAS 500,000 TELEPHONES

President J. S. McCulloh of the New York Telephone Company completed in person yesterday the connecting up of Long Island's 500,000th telephone in the offices of Ralph Jones, President of the Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce.

In recent years, according to information from the New York Telephone Company, Long Island has set a record for the world's telephone development. In 1911, it had only 100,000 telephones. In the next seven years this figure jumped to 200,000, and 300,000 have been added since 1918. With 500,000 Long Island now has almost as many phones as the whole of France and more than in South America.

"It took thirty-two years to reach the first 500,000 phones on Long Island" Mr. McCulloh said, "and eighteen months to get the latest 100,000. We are now on the way toward the first million.

"The abnormal demand for service in Long Island has not subsided. It is still very great and reflects the growth of the population and the activities of the people on this area. A system serving 1,000,000 telephones in Long Island is not a mere dream; it is something that based upon conditions as we see them today can come into existence in comparatively few years."

Long Island's 500,000th instrument was installed by W. P. Johnston, the oldest installer in the Long Island area, with a record of twenty-five years' service with the company. It bears an engraved inscription on a silver mounting, reading:

ANOTHER FERRY ON SOUND.

Double Greenwich-Oyster Bay Service Opens Today.

Double service on the Greenwich-Oyster Bay ferry across Long Island Sound will be inaugurated today by the addition of a new boat with accommodations for forty motor cars of any size.

With the new boat there will be ferry service from both Greenwich and Oyster Bay every hour and a quarter from 9 A. M. to 8 P. M., inclusive, daily and Sunday. Instead of ten daily trips, able to handle only 300 motor vehicles, there will be twenty trips, with a total capacity of more than 700 cars.

This double service will continue into October, when a new ferry to run all Winter will be started between New Rochelle and Glen Cove.

Doubt Mexico Will Pay in Month.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 28 (AP).—There is nothing here to indicate that the Mexican Government will resume the payment of her external debt in September. It has been officially stated, however, that Mexico hopes to resume these payments before the end of the year. The 1925 budget includes 41,000,000 pesos for this purpose.

LOREE FIXES BLAME FOR UNEMPLOYMENT

Attributes It to Lack of Leadership, Political Industrial and Organized Labor.

FAVORS AN ELASTIC DAY

Would Stabilize Railroad Employment by Making It From Eight to Ten Hours.

Turmoil in the employment world is attributed to failure in political, industrial and organized labor leadership, L. F. Loree, President of the Delaware & Hudson Railroad Company, told those present yesterday at the Silver Bay Industrial Conference at Lake George, N. Y. Mr. Loree also went on record as favoring the elastic day, between the limits of eight and ten hours, as a means of stabilizing railroad employment.

Fluctuations in employment on railroads, Mr. Loree asserted, were confined largely to the maintenance of way and maintenance of equipment departments. In remedying these fluctuations he suggested the crowding of non-revenue freight movements into the period of the year when the traffic is light and a study of the possibilities of affording the individual continuous employment under two different employers in the same occupation or under one employer in two or more occupations.

"If I were to be asked why we have so much turmoil in the employment world," he declared, "I should be inclined to attribute it to failure in leadership and to feel that this was true of the leaders in political and industrial life and in organized labor.

"Humanity has before it some problems of vast and somber import. One of these directly influencing unemployment is the growth of population. As one engaged in transportation, what I have to suggest is that the limit of population be fixed, not as Malthus suggested, but rather by the supply of raw material of industry. For myself I do not look to see any radical change in our industrial organization, but it is illuminating to realize that even were capitalism swept away and industry dominated by organized labor, by guild socialism or by State socialism, the essential features of industry—the factory system and the division of labor—would remain untouched, and to them a supply of raw material is as essential as a supply of food to human existence.

"The success with which we meet this and similar problems will depend upon the quality of our leadership. The politicians have made the idea of compromise not only respectable but have attributed to it a certain virtue, successfully concealing the fact that compromise is a confession of an inability or unwillingness to think a thing out. The leaders who resort, upon principle or as a practice, to compromising, to taking the easiest way to an expediency, can do us nothing but harm."

NATRON CUT-OFF TO OPEN JULY, 1926

The following statement by H. W. de Forest, recently elected Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Southern Pacific Company to replace the late Julius Kruttschnitt, was issued yesterday from the road's local offices:

"I have just returned from inspecting the new construction on the Natron cut-off and have spent today at Klamath Falls and motoring about the country, with which I am much impressed. Our expectation is that the work on the Natron cut-off, including the cut-off from Grass Lake to the present main line in the vicinity of Black Butte, will be completed and ready for operation some time in July of next year as planned. We are ready to proceed with the other construction in Southern Oregon and Northern California, the details of which have been fully explained by Mr. Sproule and Mr. Shoup in their recent statements, and we await the approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

"This will involve a cost of approximately $15,000,000. Our new capital investment in the Natron cut-off; necessary to complete it as a through line will be about $23,000,000, and taking the two together will make a new investment of $38,000,000. So far as we are able to judge, it will be a number of years before these large investments will become self-supporting, even assuming that the Southern Pacific will get the benefit of all the traffic of the territory reached by these lines. It is clear, therefore, that such investments cannot be justified if there be destructive competition from the Northern lines."

Plumbing and Heating Jobbers Busy.

Domestic Engineering notes that jobbers of plumbing and heating supplies have reached the point when the condition of their stocks and the needs of their trades are justifying more liberal commitments. The building programs find heating contractors at the height of their work and master plumbers busy on finishing requirements. New work still coming on the market in good volume for this time of the year is keeping the movement of material well balanced.

Two Are Named Ship Line Directors.

Announcement was made yesterday that F. C. Dumaine, Treasurer of the Amoskeag Manufacturing Company, and John F. Craig, Vice President of the New York and Porto Rico Steamship Company, have been elected directors of the Atlantic Gulf & West Indies Steamship Company.

Sterling Slightly Easier—Polish Zloty Firm—Market Generally Is Narrow.

There was little movement in the foreign exchange market. Polish zlotys furnished a strong spot as a result of the $10,000,000 credit obtained from the Federal Reserve Bank for the stabilization of exchange. The supply was small and bids were numerous, the latter probably representing short covering. Sterling declined ¼ cent in response to selling in London before the opening of the local market, but bills were taken readily. The tone was easier in the Scandinavian currencies, which, however, reacted only slightly from the recent sharp advances. French francs were about steady, while Italian lire were firm. Other exchanges showed little change.

FARM PROSPERITY REFLECTED IN TRADE

FREIGHT TRAFFIC HEAVY

Impending Coal Strike Is Seen as Only Disturbing Factor—Bank Clearings Increase.

Steady expansion is noted in business and industry generally by the commercial reporting agencies, and they report that cheerfulness and optimism are the outstanding characteristics. In summing up the situation in business generally, Dun's Review says:

"It is the practically general report that business either is gaining or gives promise of expansion in the Autumn. The month now ending, which ordinarily is an inactive period, brought a distinct advance in several lines, and even the pending coal strike has not perceptibly affected sentiment. With constructive factors outnumbering adverse phases, confidence is sustained. One of the most stimulating influences is the augmented buying power of farmers in the West and the South, which is being reflected both in an increased consumption of goods in rural sections and in larger demands in some of the big manufacturing centres.

"The steel trade is benefiting from the improved agricultural situation, extensive purchasing of material by implement makers being a feature, and the rate of mill operations has risen further, with new additions to active capacity. Not all industries show the same degree of progress, but favorable reports predominate and some of the statistical barometers that measure the volume of transactions are setting new high records. Even the remarkably heavy railroad freight traffic of July has been surpassed during the current month, car loadings being without precedent for this season, and bank clearings this week at cities outside of New York are 11.1 per cent. in excess of those of a year ago."

Bradstreet's says:

"Improvement in the late crops, except cotton in a few sections, in trade buying and in production feature the situation as August draws to a close. On the other hand, the long predicted anthracite coal strike, with 150,000 men involved, seems a certainty, and there are a number of small industrial disputes in evidence.

"Cheerfulness still dominates wholesale and jobbing trade as the Autumn season approaches, the consensus of opinion this week being that the rapid maturing of the corn crop and the increased marketing of cotton are tending o stimulate Fall purchasing, although his is still deliberate, and nothing of hurried character is seen in the buyng. Industrial activity likewise tends o expand, but here also the progress aking is conservative, both trade and dustry showing the disposition to proed with caution, pending clearer views the extent to which the probable rike of anthracite miners and the unttled conditions in the bituminous instry may possibly affect future buy, not only in coal-producing regions t, in a larger way, in all industrial erations dependent upon those fuels."

TRACK LAYING GAINS ON ABANDONMENT

Railroads Authorized to Build 692 Miles So Far This Year, to Give Up 481.

More than 692 miles of new railroad construction at an estimated cost of $30,375,000 have been authorized by the Interstate Commerce Commission this year from Jan. 1 to Aug. 1. Authority has been granted during the same period to abandon 481 miles. These figures have just been compiled by Railroad Data from information furnished by the Bureau of Finance of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The statistics show that contemplated new railroad construction thus far this year is 211 miles more than the unprofitable mileage abandoned. The commission's analysis indicates further that for an approximate five-year period from the year ended Oct. 31, 1921, to Aug. 1, 1925, 3,780 miles of new railroad construction and 2,474 miles of abandonment have been authorized. New railroad mileage exceeded abandonment by 1,033 miles.

The largest single item of construction planned this year is that of the Quebec Extension Railway Company, amounting to 112 miles. The estimated cost is $3,621,000. The largest expenditure for any piece of construction authorized so far this year amounts to $5,500,000. This is for seventy-nine miles of new track which the Waco, Beaumont, Trinity & Sabine desires to construct.

For the year ended Oct. 31, 1921, the commission sanctioned the abandonment of 701 miles. This is the largest amount of mileage which the commission allowed abandoned in the five years.

Hammond Accepts Offer of Atlanta Field if Shenandoah and Los Angeles Are Leased.

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 28 (AP).—Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr., announced today that the commercial air base he and associates have planned for Atlanta will be used by the Navy's dirigibles, the Shenandoah and Los Angeles, in event the two ships are leased to a company in which John Hays Hammond Jr., and Owen D. Mr. Hammond and his associates recently bid for the two dirigibles for commercial purposes, Mr. Vanderbilt said, and at that time he proffered the Atlanta base to them. A telegram from a representative of Mr. Hammond, accepting the offer in event the Government approves the lease was received by Mr. Vanderbilt today.

The Atlanta commercial air base will occupy 11,000 acres, Mr. Vanderbilt said, and six large fields in other cities within a 400-mile radius of Atlanta are being planned. Land already has been purchased in these cities, the names of which soon will be made public.

COTTON DOWN IN LAST HOUR SALES

NEW LOW LEVELS REACHED

As on the previous day, the demand for cotton offered resistance to selling pressure during the greater part of yesterday's session, but the last hour prices yielded and new low levels were reached toward the close. Weight of the new crop is increasing steadily, but has not yet attained 50 per cent. of the volume under a full movement. Receipts the past week of 273,000 bales compared with about 750,000, the maximum week last season. Dealers in the South have been getting the cotton required for August and early September shipment, leaving a daily surplus which is being hedged in contract markets. Trade orders yesterday were executed on a liberal scale, but during final dealings failed to prevent a loss in prices with final quotations 19 to 24 points lower on the day.

Outside of a few showers in Texas, virtually no rain fell in the cotton belt and no station in any State east of the river reported moisture. As compared with only three stations in Texas that reached 100 degrees, 16 points scattered over Mississippi, Alabama and Georgia reported 100 degrees or above.

Though both Liverpool and New Orleans proved relatively easier than New York during early trading, the combined trade and covering demand furnished resistance to selling pressure here and a slight rally developed. After working off 10 points soon after the opening, absence of sufficient hedging operations by the South to weaken the market started a recovery which advanced December to 23.12, or 4 points above best figures of Thursday. Various interests covered during this rally, but when the upturn was followed by a steady stream of small selling orders from New Orleans and other sources, prices slowly receded during the afternoon. With the week's in sight figures nearly three times those of two weeks ago and with perfect weather conditions throughout the belt for both picking and ginning, outside buying continued limited. The demand for October exerted a steadying influence on later months, but all buying orders were filled without changing the general character of the market.

Later in the session, reports of a lower basis and freer offerings of cotton at the interior, accompanied by heavier hedging operations than was the case during the morning, carried the list into new low territory. December sold at 22.80, with all months closing below the 23 level and at lowest figures of the day. Spot sales aggregated 33,000 bales at a general decline of 25 to 40 points, middling cotton being quoted at 22c. at New Orleans and 21.85 at Mobile.

Week-end figures showed 273,000 bales in sight, compared with 177,000 last year, making 630,000 for the season, against 378,000 last year. Spinners took 145,000, compared with 134,000 a year ago, making 628,000 for the season, against 494,000 last season. The visible supply increased 128,000, compared with 43,000 last year, making the total 1,127,000, compared with 835,000 a year ago.

WHEAT PRICES TAKE A DOWNWARD SWING

Early Bulge Collapses With Rumor That a Leading Short Was About to Cover.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—Wheat prices were on the down-grade today after a short period of strength early when local traders bought rather freely on a tip that a leading local operator would cover his line of short grain. The expected buying failed to develop and later reports of free offerings of Duluth wheat to come here led to selling and a break, with the finish at net losses of 1 to 1⅝c.

Scattered liquidation was on in the September at times, but it was less severe than of late.

Pressure of Spring wheat on the Chicago market is gradually increasing, and according to a local cash handler he could have bought close to 1,000,000 bushels from Duluth today at practically a full working basis if he had so desired.

Cromwell's estimate that Canada would have a total wheat crop of 388,000,000 bushels, compared with 262,000,000 bushels harvested last year, led to some selling of futures today.

Milling and export demand for hard Winters was in evidence here, but sales of only 56,000 bushels were confirmed. St. Louis reported wheat sold to the Gulf at equal to six cents over September.

Foreign news showed little change from that prevailing of late, and the general run of domestic advances was not sufficiently striking in character to cause any material fluctuations. A good part of today's business was of a local character.

Export sales in all positions were estimated at 250,000 bushels, with 50,000 bushels of hard Winter sold at New York at fifteen cents over September and 32,000 bushels at the Gulf at twelve cents over?

Primary arrivals were 1,520,000 bushels; week ago, 1,321,000; last year, 3,138,000. Shipments were 1,004,000 bushels; week ago, 778,000; last year, 1,011,000.

While belated longs in September corn were liquidating there was considerable change in sentiment regarding the new crop deliveries. September closed ½ cent and deferred futures ¼ to ⅝ cent lower.

Oats were ¼ to ½ cent higher, with some buying on account of the relatively low prices.

Primary arrivals of corn were 617,000 bushels; week ago, 805,000; last year, 659,000, and shipments, 726,000 bushels; week ago, 294,000; last year, 263,000.

TWO SOVIET AGENTS HERE DROWN IN LAKE

One, Arriving From Europe Only Three Days Ago, Was Visiting at Long Lake With Other.

Isaiah Hoorgin and George Slansky of this city, representatives of the Soviet Government, were drowned yesterday in Long Lake, N. Y., it was learned last night by friends here, an Associated Press dispatch said. No details of the drowning were received.

Mr. Hoorgin was connected with the Russian Government's purchasing department in New York. Mr. Slansky, who was connected with the woolen department of the Soviet, arrived in New York from Europe only three days ago and had gone with Mr. Hoorgin to Long Lake for a rest.

Mr. Hoorgin was President of the Amtorg Trading Company, which though not acting here as agent for the Soviet Government itself, represented the State Commercial Import and Export Bureau and numerous trade organizations in Russia, the Caucasus and the Ukraine. In England, however, the Amtorg Company acted as the buying and selling agent for the Soviet Government.

The Amtorg Trading Company here resulted from a consolidation of the Arcos-America, Inc., and the Products Exchange Corporation. It was incorporated here in May, 1924, with an authorized capital of $1,000,000. The company placed orders that year in this country for $10,000,000 worth of machinery for delivery in Russia.

Gladstone

A Residential Hotel of Distinction

AT PARK AVENUE

Apartments—one to five rooms, furnished or unfurnished, with full hotel service—available from October 1st

THE whole atmosphere of the Gladstone—its location, its dignity, its peace—is such as to set it apart instantly in the eyes of all who appraise by definite standards of good taste.

Every room exposed to air and sunshine. Closet room more than ample. Character of service and cuisine comparable only to that of the best managed private home. Unequalled floor service recently installed. Ownership management.

The New York Times:

In the exceedingly important field of the education of the American youth the value of a newspaper which confines itself to the publishing of the world's real news and which makes its appeal to the more thoughtful can hardly be overestimated.

The younger student of our century appears to be surfeited with the reading of these "added attractions" which serve only, in the last analysis, to stunt rather than to stimulate the higher powers of the mind, so that we welcome warmly a paper such as The New York Times, devoid of the features that are of no assistance in the student's complete training of heart, head and hand.

WILL SIFT CAUSES OF CHURCH UNREST

OTHER NEWS OF RELIGION

Gov. Smith to Speak Up-State at Ceremonies in Honor of Catholic Martyrs.

The special commission of fifteen "to study the causes of unrest within the denomination," which was created last May in Columbus, Ohio, at the annual General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, will hold its first meeting, beginning Sept. 22, at Atlantic City. Its Chairman is the Rev. Dr. Henry C. Swearingen, pastor of the House of Hope, St. Paul. The only New York City ministerial member is the Rev. Dr. Edgar Whitaker Work. The other members are: Professor Alfred H. Barr of McCormick Theological Seminary, Chicago; the Rev. Dr. Hugh Thompson Kerr of Pittsburgh, the Rev. Dr. Mark A. Matthews of Seattle, Wash.; the Rev. Dr. Lafsley A. McAfee of Berkeley, Cal.; the Rev. Dr. Harry C. Rogers of Kansas City, Mo.; the Rev. Dr. Wilhelm O. Thompson, late the President of Ohio State University; Dr. John M. T. Finney, Baltimore physician, who is Vice Chairman; Judge John H. Dewitt of Nashville, Tenn.; Edward J. Duffield, President of the Prudential Insurance Company of America; Dr. Cheeseman A. Herrick of Philadelphia, Judge Nelson H. Loomis of Omaha, Neb.; Judge Nathan G. Moore of Oak Park, Ill.; Robert E. Speer, Senior Secretary of the Board of Foreign Missions. Dr. Matthews is a rock-ribbed Fundamentalist, as is Dr. McAfee. There is no pronounced Modernist on the commission, although several are credited with having Modernistic leanings.

A meeting of the Committee of Eleven o fthe Presbytery of New York has been called for Sept. 21, at the Central Presbyterian Church, Madison Avenue and Fifty-seventh Street. This committee was created last June "to consider in detail the complaints against the Presbytery made at the last assembly and to confer, if invited, with the General Assembly's Committee." The Chairman is the Rev. Dr. A. Edwin Keigwin, pastor of the West End Church. A new member is the Rev. Dr. Dwight Witherspoon Wylie, pastor of Central Church. The other members are the Rev Dr. William P. Merrill of Brick Church, who has been in Europe all Summer; the Rev. Tertius van Dyke of Park Avenue Church; the Rev. Dr. David G. Wylie, a secretary of the Board of National Missions; the Rev. George J. Russell, pastor of Second Church; Magistrate Norman J. Marsh, Timothy N. Pfeiffer, George H. Richards, Louis L. Tribus and Peter McChesney. Dr. Merrill, Mr. van Dyke and Dr. Richards are Modernists; Drs. Wylie and Russell are Fundamentalists.

The Rev. Dr. Jonah B. Wise, rabbi of Beth Israel Temple, Portland, Ore., is due to begin next month his duties as rabbi of the Central Synagogue, Lexington Avenue and Fifty-fifth Street, this city. He was called here last Spring. He will succeed the Rev. Dr. Stephen S. Wise, rabbi of the Free Synagogue, who, for the last two years served as the rabbi of both local congregations.

Governor Alfred E. Smith will speak Sunday, Sept. 27, at Auriesville, N. Y., when the civic celebration will take place there of the beatification a few weeks ago in Rome of three American martyrs, all of whom were missionaries to the Indians. An invitation has been sent to Cardinal Hayes to deliver an address. The martyrs were Father Jogues, a Jesuit, and René Goupil and John Lalande, two lay companions. Their work centred about Aureisville, where there has been erected the Shrine of Our Lady of Martyrs.

Announcement has just been made of a meeting in July of the Committee on Pastor of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church. Very few of the forty members were present, the majority being out of town. Those present discussed the advisability of calling to the local pastorate the Rev. Dr. Harris Elliott Kirk, pastor of the Franklin Street (Southern) Presbyterian Church, Baltimore. They agreed to postpone any definite action until a subsequent meeting, which it is proposed to hold in October.

The Rev. Dr. David G. Wylie, head of the church building department of the Presbyterian Church, is spending his vacation at Stony Brook, L. I., where he and his family own a cottage.

DOG RESTORED TO BOY.

Magistrate Glatzmayer Contributes a Dollar to Get Pet Out of Pound.

Brought to court on a summons charging her with failing to procure a license for her son's dog. Mrs. Sally Fields, a negress, of 410 East 165th Street, the Bronx, won the sympathy of Magistrate August W. Glatzmayer in Morrisania Court yesterday, when her five-year-old son Frank testified that a dollar would bring the return of the dog to him and save its life. The magistrate handed Frank the dollar and told him he understood the situation fully.

Several days ago, Frank said, his dog Rags was snatched up by an inspector for the S. P. C. A., because the animal had no license. In tears, he told the Court, he visited the Bronx pound, but was told that before he could get his dog back he would be obliged to pay two dollars. Having only a dollar in a penny savings bank he had been unable to get his pet back.

"I know how you feel," Magistrate Glatzmayer said. "Here, take this dollar bill and get your dog at once."

After an absence of nine weeks because of illness, the magistrate returned to court this morning. A short address of welcome was made by Samuel Goldstein, representing the Bronx County Bar Association.

RABBI LEON HARRISON BACK.

Made Bicycle Tour of Spain in Getting Attitude Toward Jews.

Among the passengers to arrive yesterday on the French liner De Grasse was Rabbi Leon Harrison of the Temple Israel in St. Louis. Although he is 60 years old the rabbi has just completed a 600-mile bicycle trip of France, Spain and Italy. He said that he had ridden eight hours daily for seven weeks, seeing many unusual sights.

While in Spain Rabbi Harrison interviewed hundreds of Spanish citizens and officials as to the attitude toward Jews. He said that he found the Spanish people eager to accept the aid of Jewish American industrialists and said they would be only too glad to accept their assistance in the rehabilitation of Spain. He attributes the beginning of Spain's decline to the expulsion of the Jews by the Inquisition.

Dr. W. R. Rittman, who occupies the chair of engineering at the Carnegie Institute of Technology returned on the liner after studying the developments in chemistry and engineering made recently in France, Germany and England. He found that German scientists had made rapid strides in their fields and in many ways were ahead of those in the United States. According to him, one of the most important German discoveries was how to manufacture wood alcohol out of coal. He said the ordinary German people were spending money recklessly.

ANTI-AIRCRAFT GUNS SCORE FIRST HITS

Target Struck Three Times 1,400 Feet From Earth—2,100 Volleys Fired.

The new .50 calibre Browning anti-aircraft machine guns scored their first hits yesterday at Fort Tilden, when a target fifteen feet long, and trailed by a Martin bomber, was struck three times. The gunners, all of Battery F, of the Sixty-second Regiment, United States Coast Artillery, fired 2,100 volleys. The screen target was punctured at an altitude of from 1,400 to 1,500 feet. The range of the marksmen was from 1,000 to 1,200 yards.

This was the second time the guns had been used in practice tests, no hits having been recorded when the first brief tests were made last Tuesday. Colonel M. G. Spinks and other officers in charge of the firing said that the marksmen were becoming more accustomed to the guns. In yesterday's manoeuvres it was conceded by the gunners that the best results could be gained when they fired in bursts of four or five shots. So great was the recoil of the large calibre bullets that volleys of more than five shots at one time made the guns inaccurate and difficult to control. The .30 calibre guns, on the other hand, they declared, were most effective when they fired in bursts of fifteen to twenty shots.

The official tests of the .50 calibre guns will be made at Fort Tilden on Sept. 9. This will end the series of official tests of New York's air defenses.

The members of the Sixty-second Coast Artillery gained an enviable record for marksmanship last Monday when they severed a piano wire at a range of more than two miles in the last practice with 3-inch guns for the year. This lucky shot, which brought down the battalion's fourth target of the season, was recorded after 254 rounds of ammunition had been fired.

The anti-aircraft airplane tests, according to military authorities, have a serious significance in connection with future plans for national defense. It has been aimed to make the tests instructive, rather than competitive, the Coast Artillery Corps and the Air Service being eager to learn just what place anti-aircraft guns and airplanes will occupy in our defense program.
